Navy Releases 1,200 Allied Prisoners

GUAM, Sept 7 [Friday]—(AP)—One thousand two hundred allied prisoners of war, including 89 Americans who underwent the death march on Bataan, were liberated Wednesday and Thursday from Formosa by the United States 7th fleet, the navy announced today.

Others liberated included British veterans who survived the evacuation from Dunkerque only to be caught in defeat at Singapore and undergo the horrors of Japanese imprisonment.

Virtually every prisoner had been forced to labor under sickening conditions. Many bore scars of beatings. One hunderd thirty-nine were in such a deplorable state they could not be evacuated.

Planes Send Message

The rescue began when Rear Adm. Dixwell Ketcham, from his flagship, the escort carrier Block Island, sent planes in parade formation over the battered island.

Messages were dropped to the Japanese commander to send harbor pilots out to meet the destroyer escorts T. J. Gary and Kretchmer, under Comdr. G. H. Johnson, which were standing off Port Kiirun. As the ships entered the port they were covered by air patrols.

Marine Col. A. D. Cooley, Santa Barbara, Cal., gave blunt instructions to the Japanese when they came aboard.

Commandeers a Train

A few days previously, an Avenger torpedo plane, piloted by marine Capt. Dick Johnson, Williamsport, Ind., landed at Matsuyama air field on the outskirts of Taisoku, bearing marine Maj. Peter Folger, San Francisco. The major sought the locations and critical needs of prisoner of war camps around the Formosan city. Frightened Japanese drove Folger in a car to the camps.

Within a short time, swarms of planes from carriers dropped more than 10,000 pounds of supplies. A railroad train, running between Twihoku and Kiirun, was commandeered by Folger. The prisoners, who had taken over the camps after the Aug. 15 truce, piled joyously on the train. At the port, they rushed aboard the carriers Block Island and Santee, where they were given uniforms and fed.

One man's face was misshapen because of a broken jaw inflicted by Japanese guards. The prisoners told of dozens dying of malnutrition. Walking skeletons had been forced to work from dawn to dusk in copper mines and on plantations.

The Japanese camp officials bowed politely and offered tea to the members of the rescue team.

2,800 Near Starvation

WITH THE THIRD FLEET, Tokyo Bay, Sept. 6 (AP)—More than 2,800 allied prisoners of war were near starvation on western Honshu Island before carrier planes and B-29s began parachuting food parcels to them, Adm. Halsey disclosed today. He said army and navy authorities contacted seven major camps and reported "all the internees told virtually the same story—they were near the starvation

Heart Attack Fatal to Chief of Flat Tops

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 6 (AP)—Vice Adm. John Sidney McCain, 61, commander of the famous navy task force No. 38, died of a heart attack in his home in nearby Coronado tonight.

Vice Adm. McCain

Adm. McCain and five members of his staff flew here yesterday after taking part in surrender ceremonies in Tokyo bay.

Earlier today a navy physician reported the admiral was worn out from the strain of the last four months' activities directing his task force, and that he was suffering from a slight cold.

Wife at Admiral's Side

McCain's wife and the physician were at the admiral's side when he died.

McCain had been reported planning to go to Washington Saturday to accept a position in the veterans' administration, directing affairs for naval veterans.

McCain was born at Teoc in Carroll county, Mississippi. He spent one year at the University of Mississippi, before entering the United States Naval academy, from which he was graduated in 1906.

During the first world war, he was on duty aboard the old cruiser San Diego, escorting convoys. Later as lieutenant commander, he was transferred to the bureau of navigation.

He stepped up gradually thru the ranks, and on Sept. 22, 1942, was made chief of the bureau of aeronautics, then later deputy chief of naval operations for air.

McCain, a hard hitting fighter, decided at 50 that he wanted his naval wings and a year later had earned them.

Gets Flattop Action

McCain went from a desk job directly into hot flattop action.

His carrier force helped smash the imperial navy's carrier forces in a great naval battle between the Philippines and Formosa last October, drove the Japanese air force from the Philippines, then swept into the China sea for a series of heavy strikes along the China coast despite foul weather.

Given a short rest, McCain returned to the Pacific last spring—in time for the heavy summer raids which helped knock Japan out of the war.

Took Heavy Toll

From last spring, until the Aug. 15 truce, McCain's task force destroyed or damaged 6,000 Japanese warplanes and sank or damaged 2 million tons of Japanese shipping, including nearly 100 warships ranging from battleships down.

McCain came to be almost as bitter against the Japanese as was his superior at sea, Adm. Halsey.

The navy listed Adm. McCain's survivors as his widow, Catherine; two sons, Comdr. John S. N. Jr. and Gordon, a Pasadena, Cal., attorney, and a daughter, Catherine, in the Red Cross in Cherbourg, France.

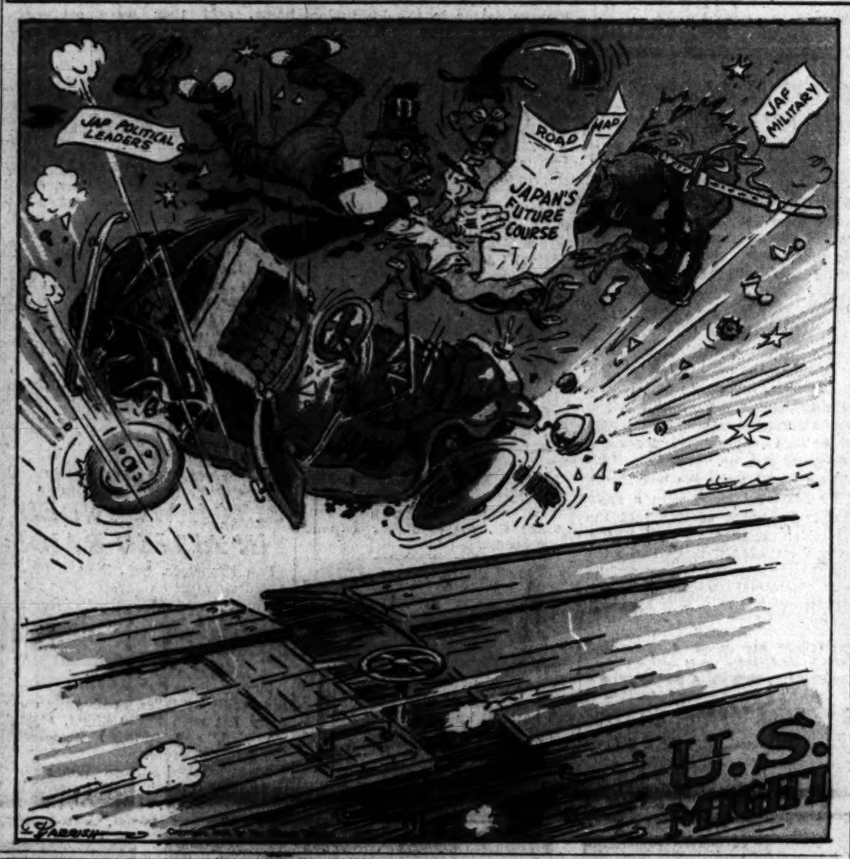
THEY DON'T SEEM TO REALIZE THEY'VE BEEN HIT



BUDDIES FEAST 'GHOST' MARINES

Meet 123 Survivors of Corregidor

YOKOSUKA NAVAL BASE, Sept. 6 (AP)—To the sound of rolling drums and blaring bugles on the parade ground here the reorganized 4th marine regiment today welcomed back its own—the straggling survivors of the famous old 4th marines who won glory by their famous stand at Bataan and Corregidor.

All 4th marine survivors of the Philippine "Alamo" who have been freed from Japanese prison camps and were physically in condition were invited and 123 attended.

First Beer in Three Years

They looked thin but fit in newly issued dungarees. Because of a shortage of shoes many wore sneakers and Japanese split toed shoes.

They were given a heroes' homecoming in the best American style. They gorged on steaks, tomatoes, potatoes, coffee, and oranges while a marine band played the latest jazz tunes for them. Afterward they reviewed a guard mount in their honor and drank their first American canned beer in more than three years. Then they drove back in trucks to ships waiting to convoy them to their homeland.

Their hosts were officers and men of the new 4th marines, reactivated in January, 1944, to carry on the name of the old 4th which protected American interests in the far east from 1927 to 1941 and caught the first full impact of the Japs in the Philippines, where they fought until all were killed, wounded, or surrendered.

"—To the Shores of Tripoli"

As they drove up to this base and alighted from trucks they were met by a huge sign reading: "Welcome, Old Fourth." The band struck up the marine corps hymn, and as the familiar strains rang across the field one returned prisoner began to sob openly.

One former member of the band took turns on the bass horn with his successor, Pvt. Edmund McCue of 2115 S. Ridgeway av., Chicago. He found it difficult after years of imprisonment.

Brig. Gen. William T. Clement of Richmond, Va., a veteran of Corregidor too, greeted them.

"I don't know what to say," said Clement, quietly. "I was out there with you. I got away. You didn't. You are the guys who took the hard knocks of this war. You didn't stop. We are proud to welcome you back. We are glad to have you back in the family—and anything we've got is yours."

War Plants Beating Swords Into Magical Kitchen Tools

BY EDITH WEIGLE

This is the first of a series of stories by the home furnishings editor of The Tribune, who is making a tour of household equipment plants in the middle west to report progress toward peace time production of the housewife's kitchen equipment.

There is going to be a lot of kitchen junk discarded when the new, scientifically designed tools come on the market within the next few months.

And you will think some of your present equipment is just junk when you see the appearance and performance of these post-war items. We visited a large Chicago plant to see the first models of the machine made, volume products that shortly will appear on counters the country over: kitchen spoons, ladles, spatulas, strainers, egg beaters, potato mashers, sugar scoops, forks, whisks, etc. Each piece was the result of Chicago design and engineering and was done with as much precision and accuracy as the manufacture of shell cases, the job this firm carried on during the war years.

Never the Twain Shall Part

Take the stainless steel pancake turner, for example. Instead of the handle being united to the spatula by spot welding, as it was in the past, it is now joined by diffusion welding so that the two never can come apart.

And the egg beater. It has a black plastic handle that looks like ebony, and its stainless steel blades are not round, like the old beaters, but scientifically narrowed so that they come closer to the sides of the bowl when you're whipping cream or eggs, and also cover more of the bottom area. And the whole thing works more easily. That's because it's better made, of better material.

The flint precision can opener, wall type, is the most efficient we've ever seen. It's chromium plated on a die cast frame and as beautifully made as a surgeon's instruments. It remains rigidly in position while you're using it. Just at the end of the process of opening a can it lifts the lid slightly. You don't have to pry it up with a knife, as before.

Made to Last a Lifetime

There is a hand type of can opener which is equally efficient. Both are made to last a lifetime, if given proper care.

A very handsome, medium priced pressure cooker is being made by this company. Of shining aluminum, it's designed so that the top can be removed with one hand! It will cook a chicken in 10 minutes and generates 15 pounds of steam for the process. Only a half cup of water is needed.

And this cooker is made to come to the table, thus saving on dish washing, time, and energy. Simply put on another lid, made for the purpose, and place the cooker on a specially designed standard. It looks like a silver metal casserole.

Stainless steel, copper and chrome are used in skillets, pots, double boilers, and pans. The bottoms are of copper, to spread the heat quickly and evenly, but because copper presents a cleaning problem there is a chrome overlay which is easy to keep shining.

Handles Are Heat Resistant

Only a half inch ring of the copper shows around the sides of the pan. Stainless steel is used for the body and knobs and handles are of heat resistant black plastic.

The handles of the pans and skillets are of a new design, made to avoid slipping or turning in the hand. At the end of each is a metal ring, firmly fixed and always in position for hanging.

Flint hollow ground cutlery, knives sized and shaped to meet every culinary need from paring vegetables to slicing a roast, already is on the market. The kitchen tools and pots and pans will follow in the next few months.

EUROPE SPURNS SWEET POTATO, STIRS SENATOR

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP)—Starving Europeans who turn their noses up at American sweet potatoes aroused the ire of southern congressmen today.

Representatives of the united nations rehabilitation and relief administration, the army quartermaster corps, and other federal agencies were summoned to tell Sen. Overton [D., La.] of difficulties encountered abroad.

Louis Swenson, an executive in UNRRA, told them the folks in Europe just wouldn't eat some American foodstuffs, no matter how hungry they were. This included sweet potatoes of which the south had a large surplus.

"I never heard of such a thing," indignantly stormed Sen. Overton. He said the aristocracy of France who settled in Louisiana ate them.

Rep. Larcade of Louisiana said American soldiers over the world had been forced to eat a lot of things they probably didn't like.

TRUMAN GIVES CONGRESS PLAN FOR THE NATION

21 Point Program Is Outlined

TEXT OF MESSAGE
A partial text of President Truman's message to congress starts on page 12.

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6—President Truman, in an 18,000 word message today, outlined the government's executive and legislative program. The message was exceeded in length only by President Theodore Roosevelt's 20,000 word message in 1901.

Mr. Truman predicted an era of record industrial activity if congress and the administration coöperate in a social and economic program to deal with problems created by the sudden end of the war. He held out little hope for substantial tax reductions but offered many ideas for social legislation.

Outlines His Policies

The President, declaring that reconversion will be "complicated and difficult," declared the administration intends to approach the problem in the "most efficient and speedy" manner and outlined the following policies to be followed by the administration:

1. Demobilize as soon as possible the military forces no longer needed.
2. Cancel and settle war contracts as quickly as possible.
3. Clear the war plants so as to permit contractors to proceed with peacetime production.

Prices to Be Held

4. Hold the line on prices and rents until fair competition can operate to prevent inflation and undue hardship on consumers.
5. Hold wages in line where their increase would cause inflation.
6. Remove all possible wartime government controls.
7. Keep only those controls which are necessary to help reconversion and expansion.
8. Prevent rapid decrease of wage incomes or purchasing power.

21 Point Program

Mr. Truman then outlined to congress a 21 point legislative and executive program which he said should carry the nation thru the reconversion period and into "the greatest peace time industrial activity" in history. The program follows:

1. Unemployment compensation—An immediate federally supported program for increasing state benefits to a maximum of $25 a week for 26 weeks, and extension of unemployment compensation to all federal employes and to maritime workers. This program is in bills before both houses, but faces defeat or drastic revision because of complications in fitting it into existing state programs.
2. Fair labor standards—Revision of the 40 cents an hour minimum to provide for substantial increases.

Continued Controls

3. War time controls—Extension of the second war powers act to permit continuing controls on scarce commodities, including fats and sugar. The President promised, however, that rationing would be lifted as quickly as supplies permit.
4. War powers and government reorganization—Congress should move

Point System Will Release 200,000 Men

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6—The army today announced details of its point discharge system for commissioned officers which it estimated will make 200,000 officers immediately eligible for discharge. The announcement predicted that 600,000 of the army's 800,000 officers will be returned to civilian life by next July 1.

The point discharge plan, which has heretofore been used only for enlisted personnel, will now be applied to officers up to and including the rank of colonel. Points will be figured on the same basis as for enlisted men, but the discharge scores will vary with rank.

Scores for Discharge

Effective immediately, the army said, the initial scores entitling personnel to release, computed as of Sept. 2, 1945, are as follows:

Male officers: colonel, lieutenant colonel, major 100; captain, first and second lieutenant 85; warrant and flight officers 80.

Nurses 65; WAC officers 44; physical therapists, dieticians 41.

Points are awarded as follows: 1 for each month of army service since Sept. 16, 1940; 1 for each month overseas; 5 for each combat award; and 12 for each child under 18, up to a limit of 3 children.

The statement said the critical discharge score will be progressively lowered in the coming months, proportionate to the rate of release of enlisted personnel.

All Treated Alike

It explained that military necessity, the basis on which officers have been discharged since V-E day, is no longer a major factor since Japan's surrender, and that hence the point system, treating all officers alike, with some exceptions, has been invoked.

The army said military necessity will continue to be the governing factor in releasing or retaining certain groups of officer specialists. These men, who will thus not be eligible for point discharges, are:

Those in the transportation corps who are highway traffic engineers, water division superintendents, or legal officers with admiralty law experience; officers and warrant officers who have experience or training in contract termination and property disposal; officers and warrant officers trained or experienced in statutory renegotiation; and civil affairs or military government officers who are assigned to occupied territories or in training.

Orders Sent to All Areas

Officers on the above list may be retained in the army only for a maximum of six months after they have enough points to make them eligible for release, the army said.

The army said directives have been sent to all theaters and commands ordering that all officers qualified for discharge under scores announced today be reported for separation within 60 days.

Officers eligible for discharge on the basis of points who want to stay on active duty will be required to sign a statement that they will stay in the army for the duration of the war "emergency" plus six months, unless relieved earlier.

N. Y. Police Head Retires to Be Chief on Radio Show

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—Lewis J. Valentine, who advanced from a cop on a beat to commissioner of New York City's 15,000 man police force, retired today to become "chief investigator-commentator" on a radio show dealing with crime. The American Broadcasting company announced Valentine will receive $50,000 a year. As commissioner he received $12,500.

SENATE VOTES FULL PROBE OF PEARL HARBOR

Covers All Phases of Pacific War

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6—A Pearl Harbor investigation, broadened as a result of Republican suggestions to authorize an unlimited inquiry into the causes and consequences of the war with Japan, was given swift and unanimous approval by the senate today.

The measure was sent to the house, where prompt consideration next Monday or Tuesday was promised by Speaker Rayburn [D., Tex.]. Overwhelming passage is assured. The resolution provided for prompt action and a report to congress by Jan. 3.

Covers Vast Field

As presented by Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.], the resolution might have confined the investigation to a survey of events leading up to the Pearl Harbor attack alone. Amendments proposed by Senators Ferguson and Vandenberg [R., Mich.] and agreed to by Barkley widened the scope of the probe.

A vast field, covering events of the last 15 years, beginning with the Japanese invasion of Manchurja, thus will be covered by the committee of five senators and five representatives set up in the senate resolution. The enlarged scope of the legislation also insures examination of conditions preceding the Japanese attacks on the Philippines, Wake Island, and Guam.

Barkley Bars Favoritism

Senate passage was accompanied by a pledge from Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.] that the investigation would be conducted without partisanship or favoritism toward "any responsible official, military, naval, or civilian, high or low, living or dead."

Barkley, who introduced his own resolution to forestall action on a Republican proposal by Sen. Ferguson, asserted that President Truman not only approved the investigation but urged it.

Mr. Truman, at a press conference later, confirmed this statement and said his only purpose was to get the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. He said it was apparent the army and navy reports had not satisfied congress and the people.

The majority leader accepted Republican amendments to his resolution before passage which, he said, would permit the investigation of all happenings prior to the Jap attack on Dec. 7, 1941, and afterward—"anything that throws light on it anywhere in the world, in Washington, in Japan and in the Pacific."

Calls Issue "Clouded"

In a subsequent speech, Sen. Ferguson said congress and the American people were aware that the reports of the army board and the navy court of inquiry suppressed substantial portions of the evidence and left the issue "clouded."

"The military and naval inquiries left these details out not on their own motion but under orders from the secretary of war and secretary of navy," he declared. "There may have been a reason for omitting this testimony during the war; there is certainly no reason for hiding it now.

"It has been noted that neither report makes any criticism of the secretaries but that the army report goes out of its way to castigate the secretary of state, Cordell Hull, who had no hand in appointing the judges."

Roosevelt Not Mentioned

While the name of the late President Roosevelt was not mentioned in the debate, the remarks of Barkley, Ferguson, and several other senators indicated clearly an awareness that only a congressional inquiry could be expected to fix responsibility upon Mr. Roosevelt, if the evidence brings it out.

House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts said an attempt would be made to amend the Barkley resolution to insure a completely nonpolitical, nonpartisan inquiry. Barkley had proposed the appointment of three Democrats and two Republicans from the senate and the same proportion in the house.

Martin urged the selection of six members from each house, equally divided between the majority and

Chicagoan to Take $500,000 Gift

Esper A. Petersen, 42, Chicago manufacturer who has prospered so that he set up a foundation for giving away $70,000 this year, will sail from Baltimore, Md., today bound for his native Denmark with approximately 300,000 garments for women and children.

It will be his second return trip since he left Denmark at the age of 20 with little money and education and no knowledge of English. On this trip approximately half a million dollars worth of clothing to relieve this winter's suffering will go with him.

Fortune from Die Molds

The Chicagoan made his fortune making dies for molding plastics and owns the million dollar plant of the Chicago Die Mold Manufacturing company at 4001 Wrightwood av. It houses the business that was started in 1936 in an Oak Park garage. Busier than ever in the last few years with war orders, Petersen never forgot his people in the old country.

He started organizing the clothing drive in August, 1943. With funds from American-Denmark relief and from private contributions—Petersen gave $25,000—yard goods were bought. The cutting was done in Chicago and then the pieces were shipped out to depots thruout the country to be sewed by Danish-American women.

Good Will Foundation Set Up

Petersen will sail on the Benny Skou, a ship chartered by the Danish government. When he gets to Denmark he will visit his father and mother, eight brothers and sisters, and 42 nieces and nephews. He's a bachelor.

Petersen's home is at 5036 N. Springfield av.

minority parties. In this manner, any suspicion of partisanship would be removed, he declared.

The resolution carries an appropriation of $25,000 for expenses of the investigation.

Barkley took the floor as soon as the senate session opened. He said he had studied the report in January, 1942, of the Pearl Harbor commission headed by Supreme Court Justice Roberts and the army and navy reports made public last week.

"After studying them, I am convinced that a further searching inquiry should be made under the authority and by direction of the congress," he said. "The reports thus far are confusing and conflicting and contain contradictions and inconsistencies among themselves.

Confusion Not Strange

"It is not strange that widespread confusion and suspicion prevail among the American people and members of congress. Congress itself must make its own thoro, impartial, and fearless inquiry into the facts and circumstances and conditions prior to and at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack.

"This inquiry should be of such dignity and authenticity as to convince the congress, the country and the world that no effort has been made to shield any person who may have been directly or indirectly responsible for the disaster or to condemn unfairly or injustly any person who was in authority, military or naval or civilian.

"It must be an open, public investigation, conducted in an atmosphere of judicial responsibility, so complete and so fair that no person could doubt the good faith of the report and the findings.

"It should not be conducted for the purpose of casting aspersions upon any one nor should it be conducted for the purpose of whitewashing any person who may have been guilty of wrongdoing. It should look solely to the ascertainment of cold, unvarnished, indisputable facts.

"I offer this resolution with the full knowledge and approval of the President."

Sen. Ferguson noted that the latest army and navy findings had added to the list of the accused "names still more eminent than those of Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short, the commanding officers at Hawaii."

Skips Over Committee

"As matters now stand," he remarked, "Adm. Stark, chief of naval operations at the time, and Gen. Marshall, who led our armies thru the great struggle, and former State Secretary Hull, have been held to share in the guilt of the defeat. The American sense of fair play demands that the confusion be cleared away. The procedure thus far violates the fundamental principle of the right of the accused to a fair trial with the opportunity to present his side in public."

Ferguson then proposed immediate passage of the Barkley resolution without waiting for its indorsement by a committee. Sen. Taft, [R., O.] inquired if the measure was broad enough to go into all the policies which led up to the war and Barkley replied that it clearly authorized the committee to go as far back as the Japanese invasion of Manchuria.

Language Modified

At the suggestion of Sen. Vandenberg, the language of the resolution was then modified to call for "a full and complete investigation of all facts and circumstances relating to and following the Japanese attack" which, it was noted, would permit inquiry into the assaults upon the Philippines and other Pacific outposts.

The resolution gives the committee authority to subpena all papers and documents in the government's possession. President Truman, asked by reporters if the deleted portions of the army and navy reports would be given to the committee, answered in the affirmative. Congress had the right to all testimony available, he remarked.

KURUSU DENIES HE WAS BAIT FOR JAP SNEAK RAID

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 6 (AP)—Saburo Kurusu, Japanese special envoy, who was discussing peace in Washington, D. C. at the moment of the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, was quoted today as contending that he knew nothing of the raid plans and was "deeply hurt" by the American accusation that he was bait for the trap.

Frederick C. Opper, American Broadcasting company correspondent, also quoted Kurusu as reiterating:

"I did not know anything about the attack on Pearl Harbor before I left Tokyo. As a matter of fact, I found Prime Minister Tojo more optimistic about chances for peace than I was. I told him I thought things were very precarious in the Pacific and when I met President Roosevelt a little later I told him the same thing—that a single spark could start war in the Pacific."

Prisoners Compensate Japs Hit by Air Bundles

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 6 (AP)—American prisoners of war have sent gifts of cash, flowers and food as compensation to Japanese families bereaved by the deaths of several persons hit by bundles of plane-dropped American supplies, the Domei agency said today. One family in Kyushu received 2,000 yen "as a token of sympathy," Domei said; another received 400 yen, floral wreaths, and canned goods—plus an American delegation at the funeral.

FIREMEN REVIVE WOMAN, 70

Firemen of rescue squad 7, who worked for an hour under supervision of Lt. George Mengels, revived Mrs. Fannie Altman, 70, of 3753 Arthington st. yesterday after she suffered a heart attack.

MacARTHUR WILL HOIST U.S. FLAG IN TOKYO TODAY

1st Cavalry to Enter from Various Points

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 7 [Friday]—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur, at the head of 15,000 troops, will unfurl the American flag over the ruins of Tokyo tomorrow [Friday, United States time], signaling a swift occupation of Japan.

Within a week thereafter United States soldiers will stand guard in the railway city of Sendai, 190 miles north of the capital, and a week later will occupy Honshu's west coast and northern shores.

Combat patrols yesterday began poking thru the rubble that air onslaughts left of Tokyo. They were from the vanguards of the 1st cavalry division, first to enter Manila and now to be granted the honor of being the first into Tokyo.

7th Is Honor Regiment

The 1st cavalry's 7th regiment was designated as the honor regiment to open Saturday's occupation. It was the old 7th regiment under Gen. Custer which fought at the battle of the Little Bighorn.

In competition Wednesday, F troop, commanded by Lt. John W. Feeley, Saginaw, Mich., was selected from the 2d battalion to be the honor guard for MacArthur.

Both the 7th and 8th regiments will march.

Occupy 40 Square Miles

The supreme commander will raise over his new quarters in the American embassy in Tokyo the American flag that flew over Washington's capitol that day of Pearl Harbor and which has flown over Rome and Berlin.

Domei News agency said the first troops will enter Tokyo at 6 a. m. Saturday [4 p. m. Friday, Chicago time] and will consist of service units and general headquarters personnel. Headquarters said the dismounted cavalrymen would enter at a number of points from their positions which now half encircle Tokyo.

They will occupy at the outset 40 of Tokyo's 200 square miles, where Japanese police will be stationed to keep an eye on the populace.

32,000 Already There

With nearly 32,000 troops of the 11th airborne and 1st cavalry already in the Tokyo-Yokohama area, other units either were on the way or ready to come until the occupation forces reach a strength of 18 combat divisions. As new units arrive the first occupation troops will move farther inland.

The 11th airborne, first to set foot in Japan, will move by rail, ship, truck, and afoot to Sendai, on Honshu's east coast. A week later the 27th division will go to the west coast port of Niigata, 160 miles northwest of Tokyo.

The 81st division and the 9th corps are expected to land about Sept. 17 for the occupation of Aomori, a port of 100,000 population on the northern tip of Honshu. The 77th division, arriving some time later, will occupy the Island of Hokkaido.

32d on Kyushu

Units of the 32d division already have landed on the southern Island of Kyushu, and more will follow. The 7th division has been marked for the occupation of Korea.

The 1st and 27th divisions were expected to arrive here today, the 9th and 14th corps are expected Sept. 17, and the 38th division and the 158th combat team will land later.

The American occupation troops will include air and naval forces, headquarters said.

Breaking down the list of 3,000,000 Japanese who will be disarmed in the home islands, a spokesman said that at the time of the Manila conference they were deployed in this manner:

Three divisions in the Tokyo-Yokohama occupation area, plus 250,000 naval personnel in the Yokosuka naval district.

Million in China

Seventeen divisions and four brigades in the Honshu plain north and west of Tokyo; four divisions in northern Honshu and four brigades in Osaka, southwest of Tokyo.

Fourteen divisions and five brigades on Kyushu.

Four divisions on the southern home Island of Shikoku.

Three divisions on Hokkaido.

The complete disposition of the 4,000,000 enemy troops outside Japan was not given, but it included 1,000,000 in China, 600,000 in Manchuria, 360,000 in Korea, 250,000 in Formosa, plus troops in Indo-China, Siam, New Guinea, and the other islands.

By mid-October, MacArthur estimated, 7,000,000 Japanese soldiers will be disarmed.

Naval Base to Give Up

A Japanese naval party was due to board an American warship today off the northern coast of Honshu to arrange for the surrender of the Ominato naval base to Vice Adm. Frank Fletcher's 9th fleet.

A big convoy of American troops was ready to land in southern Korea, where preliminary airborne detachments were preparing the way on the coast 25 miles west of Seoul [Keijo], the capital.

An estimated 139,000 Japanese in New Guinea, New Ireland, the Solomons, and other nearby islands surrendered yesterday to the Australians, and arrangements were being made for an early capitulation in the Celebes, Timor, and British and Dutch Borneo.

Balky at Singapore

SINGAPORE, Sept. 6 (AP)—Japanese troops retreating from Singapore Island across Johore causeway showed reluctance today to disarm their own military guard under the surrender terms, insisting that Japanese commodities, stores, and civil administration needed "protection."

Looting has been prevalent in Chinese populated areas, but allied authorities warned today that it would be punished by death. An allied announcement said the surrendering Japanese garrison at Singapore totaled 85,000 men, including 85 generals and an undetermined number of admirals.

10,000 Give Up on Luzon

MANILA, Sept. 7 [Friday]—(AP)—Ten thousand Japanese troops in northern Luzon's Cagayan valley were surrendered Wednesday before 1,000 American doughboys, who were present on the insistence of their commander, Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler of the 37th division.

"They did the fighting and they deserve to see the finish," said Beightler.

80,000 KILLED IN KOBE BY 2 B-29 FIRE RAIDS

KOBE, Sept. 6 (AP)—Between 80,000 and 100,000 Japanese were killed in two devastating fire raids which nearly leveled Kobe, neutral sources said today.

This city of 900,000 or more—Japan's chief port before the war—now is a flattened ruin of steel and brick, with only the dock area and nearby warehouses undamaged. In the heart of the city, which extends for 23 miles, the only buildings remaining intact are a few earthquake proof structures, an occasional bank, two or three department stores and a fireproof theater.

The first heavy strike last March 17 by B-29s coincided with a snow storm. Prisoners of war said the population ran in panic for the hills. Many were caught by jellied gasoline in circular slit trenches around their communal factory dwellings. The second fire raid, also by B-29s, was on June 5.

REVEALS YANKS WON CORAL SEA BY SOLVING CODE

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 6 (AP)—Australian Defense Minister John Albert Beasley said today that the Americans "cracked" a Japanese naval code and thus won the victory of the Coral sea in May, 1942. Beasley made his statement in a political speech.

While Gen. MacArthur has credited the Coral sea battle with saving Australia from invasion, Beasley said in his opinion the Japanese were balked by the battles of Milne bay and the Owen Stanley mountains in New Guinea.

Beasley said he had sent a message to MacArthur yesterday asking that all Australian forces in the Tokyo area be marshaled for a victory parade Sunday, saying, "we must demonstrate to the Japanese that Australians rank with major peoples of the world. That is why we insisted on our place at the surrender ceremony in Tokyo bay."

CAPITAL TO HAIL WAINWRIGHT AS 4-STAR GENERAL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP)—The senate approved four star rank today for Jonathan M. Wainwright who won time for America in the defense of Corregidor.

His promotion from lieutenant general to full general was confirmed only one day after President Truman submitted it.

On Monday, the senate and house will pay him personal tribute in a joint session.

Flying home from the Pacific, the general will arrive here at 12:30 p. m. that day and will receive a White House welcome before his trip to the capitol.

The ceremonies will put the last touch on a meteoric shift of fortunes.

Prisoner Month Ago

Less than a month ago the general was a prisoner of the Japanese in Manchuria, the butt of indignity and brutality. Since then have come swift liberation, triumphant flight to Tokyo where he was a principal in the general Japanese surrender and then, most satisfying of all, a full turn of the tables as he personally accepted capitulation of Japanese forces in the Philippines where he was captured more than three years ago.

The swiftness of the reversal that has brought Skinny Wainwright to the top rung of the ladder was emphasized in an interview today in San Francisco. There Maj. Gen. Albert N. Jones told newsmen of conditions in a prison camp for high ranking officers in Krenkow, Formosa.

"It was the camp where the Nips slapped and beat Skinny Wainwright and Percival [British general]," Jones said.

Slapped, Forced to Pray

"We worked and starved. We were stripped in parade. We were slapped in public. We were forced to pray three times a day to the emperor. We were made to bow to Jap privates and Jap civilians."

The White House announced the general will be accompanied by Mrs. Wainwright and officers who were captured and liberated with him.

In San Francisco Sunday, Gen. Wainwright will personally lead San Francisco's victory parade up Market st., Mayor Roger Lapham announced.

REPORTS BOEING WILL MAKE NEW HEAVY BOMBER

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 6 (AP)—A new heavy bomber, "presumably a bigger and better version" of the B-29, will be built by the Boeing Aircraft company when it resumes production, Sen. Magnuson [D., Wash.] told the Times today by telephone.

Officials at the company, which shut down suddenly last night when its production program was cut back by the war department, said they could not comment on the senator's revelation that a new bomber, which he termed the B-44, exists.

The Times quoted Magnuson as saying the army air force "fully intends to keep Boeing going as the only supplier of the army's large planes."

The senator estimated the company's peace time pay roll would be 7,000 to 8,000. It had 29,300 workers when the shutdown was announced.

JAPS WRAP WIRE ABOUT NECKS OF WAKE CAPTIVES

Banquet Them, Then Beat Them

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 6 (AP)—The Japanese victors on Wake Island bayoneted all wounded prisoners to death and then heartily banqueted the survivors for two weeks in an effort to pry American military secrets from them, liberated marine and civilian prisoners from Wake said here today.

Japanese intelligence officers and secret police questioned them steadily for 14 days of feasting during which they were given such war time rarities as breaded veal cutlets, butter, and milk, they said.

The Nipponese wanted to know about American plane types, pilot tactics, codes, and communications setups.

Ask About Midway

They were particularly concerned with the island of Midway, where six months later they took a sea beating that was one of the turning points of the war. The questioners expressed belief the Americans had some sheltered secret passage into the island.

The four marines and 10 civilians who arrived from Suwa camp, seven hours by rail from Yokohama, said they were captured Christmas eve of 1941. They were stripped of clothing, their hands were tied behind their backs, and they were lashed together with wires twisted around their necks, they said. More than 1,500 were jammed together in a small underground plane hangar.

Beaten by Guards

After the period of feasting, during which the enticement failed to bring the Nipponese the desired information, the prisoners were shipped off to prison camps.

At the various camps their guards beat them without the slightest provocation, they said. They were forced to work 14 days for every day of rest they had. Their food was principally watery soup and small portions of rice.

A particularly brutal guard, Corp. Watanabe, who delighted in slugging prisoners with a rifle butt, fled to the hills after the Japanese surrender, they reported.

241,309 JAPS DIE, 313,041 WOUNDED IN ALLIED RAIDS

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 6 (AP)—Allied air raids on Japan killed 241,309 and wounded 313,041, the Domei agency said today in a broadcast. Domei reported that the 554,350 casualty total was announced at Wednesday's diet session.

Metropolitan Tokyo, fire bombed repeatedly by B-29s, headed the casualty list with 88,250 killed, 61,306 wounded, and 2,578,000 homeless, the broadcast said.

Atom bombed Hiroshima was second: 49,221 dead, 58,839 wounded, 359,000 homeless. Nagasaki, second atom bombing target, lost 21,501 killed, 51,580 wounded, with 204,960 homeless.

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 7 [Friday]—(AP)—One thousand wives and babies, the largest party of American service men's brides to leave Australia for the United States, will sail from Brisbane shortly. United States army officials, who, with Red Cross workers arranged for the trip, said hundreds more Australian brides are awaiting priorities. Besides, 1,500 fiancees are waiting in New South Wales and 5,000 in Australia.

U. S. MERCY SHIP OFF YOKOHAMA TRUE TO NAME

Evanston Man Executive of Benevolence

BY ROBERT CROMIE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Sept. 6—A visit aboard the navy hospital ship Benevolence, which was commissioned only last May, is pleasant from the insight it gives into the expert, warm hearted care which the wounded and sick receive.

The Benevolence left the United States in mid-June to participate in the invasion and is now anchored in Yokohama harbor within a few yards of a foundered Jap flattop.

According to Lt. Comdr. Jack E. Clark, the ship's executive officer, the Benevolence, complete with equipment, cost about $30,000,000. She is more than 500 feet long and carries a crew of 600, plus 80 officers and nurses. She can accommodate 800 patients easily.

Comdr. Clark, whose mother, Mrs. George W. Clark, lives at 1311 Chicago av., Evanston, Ill., graduated from Northwestern university in 1934 and worked for Cities Service Oil company.

Writer Tours Ship

We were taken on a tour of the 15,000 ton ship, thru the immaculate operating rooms, dental offices, X-ray rooms, the optical department, and the spacious, comfortable wards, where each bed is equipped with a reading lamp and head phones for radio programs.

In addition, the latest motion pictures, libraries, jigsaw puzzles, games, and two American Red Cross girls are available on the ship to do what they can to help the patients' various problems.

The menus aboard range from roast turkey to ice cream, of which the rescued prisoners of war eat gallons. Most of them also bring aboard K rations picked up after being dropped by Super Forts over prison camps. They use the rations as between-meal snacks.

Lt. Comdr. Clark N. Cooper, Waterloo, Ia., assistant chief surgeon, said as a rule rescued B-29 officers and men were in the worst shape, even worse than the long term prisoners. The only man to die aboard the Benevolence among released prisoners was a B-29 pilot suffering from malnutrition, beriberi, and the results of severe beatings. Dr. Cooper said there were almost no psychiatric cases. However, prisoners told him that the Japs bayoneted or shot many whose nerves had cracked.

Gains 18 Pounds in Six Days

He added that the rate of weight gained was amazing, and cited the case of one boy who put on 18 pounds in six days of hearty eating.

At least four men, longtime residents of Jap prison camps, have gone virtually blind from the effects of malnutrition. Others have suffered some retinal impairment altho in their cases it may be temporary.

Lt. [j. g.] Robert Ticknor, Benton Harbor, Mich., said four men so far out of perhaps 1,700 examined have been found who can count fingers held within three feet of their eyes, but who can see little else and who, in his opinion, can never be helped.

Comdr. M. A. Jacobson, in charge of the ship's laboratory work and a graduate of Purdue university, said almost all recovered prisoners have indications of anemia, altho this, in most cases, is quickly curable. Dr. Jacobson, whose wife lives at 5421 Ingleside av., Chicago, formerly had a laboratory in the Marshall Field Annex building. The work in his department includes tissue analyses, all blood work, and drinking water analyses. His research equipment is equal to the best anywhere in the United States, complete to eight rabbits, 20 guinea pigs, and 200 white mice.

Other midwesterners aboard the Benevolence include Lt. [j. g.] Ruth Coppedge, an army nurse, whose sister, Mrs. Richard Anderson, lives at 3428 Hirsch av., Chicago. She is a graduate of Michael Reese hospital. Another is Lt. Comdr. Paul Van Verst, River Forest, Ill., a former Oak Park, Ill., obstetrician, now in surgery.

Polish Reporter Fined on British Money Violation

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 6—A Polish war correspondent, M. M. Feldhuzen, was assessed $220 today for bringing $2,400 of British currency into this country from Brussels, in defiance of defense regulations. The treasury confiscated the money.

MANILA PUPPET CHIEF READY FOR DEATH IF GUILTY

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 6 (AP)—Jose Laurel, who was president of the Japanese puppet government in the Philippines, was quoted today by CBS correspondent Felix Bustos as saying, "If our people decide I was guilty of disloyalty and treason I am ready to be shot."

Bustos said he had located Laurel at Nara, near the ancient city of Kyoto, where he set up a refugee government after a perilous journey to Japan last June.

Laurel contended his case should be a test on the collaboration issue. "If the commonwealth government contemplates to try leading leaders of the Philippines who participated in the republic for their acts," Bustos quoted Laurel in an interview, "I submit that they be spared that responsibility and try me instead, first and solely."

point in the first week in August, just before the food drops began."

8,000 Freed in Japan

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 6 (AP)—Liberation of allied prisoners of war from the Japanese home islands was one-fourth completed today. Headquarters of Lt. Gen. Eichelberger's 8th army announced that 3,000 more American, British, Australian, and Dutch prisoners had been brought from prison camps to make the total released approximately 8,000.

About 32,500 prisoners were held by the Japanese in the home islands.

As some Japanese officials complained that the American press is staging an atrocity campaign, an American officer, who had visited the camps officially, told correspondents "the picture isn't nice."

Burn Incense on Hands

"In one place the Japanese accused prisoners of stealing Red Cross packages from a warehouse," said the officer, Lt. Norman Churchill of Toledo, O.

"I saw 20 men with ugly scars made by the Japs by burning incense on their fists as they held their arms out before them. If they dropped the incense they were beaten. Three prisoners were placed on their backs and held down by guards standing on their arms and legs while incense was burned on their stomachs."

Churchill said treatment of prisoners improved greatly about the time the Japanese decided to capitulate.

British Tell of Atrocities

MANILA, Sept. 6 (AP)—Six British officers and 35 men, captured by the Japanese at Hong Kong, established an espionage system which succeeded in communicating with Chungking and New Delhi from prison, with the help of Chinese, but three of them paid with their lives for the feat, one of the plotters disclosed today.

He was Sub-Lt. Joseph Haddock, naval officer from Ipswich, England, who was among 320 liberated Hong Kong prisoners who arrived here yesterday aboard the British hospital ship Oxfordshire.

Haddock said he was sentenced to 15 years in prison and subjected to water-torture which almost drowned him.

Many of the prisoners told of torture and brutality by the Japanese.

Haddock and several others reported that almost all of the Red Cross packages reaching camps in the Hong Kong area were confiscated by the Japanese.

112 Yanks at Singapore

SINGAPORE, Sept. 6 (AP)—More survivors of the United States cruiser Houston and of the 131st field artillery regiment have been liberated from Japanese prison camps in Singapore. In all, 112 Americans, of whom 22 are civilians, have been released.

PORT DAIREN, Manchuria, Sept. 7 [Friday]—(AP)—This 7th fleet naval task unit was anchored at Dairen today awaiting word from United States naval prisoners of war reported to be in the vicinity of Mukden. Evacuation of the group, believed to include men of high rank captured on Guam and Corregidor, is expected to be accomplished this week.

CAMERA, CIGARETS STOLEN

1,000 JAP ATROCITY CASES ARE PREPARED FOR TRIAL IN MANILA

MANILA, Sept. 6 (AP)—Several thousand Japanese have been named in 1,000 atrocity cases prepared for trial, Col. Alva Carpenter, head of the war crimes branch of Gen. MacArthur's staff, announced today.

Col. Carpenter of Fort Wayne, Ind., said the many cases were all against military personnel ranging from lieutenant generals to privates. They originated in New Guinea, the southwest Pacific islands, and the Philippines.

"Our depositions and photographic evidence are so complete that I don't think we will need witnesses in most cases," he said. The crimes fall into three categories: crimes against peace, involving persons who planned the war; violations of the rules of war, including ill treatment of prisoners and slaughter of hostages; and crimes against humanity, covering slave labor, deportation of civilians, and rape.

U. S. PLANES FLY 80,000 CHINESE FROM WAR ZONE

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 6 (AP)—The greatest air borne movement of troops in Asiatic history got under way today when United States army planes began to transport 80,000 Chinese soldiers and their equipment to the east coastal provinces of China. The operation probably will require 40 days.

The first contingent of China's American equipped 6th army, which won battle honors in northern Burma, took off on the 650 mile journey to liberated Nanking from the United States air base at Chihkiang, in western Hunan. China's 94th army waited at Liuchow, Kwangsi, in anticipation of the 900 mile trip to Shanghai, scheduled to begin Sunday.

Driblets of Chinese soldiers reached Nanking yesterday by air, but today's operations marked the official beginning of what experts describe as the most complex air borne movement of troops ever undertaken.

R. A. F. MOSQUITO FLIES ATLANTIC IN 7 HRS. 2 MINS.

LONDON, Sept. 6 [Reuters]—The British air ministry announced tonight that the fastest recorded east to west Atlantic crossing was made by a royal air force Mosquito today when it flew from England to Newfoundland, about 2,300 miles, in 7 hours and 2 minutes. It was believed to have knocked five hours off the previous best time for the east to west crossing. The plane averaged 325 miles an hour.

U. S. AIR POWER, NOT ATOM, BEAT JAPAN: SPAATZ

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 6 (AP)—Gen. Spaatz, commanding general of the strategic air forces in the Pacific, said today that air task forces and not the atomic bomb brought Japan to her knees. He said, in an interview, that the United States must maintain land bases for her air might in order to make Japan keep the peace.

The Marianas and Saipan based B-29s had wrought tremendous damage before the atomic bomb was unleashed on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. He called "absurd" the "idea of any fleet in the world going up against efficient land based aviation."

GIs COME OUT OF GEISHA HOUSE WEE BIT WISER

'What Do You Know!' 3 Adventurers Mumble

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Sept. 5—In the rolling hills out on the edge of town is a cluster of homes of rich Japanese. The wide lawns and gardens, now neglected, protected them from incendiary bombs. On the highest knoll rises an oriental structure, fancy and delicate. It is the Wisteria Dragon.

The Wisteria Dragon has been quiet lately. The Japanese haven't been going there much because there hasn't been much to celebrate. The Wisteria Dragon, you understand, is a house where geisha girls live.

[Geisha girls are professional singers and dancers.]

Three American soldiers discovered the Wisteria Dragon. Being inquisitive and adventurous, they walked up the flagstone path, pulled open the sliding door, and entered.

Jap Woman Appears

The floors were glistening black. Prints covered the walls.

A Japanese woman in a flowered kimono appeared.

"Yes?" she asked in English. If the appearance of Americans surprised her she didn't show it.

The trio, never having been in a geisha house before, didn't know quite how to begin until one of them, more enterprising, asked what entertainment was to be had as the Americans had cause to celebrate.

The woman bowed, told them to take off their shoes, gave them sandals, and led them into a large room. "Where are the entertainers?" the soldiers asked.

A geisha girl appeared with tiny cups of warm sake. The trio drank, smacked their lips, and drank some more. "Bring on the girls," they said.

The woman slipped from the room. The GIs marked her absence with more sake. When she returned three round faced Japanese girls in kimonos and sandals, great combs in their hair and fans in their hands, followed her. One girl sat at the side of each GI.

Just Like a Fairy Story

"Gee, just like in a fairy story," said one of the soldiers.

After about three more rounds of sake—the girls taking turns sipping from the GIs' glasses—a battery of serving girls brought soup, and then some eggy dish. This was followed by some foods which, to the Americans, were unidentifiable, but which they ate because their partners gave them fancy names. The girls spoke in Japanese and the Americans in English but everybody got along just dandy.

Somewhere during the dinner the lady in charge came back with some kimonos for the GIs. Being polite, they slipped them over their uniforms. In time all the crockery was cleared away except the sake cups.

The girls rose to their feet and began to chant. The GIs looked around and there, by gosh, was another girl in a kimono. She was barefooted, and was dancing. It was a dance like they had never seen before—and these guys had been around, too.

The soldiers clapped and the three girls joined the dancer, becoming oriental versions of the Rockettes. The GIs thought it looked like fun, so they joined, and pretty soon every one was flitting about, whooping and hollering.

That brought back the lady in charge. She told the GIs to follow her. They went down some steps, along a hall where fountains played, and entered a tiled room containing a miniature swimming pool of steaming water. She left them and a Japanese man took over. He undressed the soldiers and put them in the overgrown tub to soak.

Cleaner than they had been since they entered the army, they put their dirty clothes back on and went back to the room where the girls were. The dancer had vanished.

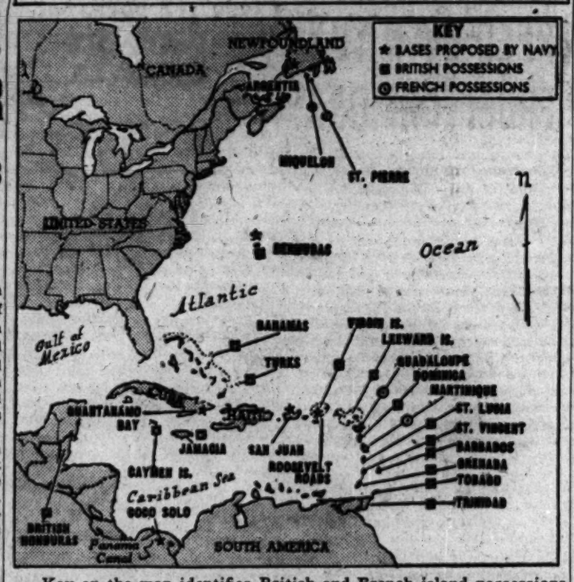
"What next?" inquired the GIs.

And what happened then?

The woman came back, took their kimonos, gave them back their shoes, and said that $20 would be fine, and showed them to the door.

"Well, what do you know," the GIs said as they walked down the flagstone path and back into the world of reality.

Proposed as War Debt Payments



Key on the map identifies British and French island possessions in the Atlantic and Caribbean area. Rep. Randolph has proposed acquisition of them in payment of war debts for use as United States naval bases.

Asks Allies Pay U. S. with Isles

Sigh of Relief

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 7 [Friday] — Printing extracts from President Truman's references to lend-lease in his message to congress, the British press this morning breathed a sigh of relief at the word that there will be an interim lend-lease deal, but cautioned the United States against levying a claim on Britain for the billions it already owes under the "vital war measure."

A request for bases instead of cash may be made by America, said the Washington correspondent of the Daily Herald. The organ of the Labor party said Truman's desire for settlements that will contribute to America's national security "suggests that there may be demands for ceding bases if not British territories off the United States coasts. It is not without significance that voices again are being raised that the Americans should take over Bermuda."

The Times found satisfaction editorially in Mr. Truman's recognition of the "immediate pressing necessities of other nations." Hailing his message as "firm and even courageous" the Times complimented his refusal to remove American export controls, priorities and rationing while Europe and other distressed war areas still need food, clothes, and shipping.

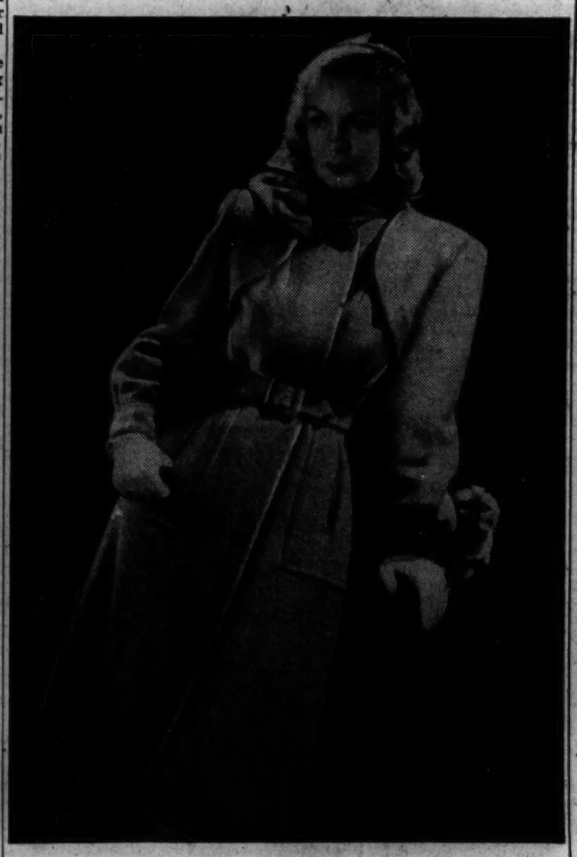
Debt Settlement Sought

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP)—Proposals that the British and French pay off their war debts to the United States by giving us several Atlantic islands were introduced in congress today by Rep. Randolph [D., W. Va.]. The move followed a navy announcement recommending permanent American bases in both the Atlantic and Pacific.

Randolph introduced two bills, each requesting President Truman to begin negotiations with the nations involved. One suggested talks with the French regarding acquisition of Martinique, Guadeloupe, St. Pierre, and Miquelon. The other proposed discussions with the British about taking over the following:

"British Honduras, the islands of the Bermudas, the Bahamas—Jamaica with the Turks, Caicos and Cayman Islands, Trinidad and Tobago, and Barbados; the Leeward Islands—Antigua, St. Kitts, Nevis, Dominica, Montserrat, and Virgin Islands; the Windward Islands — Grenada, the Grenadines, St. Lucia, and St. Vincent."

Earlier in the day President Truman at a press conference had reiterated that the United States intends to obtain by negotiation all necessary Pacific and other bases vital to its defense.



ARMY TO STUDY A-BOMB'S EFFECT ON HIROSHIMA

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 6 (AP)—A secretive group of American army experts arrived here today en route to Hiroshima to study the devastation wrought in the world's first atomic bombing. The names of the men were not made public.

Japanese simultaneously made elaborate reports of results of their own inquiry and asserted that many persons, including those who rushed in after the bombing to aid in relief work, were slowly dying.

The Japanese reports said that since Aug. 30, a group of 20 experts have been at work at Hiroshima, headed by Dr. Masao Tsuzuki, Tokyo university professor and a leading Japanese authority on anatomy and pathology.

Tsuzuki said the belated deaths were blamed on neutrons — and he described them as more deadly than the gamma ray of radium or the X-ray. Radium rays can be absorbed by buildings, while neutrons penetrate anything, he said, inducing weariness followed by high fever, sore mouth and throat, diarrhea, and an "amazing" decrease in white blood corpuscles.

LABOR-INDUSTRY PARLEY SET FOR OCT. 29 OR NOV. 5

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP)—The labor-management conference which the government hopes will provide a formula for post-war industrial peace will be held in Washington Oct. 29 or Nov. 5.

The date was left indefinite today because of the expected absence thru most of October of CIO vice presidents who will attend the world trade union federation conference in Paris. Labor Secretary Schwellenbach and Commerce Secretary Wallace jointly made the announcement after a meeting of top industry and labor leaders.

Arrangements for the conference were left to a committee headed by Maj. Paul Dougles, wounded marine, who quit his post as economics professor at the University of Chicago to enlist as a private. He is the husband of Rep. Douglas [D., Ill.].

2 IDEAS ON CONTROL OVER ATOMIC BOMB OFFERED IN SENATE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP)—President Truman, in his message to congress today, said he will make recommendations later on what to do about the power revealed with the atomic bombing of Japan, but two lawmakers moved in ahead of him.

Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] suggested in a resolution that a joint committee of six members each from the house and senate be authorized to conduct a "full and complete study and investigation with respect to the development and control of the atomic bomb."

Sen. McMahon [D., Conn.] introduced a bill providing that the use and application of atomic energy be controled by the federal government for the nation's benefit, with a ban on private exploitation.

The President, in his message to congress, prefaced his promise of later recommendations on the atomic energy problem with this comment:

"We should make timely preparation for the nation's long-range security, while we are still mindful of what it has cost us in this war to have been unprepared."

Mr. Truman's comment upon atomic bombs was made in the part of his message which dealt generally with research. In this connection, Mr. Truman urged congress to adopt legislation for the establishment of a single federal research agency "which would promote and support fundamental research and development projects" in all fields.

ALLIES' 'NO' LETS GERMANS KNOW RULE ISN'T SOFT

Berlin's Pleas for Shops Are Refused

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Sept. 6—An attitude of "no softening of allied policy toward Germany" prevailed at today's meeting of the four power kommandantur [command post] administering the Berlin municipality thru local burgomeisters.

The allies refused to promise not to seize any war shattered factories which the Germans repair and attempt to use for food processing. The Germans pleaded the direst need for such plants for the winter.

The allies reiterated the Potsdam agreement permitting the Red army to pack up 25 per cent of the industrial units and ship them to Russia.

The city fathers petitioned the United States army to return 600 ancient gold coins, 3,500 silver coins and two platinum coins confiscated from the mint. The coins were used as pattern designs and were of historic value. The Americans replied bluntly, "No."

Can't Wear Uniforms

The Germans sought easement of the decree prohibiting former soldiers from wearing their uniforms on the grounds that most of them had no other clothing. The allies answered: "Let them dye the uniforms or buy new garments." The Germans say it is impossible to obtain dyes or to purchase clothing anywhere except on the black market at prohibitive prices.

The Yanks started Germans on wood cutting in the Grunewald forest today, but most of the Germans lacked the necessary tools. The army sent five power saws to fell the trees, but the GIs refused to let the Germans handle them and they cut the timber themselves.

The kommandantur discussed for some time a plan to close the schools to permit teachers to be indoctrinated with democracy so that they could instruct the pupils properly.

Allies' Ideas Differ

But the Russians, British, French and Americans have different ideas about what democracy is and no agreement was reached. However, it is anticipated that during the winter months, when the schools must close because of the fuel shortage, efforts will be made to instruct the teachers.

Local authorities were ordered to adopt stricter methods to control venereal diseases and prostitution. The Russians announced that all infected women will be required to perform hard labor during treatment.

Typhoid cases continue to increase altho the water has been thoroly chlorinated thruout the city.

It is estimated that Berlin now possesses 1½ per cent of its former industry, but equipment is lacking in some factories.

Paris Newspapers Get 1,000 Tons of U. S. Help

PARIS, Sept. 6—Thanks to the cooperation of American military authorities, newspapers were assured today of appearing henceforth in what is called "full size," meaning one single sheet printed on both sides. The Americans have lent the French 1,000 tons of newsprint which is to be redeemed during the last quarter of this year. French editors welcome the announcement as another step toward attainment of "freedom of the news."

ADMITS CZECHS' COST OF KEEPING REDS IS HEAVY

Premier Asserts Yanks Get Very Little

BY WILLIAM FULTON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 6—The Czechoslovak government is contributing substantially toward the cost of soviet troops in its country but comparatively little toward support of American forces, it was admitted here today by Premier Zdenek Fierlinger. His reason was that the Americans were not expected to enter Czechoslovakia.

Fierlinger, accompanied by Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk, who talks with a clipped British accent, were the first arrivals among diplomats from all parts of the world converging on London for the meeting of the Big Five foreign ministers next week.

"The Sooner the Better"

Fierlinger said he expected American and Red forces to be out of Czechoslovakia by the end of this year.

"The sooner the better," piped up Masaryk.

Fierlinger, who had been in Moscow since 1936, denied any plans for Czechoslovakia to become a part of the soviet union. He insisted his country is proceeding only on a basis of friendship and military collaboration with Russia.

The Czech diplomat dwelt at length on problems of boundaries and shifting of minority populations—tinder for central European wars for centuries. He said when the peace treaty is fashioned the Czechs would ask for revisions along the German border. With a laugh he added that they are not imperialistic and will not demand territory all the way to Berlin.

Invite Czechs Home

Fierlinger refused to estimate how many Germans had left Czechoslovakia voluntarily or how many had been expelled, but calculated about 1,000,000 Germans who had fled into the country before advancing Red armies had drifted back into Germany because they couldn't find housing and food. These refugees should be cared for by the Germans, he said, recalling that the Nazis transported 750,000 Czechs into Germany for slave labor.

In addition, he said, between 200,000 and 300,000 Germans have been evacuated to Austria. Czechs are being invited home from France, Belgium, and the Balkans, to which they had drifted during the war, to take jobs in industry.

At present there are about 3,000,000 Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia, most of whom should be transferred from the country, Fierlinger said.

Germans leaving Czechoslovakia are allowed to carry all personal property but real estate is confiscated by the government, Fierlinger revealed, because the Nazis "squeezed" the wealth out of his land and left only worthless marks.

Punch with Care

One hole in a government postal card is all right but two holes are mutilation. Inland Daily Press association officials learned this when cards that have been sent to members by the association service office for more than 10 years and bearing two holes to facilitate filing, drew the censure of postal inspectors.

In its latest card bulletin, the association explained the reduction from two holes to one as follows: "The one punch in this card is all we can contribute to help you put it in your file binder, the postoffice rules, even tho we've punched two holes in Inland Flashes for about 10 years! Two holes 'mutilate' the card, and are 'agin' the postal laws, says 3d asst. P. M. gen'l."

The ruling, made several years ago by the third assistant postmaster general, decrees that one hole is permissible if it is not more than five-sixteenths of an inch in diameter and is on the left third of the address side of card. The ruling was made, postal officials said, to prevent interference with addresses and cancellations.

When the Inland Press postal cards first were mailed from the association's Madison [Wis.] office, no such ruling had been made. After more than a decade a postal inspector noticed one. Now the cards are mailed with one hole and members must punch the other themselves.

ARMY SETS UP PLAN TO BREED DOGS FOR WAR

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP)—The army is setting up a peace time program to breed war dogs as it does horses.

The war department announced the plan today, at the same time canceling its request for donations of dogs.

Under the new program, the army will place breeding dogs with civilian breeders and select the puppies best suited for military needs. The dogs will be used as sentries in occupation armies and for experiments in developing new uses for dogs in war.

The army now contemplates using six breeds, German shepherd dog, boxer, Airedale terrier, Dobermann pinscher, rottweiler, and giant schnauzer.

The original stock will be selected from the best available in this country, England, Holland, Belgium, and Germany.

Pacific Blockade So Tight Only 24 Nazi Ships Escape

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 6—Adm. Paul Venniker, Nazi naval attache to Japan, was quoted in a broadcast from Japan today as saying the American blockade of the Pacific was so tight that only 14 German blockade runners and 10 special Nazi submarines were able to reach European ports from Japan during the war.

GREEN DEMANDS U. S. CONTROL OF VITAL AIR BASES

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 6 [Special]—American control of air and naval bases in the Pacific and "all other areas where they are vital to America" was urged by Gov. Green tonight in an address to the Peoria Association of Commerce at a dinner celebrating the centennial of the city and the 10th anniversary of the founding of the Peoria plant of the R. G. Le Tourneau company.

The governor said the war has proved that distant bases are as essential to the nation's defense as coastal batteries. "There must be no compromise and no pussyfooting on this issue," he added.

Discussing full employment, the governor said the government should reduce expenditures wherever possible and make a substantial cut in taxes.

FUEL PIPELINE BUILT AT CANAL TO SERVE FLEET

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 [Special]—The navy today announced it virtually has completed construction of a 46 mile long $20,000,000 double pipe line across the isthmus of Panama to guarante fuel for the Pacific fleet.

The project is more than 95 per cent completed, the navy said. A single pipe line was constructed first and was of "immense value" during the war, the navy reported.

The navy said the original purpose of the pipe line was to serve as a secret supply artery from the Atlantic to the Pacific in case the Panama canal should "have fallen victim to enemy action."

FIND RED CROSS PARCELS BURIED IN REDOUBT AREA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Sept. 6—In the valley where American officers are destroying German ammunition near this famous resort, they have found the answer to the question of what happened to many of the Red Cross packages sent to American prisoners of war in Germany. After part of the ammunition had been exploded the Americans noticed some strange looking boxes. They contained Red Cross packages which the Germans had buried under ground, probably for the battle in the Bavarian redoubt for which they prepared.

QUISLING TELLS COURT OF FIGHT AGAINST REDS

Says He Is Patriot, Not Traitor

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 6—Communism's plans for world conquest, including its expansions in World War II., were traced by Vidkun Quisling at his treason trial this afternoon. The defendant's speech, to be continued tomorrow, was an appeal for society to be aware of communism as much as an appeal to escape the firing squad.

For two hours, fluently and without referring to a note, the big, yellow haired Nordic accused of betraying his country to the Nazis, lectured on bolshevism and his efforts to oppose it.

Henrik Bergh, defense counsel, laid the ground work for Quisling's plea earlier in the day by saying, "I never believed my client insane but he is an unusual man and even the court must be convinced that he is your riddle."

Protests His Patriotism

Quisling, opening probably the last public address of his career, protested that the riddle was why the Norwegian people would bring him to trial.

"I am Quisling the patriot," he said bitterly.

"I have worked 40 years to help this country and sacrifice everything, and now I stand here as a traitor."

He dug into the misty history of Norway to explain that his name is of pure Norwegian origin, meaning branch of the royal house, and "Q" was originally a runic inscription for millstone. He claimed the playwright Ibsen and the national poet Bjornson as kinsmen.

Quisling traced his military career which took him to Russia as a military attache during the bolshevik revolution of 1918. It was then and two years later while serving as a relief director for the Nansen relief expedition, he said, "that I saw developing the world crisis which began with the Russo-Jap war and which I knew would result in tremendous upheavals."

Traces Revolution

"Bolshevism," he said, "was mild tempered at the start. Terrorism was introduced to combat similar measures by the counter-revolutionists. In 1919 I witnessed a British and French plot for a counter-revolution.

"It was remarkable the progress made in Russia during the first two years. But there were conflicting interests at work. Stalin represented national communism and Trotsky international communism, and there was the Comintern and there were Norwegians, including Trygve Lie [present and former foreign minister of Norway].

"It became increasingly clear that the game was being played by certain labor leaders. The Reds planned to take over the world, starting with Spain and Scandinavia. The Bolsheviks intended to organize a central European bureau with headquarters in Berlin.

"England was seen as their main opposition.

Plans for India

"The Communists told me of their intentions toward India. When I told them the history of many invasions of this rich peninsula they said I should be with them when they attacked this prize.

"Their plans were clear. They would wait for another imperialistic war between Japan and America or between Germany and England.

"I knew Scandinavia was one of the first goals of the Bolsheviks. I had seen a draft of the constitution for Kareilia [soviet republic neighboring Finland] drafted as the groundwork for a soviet republic embracing all Scandinavia. I knew of Norwegian agents receiving money to organize a revolt in Norway."

Justice Solem interrupted to ask Quisling to hurry to events of 1939 and thereafter, which are the basis of the indictment.

Denies Seeking Power

"I am accused of seeking power," said Quisling. "If I had wanted power I could have had it in Russia. I am against Bolshevism. It was then I conceived a plan to get Germany away from the communists.

"It was for protection against Bolshevism that I organized the Nasjonal Samling [National Union of the Norwegian Nazi party]. It had no relation to the Nazi party nor to the rise of Hitler in Germany."

Defense counsel earlier in the day pleaded for acquittal or "the mildest sort of treatment for Quisling." Bergh said that an enabling law enacted by the exiled Norwegian government in London on Oct. 3, 1941, to permit imposition of the death penalty should have no retroactive effect in Quisling's case.

The most serious charges against Quisling concern events before that date.

County Health Unit Plan Will Be Weighed Today

A committee of the Cook county board will hold a hearing today on a proposal to establish a county health unit, separate from the county bureau of public welfare. Commissioner Elizabeth A. Conkey said the committee would try to determine how a unit of the kind, made possible by legislation that has just gone into effect, would work out financially and how municipalities would coöperate.

NAZI 'BUTCHER' OF 100,000 IN WARSAW CAUGHT

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 6—Bob Brumby said in a Mutual broadcast from Tokyo today that the "butcher of Warsaw," Joseph Albert Meisinger, accused of killing 100,000 Jews there in the early days of the war, has been captured by five Americans who traveled 65 miles into unoccupied Japan and found him living among 100 German militarists in refuge.

Acting on secret information Brumby said, the five Yanks journeyed to a hotel in the interior, ate lunch with two Germans and learned that Meisinger was living in a room below.

After lunch the Americans sent a note to Meisinger asking him to surrender. In a short time Meisinger appeared, a heavily browed man almost bald, more than six feet tall and weighing 240 pounds. He told the soldiers he never would have allowed himself to be taken by the Russians.

STALIN SUBJECT TO OPPOSITION, BRITON WRITES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 7 [Friday]—Premier Stalin is not a one man dictator indifferent to criticism, but has to face opposition within the higher levels of the soviet union, according to a former Independent member of parliament, Stephen King-Hall. Writing in the Leader magazine today, King-Hall, who early this year made a parliamentary junket across Russia, said that in the higher groups of Stalin's party there are two schools of thought, one of which, led by Stalin, favors coöperation with the allies.

"The other group," he said, "leans toward Russian self-sufficiency and a lone hand in foreign affairs. This group wishes to secure the Dardanelles and certain territorial adjustments in eastern Turkey. The second group has been checked by its rivals partly because Russia is not yet up to date on the atomic bomb.

"For the same reason the Russians have ordered the Bulgarians to meet the wishes of the Americans and British and postpone elections which had been arranged to produce an overwhelming communist majority. When Stalin has passed away these internal strains in Russia may be difficult to contain within orderly bounds."

"Was I WRONG, back in 1945!"

1. "All during the Second World War, I was working in a munitions plant, and working hard. Wages were high. I made more money, then, than I ever made in my life before. It just came rolling in!

2. "I grabbed my chance and salted my money away. A lot of the things you needed you couldn't buy during the war, anyhow. And many things were scarce, or else you had to pay more than you should.

3. "When the war was over, I had plenty of War Bonds, more life insurance, and a nice savings account. Then goods started coming back. I bought what I needed, but I didn't stop there. I shot the works!

4. "I should have known I'd need a nest egg someday—get sick, lose my job, or maybe want to buy my own home. But somehow I went overboard, and it didn't take long to eat up most of my savings.
5. "Here I am—65—working hard as ever—no backlog for the future—no more saved than before the war. I wish I'd had sense enough to keep my money when I had it. Was I WRONG, back in 1945!"

BUT IT IS STILL 1945—YOU CAN STILL BE RIGHT. If we spend our money carelessly now, we may look back some day with regret. If we use it wisely now, conserve our nest eggs, we can help to avoid inflationary price increases . . . and at the same time build up backlogs of savings for the kind of future we all desire.
During the war, millions of Americans saved to protect their families, to educate their children, to start a business of their own, to own their own home, to retire. They are following the advice of our Government, buying only what they really need, buying and holding onto their War Bonds and life insurance, and maintaining their savings accounts. Are you one of them?

ARREST STINNES WITH 39 OTHER TITANS OF RUHR

British Act to De-Nazify German Industry

HERFORD, Germany, Sept. 6 (AP)—Forty leading German industrialists who once ran a coal syndicate controling most of the Ruhr's coal, steel, and other industries were arrested last night in a move to de-nazify Ruhr industries, the British control commission announced today.

The 40 included Hugo Stinnes, one of Germany's leading financial magnates. All were members of the Rhine-Westphalian coal syndicate, and represented one of the most powerful groups of industrialists in the reich.

As chief cogs in the syndicate, these men ran one of the greatest German trusts which "operated both vertically and horizontally" to control coal prices and output, and to pull strings for the benefit of their multiple industrial activities, the British said.

Produced Arms for Hitler

All the men were reported to have turned out weapons of war for Hitler, and many of them financed the nazi regime, the officials added.

Those arrested overnight included Wilhelm Tager, Rudige Schmidt, Herbert Kauert, Gustav Schmid, August Knepper, Gustav Knepper, Otti Springorum, Georg Lubfen, Adolf Lohrman, Heinrich Petersmann, and Wilhelm Kesten.

The arrests were made under provisions of the Botsdam declaration which said that "all persons hostile to allied purposes shall be removed from public and semi-public office, and from positions of responsibility in important private undertakings."

Officials said they could not disclose immediately what charges would be placed against the industrialists, but said that under the Potsdam declaration they could be held indefinitely without charges and without trial.

Coal Output Unaffected

The commission said the arrests would not affect Ruhr coal output since only a few of those in custody were coal experts. Rather, it said, they were "financial magnates."

When the military government first took over the Ruhr, its production was placed at 34,000 tons of coal monthly. By July 1 it had increased to 250,000 tons monthly, and the present rate is 1,500,000.

But, the commission continued, it will take 2,500,000 tons monthly to meet the bare requirements of France, Holland, and Norway.

PRAGUE'S MAYOR HANGED; LARGE CROWD WATCHES

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 6 (AP)—Dr. Joseph Pfitzner, mayor of Prague under the German occupation, was hanged in Pankrac prison square at 6:30 p. m. today after a brief trial in which he was found guilty of treason and other charges. A large crowd jammed the square.

Pfitzner, 44, an author and professor of history, was convicted on charges of treason; seeking to destroy the republic thru propagandistic methods; being a Nazi leader at a time when that party was forbidden, and removing the body of Czechoslovakia's unknown soldier from the old city hall here and destroying his monument.

Pfitzner was the first of thousands accused of war crimes or collaboration to face the Czech People's court.

PALOS TOWNSHIP PUPILS REMAIN WITHOUT SCHOOL

Forty-five high school pupils of Palos township remained without a high school to attend after a meeting last night between their parents and officials of the Argo-Summit Community High school.

Palos township has no high school and in the past has sent its high school pupils to Argo-Summit High and paid $210 annual tuition each. This year the township refused to certify the tuition, but expressed willingness to send the children to high schools in La Grange or Chicago, much farther away.

Last night 100 parents met with Herbert E. Swanson, president of the Argo-Summit High school board, and Charles E. Wingo, superintendent, and were told that under the law Argo-Summit could not legally accept children from a neighboring township without that township's certification. The parents voted to call on Noble J. Puffer, county school superintendent, and invite him to meet with them and Palos township school authorities Tuesday.

JANITORS NAME M'FETRIDGE FOR HIS NINTH TERM

William L. McFetridge, labor and civic leader, was renominated without opposition for president of local 1 of the Chicago Flat Janitors union at a meeting in the Chicago Stadium last night. He has been local president eight years and also is president of the Building Service Employes' International union.

McFetridge told the 4,000 assembled janitors that the local treasury now contains more than $545,000. He said that under its present officers the members have won wage boosts totaling 6½ million dollars a year and two week vacations. The union, he said, is free of racketeers.

The union chief brought cheers when he said every janitor who entered service will get his job back even tho some present lose jobs to make room.

Renominated with McFetridge were Gus Van Heck, vice president; Clay Smith, recording secretary, and Hess Kruse, secretary-treasurer. The election will be held Sunday.

Has Phone System

Bremerton, Wash., Sept. 6 [Special]—Existence of a concrete air raid shelter capable of holding 10,000 persons at Puget Sound navy yard was disclosed today when a report was made of its conversion to peace time uses.

Built early in the war, the shelter consists of 2,200 feet of tunnels dug into a hillside. The main tunnel is 1,650 feet long and four laterals 125 to 160 feet long open into it. Each tunnel is 18 feet wide and 12 feet high.

Equipment for the shelter included an independent lighting system, drainage system, escape passages, and telephone and loud speaker systems. One of the four lateral tunnels has been converted into a telephone center for personnel of ships putting in at Bremerton and another has been converted into a ship's service store.

CLARK ORDERS DEPORTATION OF BUND BOSS KUHN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Clark today ordered Fritz Kuhn, one time leader of the German-American bund, sent back to Germany.

Fritz Kuhn

Clark said Kuhn was an alien enemy "dangerous to the public peace and safety of the United States because he has adhered to the national socialist principles."

Kuhn, who is now at Ellis Island, probably will be placed aboard the steamship Antioch Victory which sails from New York next week, the justice department announcement said. The board of immigration appeals ordered Kuhn deported on last May 16.

GROCERY ROBBED OF $350

John Grossman, co-owner with his brother, T/Sgt., Sol. Grossman of a grocery at 6930 S. Halsted st., told police yesterday that thieves who apparently had hidden in the store until after closing hours emptied three cash registers of $350.

REDS BREAK UP JUNKER ESTATES IN LAND REFORM

BERLIN, Sept. 6 (AP)—A decree published in Berlin newspapers today breaks up large landed estates in Russian occupied Saxony, one of the first great west European experiments in communist land reform.

If the pattern that preceded the action in Saxony is followed elsewhere, agitation for "Junker land in farmer hand" is likely to be translated into similar law in Mecklenburg, Brandenburg, and Thuringia.

Available evidence is that the same distribution already has taken place in sections of Germany ceded permanently to Russia, notably the eastern party of East Prussia, altho secrecy shrouds that part of the country.

Decree Is Drastic

Today's decree is drastic. It provides for the expropriation of all "real estate with all buildings thereon, live and dead inventory, and other agricultural wealth irrespective of size of estate" which belonged to war criminals, those responsible for the war, Nazi leaders, active defenders of the Nazi party and its subdivisions, leading persons of the Hitler state, members of the government during the Nazi regime and members of the Reichstag during the nazi regime.

It further decrees the general expropriation of the "entire feudal

Breaks Up Estates

(Story in adjoining column)

Key on map shows where Russia is breaking up landed estates and where further such expropriation is anticipated.

Junker land and landed estates of more than 100 hectares [247 acres], together with all the wealth on the land." Exempted are the possessions of convents and church institutions, experiment stations, city administrations, and farm cooperatives.

Costs Farmers One Year's Income

Farmers to whom parts of the former big estates are to be awarded must pay a "sum equal to the value of one year's income" on a 10 to 20 year instalment plan.

The agitation in Saxony that preceded the decree now is being duplicated in other states.

German communists arrange for mass meetings where farmers and small peasants pass resolutions declaring Germany's big landlords retarded social progress, incited wars and proved to be incorrigible reactionaries.

After the ground had been prepared by such meetings, Saxony's four political parties permitted in the Russian zone—the Communists, Social Democrats, Christian Democratic union, and Liberal Democrats—were called into a meeting. Taegliche Rundschau yesterday reported that the four parties had demanded expropriation of Saxony's estates, and today the decree followed.

The land reform program may present a problem to the military governments in the American, British, and French sectors, for it is possible that small farmers and farm hands in their sections of Germany will ask for treatment similar to that accorded in the Russian zone.

U. S. ARMY ENDS CENSORSHIP OF EUROPE NEWS

BERLIN, Sept. 6 (AP)—American military censorship of press dispatches from Berlin terminated today.

A notice posted by the chief censor, Maj. Eugene F. Date, Farmington, N. H., said that with President Truman's proclamation of Sept. 2 as V-J day "all censorship of press material by the United States army censors in this theater has ended." The censorship staff prepared to vacate its billet in the American press camp here.

British occupation authorities continued to impose military censorship on dispatches sent by way of British army transmitters to London.

GIRL, 9, SEIZED BY RAPIST NEAR SCHOOL ESCAPES

Describes Molester as Overalled Boy, 15

Police of the north suburbs were searching last night for a boy about 15 who molested a 9 year old girl near the Lincolnwood school, McDaniel and Colfax st., Evanston.

The boy accosted his victim near the school and took her into a forest preserve area just west of there. He tore off part of her clothing and attempted to attack her. She broke away and ran home screaming.

The child was taken to a physician's office for treatment. She told police the boy was tall and thin and that he wore blue overalls. Police said a special detail will be placed in the vicinity of the school today in an attempt to arrest him.

Suspect Held in Three Cases

Pevie Bull, 31, Negro, of 5314 South Park way, was held by Wabash av. police as a suspect in the rapes of an Evanston school teacher and a Rogers Park woman after he was seized for an alleged south side attack on a Negro woman early yesterday.

He told police he was employed until Monday in a restaurant at 5100 Broadway, working from 7 p. m. to 5 a. m. The north side and Evanston rapes occurred early in the morning.

Bull denied those rapes and disputed the 27 year old Negro woman who pointed him out to police at 58th st. and South Park way a short time after she had been threatened with a knife, attacked, and robbed of $5 and a watch in an alley near-by.

Child's Molester Sentenced

A 20 year old white woman reported she screamed and frightened away a Negro who attempted to rape her at 53d and Wells sts. as she was on her way home.

A 42 year old Negro widow, who has two sons in the army, told police a Negro about 18 raped her in Washington park.

Indred Melvin Askegard, 47, of 949 Madison st., accused of molesting a 10 year old girl in a theater Aug. 28, was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in the court of Domestic Relations.

Carl Burnstein, 33, of 5747 Sheridan rd., an attorney at 134 N. La Salle st., was dismissed by Judge William J. Lindsay in Criminal court on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 16 year old girl. Two state witnesses failed to appear.

EIGHT ARE FINED $365, COSTS ON GAMING CHARGES

Eight men were fined a total of $365 and costs on gambling charges yesterday by Justice of the Peace Henry Pendl in the Willow Springs Highway police court. James Houdek, 2203 Washburne av., charged with keeping a gambling place at 5534 Cermak rd., Cicero, was fined $100 and costs, and two customers, John Krev, 5525 Cermak rd., Cicero, and John Benischek, 3203 Clarence av., Berwyn, were fined $10 and $5 costs each.

Michael Rafferty was fined $25 and costs for operating a gambling place at 810 Des Plaines av., Forest Park, and George McGlory, 213 Washington blvd., Oak Park, accused of operating a handbook layoff office at 7439 Randolph st., Forest Park, was fined $100 and costs.

A fine of $100 and costs was assessed against Michael J. O'Leary, 839 N. Lombard av., Oak Park, as the keeper, and fines of $10 and costs each were ordered against Sylvester Agoglia, 1628 Oak Park av., Berwyn, and John Maniatis, 6639 34th st., Berwyn, as inmates of a gambling place at 2120 S. Cicero av., Cicero.

SANITARY BOARD VOTES 9% RAISE; 1,620 TO BENEFIT

A 9 per cent salary and wage increase for 1,620 employes of the sanitary district was approved yesterday by the sanitary board. The raise, retroactive to Sept. 1, will amount to $147,000 for the rest of the year.

James M. Whalen, board president, said the raise was necessary to keep abreast of prevailing rates of pay and the cost of living. The war labor board last month approved a raise of 15 cents an hour for building trades workers.

Not affected by the sanitary district raise are 48 electrical mechanics who received an increase last April and two employes whose salaries are fixed by law. Most employes of the sanitary district have had two 5 per cent raises since 1940.

Bobby Sokowski, Ukrainian orphan, as he was returned to the United States embassy in London by Corp. Richard Samlynski of Chicago after boy tried to stow away on ship to the United States.

Two Chicago veterans of European fighting, one in England and the other in the United States, yesterday were involved in the fight to bring Bobby Sokowski, 10 year old Ukrainian orphan, to their home town.

The first Chicago soldier to become acquainted with the boy was Sgt. Edward Klonowski, 4621 Grace st., who rescued the lad from a German general but was forced to leave him in England when he returned home in July. Klonowski has petitioned to bring the boy to the United States.

The second Chicagoan to acquire the care of Sokowski is Corp. Richard Samlynski. Sokowski stowed away on an American troopship at Liverpool. The boy emerged from his hiding place when the boat was 13 miles out and Samlynski was ordered to take him back to the embassy in London.

3 CONVICTS LOSE BATTLE, 'ESCAPE' BACK TO CELLS

Fight Guards with Gas in Tunnel

Canon City, Colo., Sept. 6 [Special]—Three convicts attempting to break out of the state prison here today lost a 20 minute tear gas battle with guards, but got back to their cells during the uproar and gave puzzled prison authorities a headache in trying to identify them. Scene of the fight was a tunnel nearly 100 yards long.

The three desperadoes apparently eluded guards in leaving the dining hall at noon and ran to the second floor of the shirt factory. Breaking open a locked door, they fled into the middle of the tunnel 20 feet underground.

Take Guard's Keys

From a hiding place in the tunnel the three leaped out upon Guard Charles Thompson as he passed thru the tunnel. They beat him severely and took his keys to the administration building door, his tear gas gun, and a rifle. His cries brought other guards on the run.

As the guards approached the ambush scene, the convicts drove them back with tear gas from Thompson's gun. Charge after charge of gas was fired by each side. The guards finally reached Thompson's side and removed him to the prison hospital while reinforcements were assembled at each end of the tunnel opening.

Certain the convicts were trapped, the guards filled the tunnel with more gas, then put on masks and went in to get them. But the convicts, realizing they couldn't get out, had meantime fled back the way they had come. Returning to their cells overlooking the south prison wall, they tossed over the wall three tear gas cartridges and Thompson's keys.

All Inmates Present

When prison authorities found these articles outside the wall, they felt sure the three had escaped. A cordon of guards was thrown around the prison, railroad stations were watched, and highway intersections guarded. In the midst of this widening of the search, a count of prisoners was made. To the surprise of authorities, they found every inmate present.

A cell by cell investigation was begun. Each inmate denied being one of the trio who tried to escape. But guards finally came upon a clew. They found Thompson's wallet in the cell of Richard Hellman, 26, of Denver, Colo.

Prison officials questioned Hellman and his former crime accomplice, Albert Sallee, 26, also of Denver, both sentenced to long terms for a robbery kidnaping. Both denied taking part in the attempted break.

CANADA PUSHES REBUILDING OF ECONOMIC LIFE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 6—Canada's 20th parliament met today with emphasis being placed on reconversion and reconstruction of the nation's war time economy to a peace time basis, and on rehabilitation of members of the military forces.

The opening was featured by some of the trimmings which prevailed before Canada entered the war in September, 1939. There was a guard of honor. It was inspected by Gov. Gen. Athlone. The firing of guns added to the pomp.

In the speech from the throne Gov. Gen. Athlone asked parliament to approve the united nations charter and the Bretton Woods monetary agreements.

He said that while war time controls will be abolished as fast as possible, some will be retained for a necessary period.

Seeks Quick Release

The government, he said, is pledged to a policy of getting troops home from overseas as fast as shipping will permit, and releasing them as fast as possible from service "in an orderly manner."

In its efforts to stimulate the restoration and expansion of external trade, the government will submit measures for approval of parliament. The government will attempt to work out agreements with the provinces, covering financial and social security jurisdictions, so that the dominion's tax structure can be, simplified, and health insurance and old age pensions for every one over 70 can be instituted.

The governor general said the government intended to develop and beautify Ottawa as a lasting memorial to those who sacrificed their lives in the war.

Promised Own Flag

Canadians are to have a distinctive citizenship and a national flag of their own, Gov. Gen. Athlone promised. Canada has been using the Union Jack as her flag [tho the Canadian red ensign has been permitted in certain circumstances].

"My ministers [the government of Canada] believe that the position attained by our country among the nations of the world, makes it desirable that Canada, like the other nations of the British commonwealth, should possess a distinctive national flag," the governor general said. "You will be asked to appoint a select committee of members of both houses of parliament to consider a suitable design for a Canadian flag."

The red ensign, until a new flag is designed, will be the one to be used "wherever place or occasion makes it desirable to fly a distinctive Canadian flag," he continued.

"The government also considers that it is advisable to revise and clarify the definition of Canadian citizenship, and to bring the legislation respecting national status, naturalization and immigration into conformity with the definition of citizenship. You will be asked to approve the required measures," he told members of both houses.

Kelly Plans to Reappoint Drymalski as Treasurer

Mayor Kelly said yesterday that he would ask the city council Sept. 18 to confirm his appointment of Raymond P. Drymalski as city treasurer. Drymalski was elected to the post, but resigned in 1943 to become a lieutenant in the navy. He will be discharged before the council meeting, the mayor said. Drymalski's former attorney, David I. Hartigan, has been acting city treasurer.

It was nice of you TO PRAISE THESE MEN OF OURS

Here are six of the many men in CSL uniforms that our good friends, the public, have written nice things about. Depend upon it, when anyone takes the time to write us about our employees the letter receives prompt and complete attention. If complimentary, the letter is passed on to the employee mentioned and an appropriate notation is made on his service record. If a complaint is reported, it is investigated at once and whatever action the circumstances suggest is quickly taken.

During these difficult times it isn't always possible to keep service up to the high standard these neighbors of yours in CSL have set for themselves. But no stone is left unturned in the effort to do so. Many of them are working extra hours, giving up days of rest, and vacations to meet the needs of war workers and others for safe, sure transportation. For your kind understanding of our problem, we thank you.

TRUMAN TO SEND M'NUTT BACK TO PHILIPPINE POST

Paves Way for Granting Independence

BY WALTER TROHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6—President Truman this afternoon announced the impending return of Paul V. McNutt, former governor of Indiana, former social security administrator, and now war man power commissioner, to the Philippines as United States high commissioner.

Paul V. McNutt

The chief executive told his news conference that now that this county had withdrawn its supervision over civil affairs in the islands, it was necessary again to name an American official to represent the President in the islands. McNutt will leave for Manila as soon has his nomination is approved by the senate. His activities will be limited to the Philippines, Mr. Truman said.

Independence Is Aim

The President said the Philippines is the only place he has a right to send a representative now. The future of the islands taken from Japan will have to be decided at the peace table, he said.

McNutt's main purpose, Mr. Truman said, will be to expedite the rehabilitation of the islands and advance insofar as possible the date of their full independence, the deadline for which is fixed by law at July 4, 1946.

Choice of the 54 year old Indianan, who had cherished Presidential and Vice Presidential aspirations, had been expected in the capital. McNutt was high commissioner from 1937 to 1939 and had desired to return to his old post as soon as man power controls were relaxed with the end of the war.

Hear Clark to Be Judge

Mr. Truman was cagey on other vacancies in the administration. He dismissed a report that he would name War Undersecretary Patterson to the Supreme court by saying that some one evidently knew more than he did because he had not made up his mind.

He also would not confirm reports that he will name his former senate colleague, Bennett C. Clark, to a seat on the federal court of appeals here, and that Judge Thurman B. Arnold would be named solicitor general.

He did disclose that he had asked Owen Roberts, recently retired Supreme court justice, to sit as judge on the allied military tribunal to try European war criminals, but that the jurist had turned the offer down.

ORDERS PEORIA RAILROAD GIVEN BACK TO OWNERS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP)—The Toledo, Peoria, and Western railroad is being returned to its owners after several years of government operation, Stabilization Director Davis announced today. The return will be effective Oct. 1.

Operation of the railroad was taken over by order of the late President Roosevelt by the office of defense transportation March 21, 1942, following a labor dispute over a proposed new contract involving seniority.

Davis also announced he had approved the return of the following plants which had been seized "to prevent loss of production essential to the war effort:"

Texas Co., Port Arthur, Tex.; Pure Oil Co., Dawes, W. Va.; Humble Oil and Refining company, Ingleside, Tex., and the Lord Manufacturing company, Erie, Pa.

The Toledo, Peoria and Western operates 239 miles of track with terminals at Effner, Ind., and Keokuk, Ia.

Northwest Airlines Plans Daily Service to Alaska

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 6 (AP)—Croll Hunter, president of Northwest Airlines, said today his company planned to operate a daily round trip from Seattle to Anchorage, Alaska, and three trips per week between Anchorage and Minneapolis-St. Paul, if granted permission by the civil aeronautics board to operate both routes.

FIND STRANGLED 'SUNSHINE GIRL' ON ROADSIDE

Belt Circles Neck of Nude Victim

Fayette City, Pa., Sept. 6 [Special]—Two young men were hunted for questioning, tonight in the strangling of Anna Elizabeth Dreyer, 17, Fayette City's "Sunshine Girl," whose nude body was found along the highway this afternoon by state police.

Miss Dreyer's cloth belt was fastened tightly about her neck and parts of her clothing were found an eighth of a mile away along the highway.

Red-haired, a good swimmer, and an excellent skater, Miss Dreyer was called the "Sunshine Girl" because she took sun baths regularly to build herself up after an attack of rheumatic fever three years ago.

Missing Since Saturday

Miss Dreyer had been missing since Saturday morning, when she was driven to Fayette City from her job at a restaurant in Monessen, a few miles away. She had been employed at the restaurant only three or four days.

Frederick I. Hauser, 18, Monessen, a discharged war veteran, who had been questioned earlier in the week about the young woman's disappearance, told Corp. Charles DeWitt of the state police he had driven her from the restaurant to within 100 yards of her home. He said he had let her out of the car at that point at her own request.

Hauser was released after being questioned, but a search was started for him after the body was found and he was reported to have left the district. He received a medical discharge from the navy Feb. 6, having been wounded in the leg in the South Pacific.

Reported Hitch Hiking

State police said Hauser and a friend of his, Peter Prokopovich, 17, also of Monessen, had been seen hitch hiking toward Pittsburgh yesterday afternoon.

Miss Dreyer's body was found about 15 feet off the Fayette-Connellsville highway, leading state police to theorize that she had been slain in an automobile and then thrown out. The spot was midway between the two cities and about seven miles from her home.

Search for the body had been concentrated in that area this week after Miss Dreyer's purse, brassiere, blouse, and part of her slip had been found along the road an eighth of a mile away.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dreyer, the young woman's parents, said she had worked until 2 a. m. last Saturday. When she did not return by afternoon, they reported her disappearance to the police.

An autopsy disclosed she had been dead several days. Death was laid to strangulation and a fractured skull. Because of the decomposed state of the body, it was impossible to determine positively whether she had been raped.

Plead for Vacationists to Help Pick Fruit Crop

A tremendous harvest of peaches in Michigan has taxed labor facilities, and growers urgently need the help of people wishing to combine a vacation with useful work by picking, packing, and canning the crop, L. A. Boyd, director of the Michigan Fruit Sponsors, said yesterday. There is a danger some of the fruit will go to waste unless more helpers are found, Boyd said. Any one interested in aiding in the harvest may call Benton Harbor 52103 for information.

CITY HELP ASKED FOR CHINATOWN MODEL VILLAGE

Plans for transforming the blighted area surrounding Chicago's Chinatown into a bright and sparkling Chinese village were outlined yesterday before the city council committee on housing by Gerald H. Moye, honorary mayor of Chinatown, and Atty. Richard Gleason.

Moye and Gleason asked the committee, headed by Ald. Lindell [9th], to recommend passage of an ordinance which would declare the 40 acre district a blighted area.

Committee to Put Up Million

This, they said, would permit its condemnation and acquisition by the city, under the slum clearance law, for resale to the Committee for Chinatown Redevelopment, composed of Chinese merchants and civic leaders.

The committee, Moye said, is prepared to spend a million dollars to refurbish the area. It would build about 80 single dwelling units and apartments to house 900 Chinese families.

Store buildings that front on Wentworth av. and Cermak rd., Moye said, would be remodeled in traditional Chinese style, and a Chinese village rivaling anything of its type in the United States would result.

Proposed Rental Challenged

When Moye explained that the proposed housing units would rent for $12 to $15 a room, Ald. Kells [28th], a member of the committee, protested that the figure was too high to justify terming the project slum clearance.

"Maybe so," Moye returned, "but we would be doing something for our people."

Lindell approved the plan and said he would ask the Chicago plan commission to add its recommendation.

3 PLEAD GUILTY IN $40,000 BANKER EXTORTION PLOT

Three Wisconsin men indicted by the federal grand jury for attempting to extort $40,000 from William C. Hubbell, Harvard [Ill.] banker, pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday. Sentencing was set for Monday.

The men, Burdell M. Boardman, 20, of Delavan; William M. Huber, 40, of Elkhorn, and Carl S. Garman, 32, of Delavan, had pleaded not guilty when arraigned last week.

After conferring yesterday with their attorney, Edward J. Hess, who had been appointed by the court, they changed their plea to guilty.

WIFE HELD IN $61 CHECK FRAUD TO GET MIND TEST

Mrs. Ollie Baker, 25, of Louisville, Ky., a brunette, yesterday was arraigned before Judge Frank E. Donoghue in Women's court on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses. She was accused of cashing worthless checks totalings $61 with the Stevens hotel and a loop department store.

Mrs. Ollie Baker

Mrs. Baker told the court that her husband, with whom she said she eloped before his graduation from the University of Illinois, is an architectural engineer and will teach at the university in Urbana this semester. She added, however, she wants a divorce from him so she can marry a Louisville man.

Judge Donoghue continued the hearing until Sept. 12 and ordered Mrs. Baker examined by Dr. David B. Rotman, Municipal court psychiatrist.

20. Sale of ships—disposal of surplus merchants ships should be expedited by legislation.

21. Stockpiling of strategic material—congress should provide for the permanent acquisition of materials in which the United States is deficient.

The President told congress he will make additional recommendations soon for a national health program, expansion of social security, and an education program.

Republicans Critical

Among the few congressmen who listened to the 1 hour and 46 minute reading of the message in the house, Democrats generally applauded the President's recommendations, but there was widespread Republican criticism, as reflected in the remarks by Rep. Thomas [R., N. J.] that the document was "the same old New Deal dressed up in new clothes."

In the senate, reading of the message was compressed into 23 minutes by clerks who read only the opening lines of each section. Senators this afternoon retired to their offices to read the message and generally declined to comment until they had digested its contents.

Rep. Allen [R., Ill.] asserted in an interview that the President's "honeymoon" with congress is over. "He has come out with a leftist program of government paternalism and will face fights with congress on many issues," Allen said.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

Sept. 6, 1945

PURPLE MARTINS that nested on the farm have been forced to call off their annual summer offensive against the insects because it's time for all of these birds to start their long flight to South America, where they will spend the winter. When these handsome and useful birds quietly disappeared several days ago, their departure was another reminder that, no matter what the thermometer may say during the next few weeks, summer has gone.

The martin is one insectivorous bird that wants an early start on its long flight to the Amazonian forests where there will be an abundance of insects for food during the cold months in North America. It doesn't want to be hurried on its migration, preferring, like several other insectivorous species, a leisurely "eat as we go" migration.

Birds Hold Convention

Before their long journey gets under way, however, the martins like to hold a brief flying circus and early autumn convention. Under some mysterious agreement, large numbers of these birds meet at different places in the northern states, give out with enough noise to make one believe they are swapping experiences, and watch the young birds practice their new flying routines in preparation for the trip to South America. We've often wondered where the martins that nest on the farm go before they head southward.

We know of one of these convention spots for martins in southern Wisconsin near a large lake and we found another west of Chicago on the Mississippi river. But, as far as we know, no bird student seems to have discovered pre-migration meeting places for martins that nest around Chicago.

Echo of DDT Test

One of the men on the farm who watches birds a great deal remarked a few days ago that the DDT experiment which wiped out countless insects on the farm seems to have reduced the number of birds there. He pointed out that the feathered residents may have discovered all the insects they used to live on are missing as a result of the DDT offensive, and therefore have moved on.

Tommy, the farm bulldog, provides many a laugh by his valiant attempts to imitate the big dog behavior of Lotte, the German shepherd. Since the shepherd chased a rabbit into his mouth, he's on the alert for bigger and better exploits in the country way of living. As a result of his activity [for which his thick set body is not adapted] he gets "all het up" and then goes swimming to cool off.

The other day he apparently attempted too much by jumping into the swimming tank. This has no ramp by which bulldogs can climb out. Consequently, Tommy came home, not only very wet but also very much distressed, as if he had a hard time getting out.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

GARDENERS who have vegetable seeds remaining from this year's supply can preserve the seeds for planting next spring by using the proper containers. Seeds to be kept over winter should be removed from their paper packets to prevent absorption of moisture that would damage the germinating cells.

Small glass jars fitted with metal lids provide the best storage containers for seeds. The lids should be perforated to permit entry of air, then the jars should be stored in any cool, dry room.

Onion sets should be stored in onion sacks having a porous mesh. If these are not available, strawberry cartons may be used if small holes are punched in the bottoms and sides. Onion sets require constant air circulation in storage.

'IKE' ONLY HOPE TO SAVE DOOMED INDIANA YANK

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 [Special]—Nothing can be done to save Pvt. 1st Class Robert A. Colby of Geetingsville, Ind., sentenced to be executed in Europe for slaying two superior officers, unless Gen. Eisenhower wants to commute the sentence, Rep. Harness [R., Ind.] said today.

Harness was informed by Undersecretary of War Patterson that Colby's sentence was confirmed on Aug. 29 by Gen. Eisenhower and is now in the hands of the judge advocate general for a check to determine if all legal requirements have been met. The judge advocate has no authority to alter the sentence, Harness explained.

The congressman said he was cabling Gen. Eisenhower to learn if the evidence conclusively showed premeditation.

TRUMAN FACES DEFEAT ON PLEA FOR JOBLESS AID

Ignores Opposition to $25 Weekly Benefits

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP)—President Truman tried today—but apparently failed—to save from virtually certain congressional defeat his proposal for broad expansion of unemployment benefits.

In his No. 1 recommendation for dealing with home front redeployment, he told congress "the cost of this transition from war to peace is as much a part of the cost of war as the transition from peace to war—and we should so consider it."

He asked for a federal supplement to the payments made by the states to bring maximum payments everywhere up to $25 a week for 26 weeks.

If congress takes what he called "this very necessary step" and raises jobless benefit payments, Mr. Truman said, "it will also wish to reconsider and increase the unemployment allowance provided for veterans." The veterans now are entitled to weekly jobless allowances of $20 for as much as 52 weeks, depending on lenth of service.

Opposition Is Adamant

The formidable opposition showed no sign of giving ground.

Friends of the bill embodying Mr. Truman's proposal conceded it will get no more than six votes in the 24 member house ways and means committee. The senate finance committee, considering a similar measure, also gave it a cool reception.

Ways and means Chairman Doughton [D., N. C.] a stalwart of the Democratic forces, indicated to newsmen after the message was read that he has parted ways with the President on this one issue. Earlier he had told his committee that the bill "puts a premium on idleness." He said he considers the present problem is redistributing labor to places where employers badly need workers.

After hearing the President's message, Rep. Knutson [R., Minn.], ways and means Republican leader, said:

"His dreary forebodings have no substance.

A Boon to Idleness

"As chief executive he should have taken the lead in giving to the country a faithful picture as presented by an overwhelming majority of state unemployment directors who have unequivocally stated there is no need for liberalizing the existing setup.

"Mr. Truman's proposal, if carried into effect, would encourage idleness and retard recovery."

The President told congress existing state laws on unemployment insurance are inadequate, and urgently renewed his recommendation of May 28 that congress "take immediate action to make good these deficiencies for the present emergency period of reconversion."

"Specifically," he said, "coverage should be extended to include federal employes, maritime workers, and other workers not now insured. This additional compensation during the present emergency will have to be financed entirely by the federal government, but the benefits should appropriately be administered by the states.

Reiterates His Plea

"I also recommend, and I now repeat that recommendation, that the congress provide, thru supplementary federal emergency benefit payments, additional unemployment benefits so as to bring them up to adequate standards in all the states."

Mr. Truman put these in his list of deficiencies in state laws:

1. Only about 30 million of the 43 million nonagricultural workers are protected by unemployment insurance. 2. Weekly benefit payments under many state laws "now are far too low to provide subsistence and purchasing powers for workers and their families"—some states have maximum payments of $15 to $18 a week. 3. Many states pay benefits for too short a period, with 18 weeks the maximum in one-third of the states.

The senate finance committee today reported that responses from additional states on a jobless law questionnaire showed a total of 18 states have laws which conflict with the bill of Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.] providing a federal-state nation-wide unemployment benefit of $25 a week for 26 weeks. Ten new states reporting today were Colorado, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, New Mexico, Kansas, Ohio, Georgia, Delaware, Idaho, and Oregon.

CONGRESS TOLD TAX CUTS MUST BE 'MODERATE'

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP)—President Truman signaled today for moderate 1946 tax reductions, but he cautioned congress in his message against severe slashes at this time.

His stand on peace time levies drew commendation from some congressional tax leaders. However, a movement to cut deeply the war time pocketbook burdens showed no signs of slackening. Rep. Knutson [R., Minn.] and others favoring substantial slashes reasserted their readiness for a fight.

Chairman Doughton [D., N. C.], told newspapermen the house ways and means committee will take up tax revision legislation as soon as it completes action on President Truman's proposal for liberalized unemployment benefits.

Asks Transition Bill

The president, in his message to congress, recommended immediate enactment of a "transition" tax bill, with limited reductions in 1946. He put emphasis on "removing barriers to speedy reconversion and to the expansion of our peace time economy."

"We must reconcile ourselves," he said, "to the fact that room for tax reduction at this time is limited. A total war effort cannot be liquidated overnight. . . . we must not lose sight of the budgetary situation and our obligations to 85,000,000 bondholders."

Sen. George [D., Ga.] of the senate finance committee applauded the President's remarks as a "realistic approach."

"As I interpret the message," George said, "I think the elimination of the excess profits tax—a war time tax—and possibly the elimination of capital stock and declared value excess profits taxes is in the mind of the President. Also, corresponding reductions in the aggregate to individual income tax payers. . . . The automobile use tax is essentially a tax on individuals and its outright repeal may well fall within the general recommendations of the President."

The President's word of caution, presented in his first outline of views on peace time taxes, apparently was calculated to head off a movement on capitol hill to press thru a tax-slashing measure forthwith, affecting 1946 income.

It defined the issues for another classic congressional tax battle that may rival in proportions the 1943 fight. At that time congress killed the administration sponsored $10,500,000,000 added tax measure, and provided only $2,000,000,000.

Burdensome, Says Knutson

Knutson, a member of the ways and means committee, in a statement said.

"The Republicans feel that there should be an immediate horizontal reduction in individual taxes and repeal of all special war taxes. There can be no real post-war recovery under the present burdensome tax schedules."

Knutson is spearheading the tax-slashing drive with a proposal to cut individual burdens by 20 per cent "all along the board." Under his proposal each person would compute his taxes for 1946 on present rates and exemptions, and then simply reduce the obligation by one-fifth before making any payment to the government.

WIFE OF IOWAN WHO AIDED NAZIS HELPS BERLIN GIs

BERLIN, Sept. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Frederick W. Kaltenbach, 44, German wife of the American born broadcaster for the Nazi radio, said tonight that she enjoys working for United States military forces in Berlin as an interpreter.

"GIs are lots of fun. They're always asking how it is I understand American slang so well," she said.

Mrs. Kaltenbach, whose husband, Fred, a native Iowan, is under American indictment on a charge of treason, asserted she has been unable to ascertain his whereabouts since soviet officials took him into custody here June 14.

Mrs. Kaltenbach, whose apartment is not in the soviet sector of Berlin, expressed surprise that a rumor had been circulated that she was under Russian arrest.

The Kaltenbach case has been the subject of American inquiry here from the first week of the entrance of allied forces.

ASKS OPENING OF PALESTINE TO MILLION JEWS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 [Special]—Immediate admission to Palestine of the 100,000 stateless Jews now in Germany, and as soon as possible of another 1 million European Jews who are unable or unwilling to live in their former homes, was demanded today by Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the Zionist Organization of America.

"To the Jews of Europe access to Palestine has become a matter of life and death," he asserted in a speech. "They have written off their future insofar as Europe is concerned. Their dominating desire is to emigrate to Palestine to begin a new life in security and freedom."

Because "the Jews who need Palestine cannot wait," Dr. Goldstein said, admission must no longer be governed by certificates on a quota basis or the expiring provisions of the British white paper, under which the last thousand certificates were issued a few weeks ago.

Vice Commodore James J. Hellesen of the South Shore Canoe club reported yesterday to police that six canoe paddles valued at $30 were stolen from the club boathouse at 79th st. and the lake.

If Your Advertising Mobilizes His Wealth

He's the Wage Earner.

He—he alone—can finance America's prosperity. To have jobs for all—we must make and sell 50 per cent more than we did in our best peacetime year.

For these added sales—look to the Wage Earner—America's biggest single customer. His saved up billions are four times greater than all America had saved back in 1918. His "spending money" since 1939—above his fixed costs has advanced 92 per cent—while the cash of his white collar brother has decreased 31 per cent.

And, according to W.P.B.'s Krug, during the "reconversion" period eight out of nine Wage Earners will keep on doing exactly what they have been doing in the same plant at the same job—earning and spending—while industry retools for full employment.

Nine out of nine Wage Earners have now "sampled" the most important thing in America—the American high standard of living.

And they like it.

They want to re-furbish their millions of homes—inside and out; they want to build more of them; they want to replace old and worn out cars, washing machines and refrigerators. And these families have the cash—the lion's share of a sum already tabulated at 116 billions.

But it's up to your advertising to keep their brand new standards of living intact—to raise their sights—to turn their vast billions of dollars into even bigger wage-making sales... to reassure them of the Security of Spending.

Thus, your advertising is in a position to do not only a highly profitable job but also a remarkable social job. Your advertising can now serve the Wage Earner materially—in the same way Macfadden Publications have served him spiritually. For 25 years his family has found Macfadden Publications the most understanding, believable, helpful biographer of their lives, their hopes, their aspirations. Perhaps that's the reason these publications have so often been described as the magazines with the "common touch."

This is why your advertising in Macfadden Magazines becomes as much part and parcel of their lives as the editorial content itself. No other magazines in America today have greater power to influence the Wage Earner millions.

Headquarters for Wage Earner Information

In the last 12 years, Wage Earner America has become the dominant influence on our economic and social life. Through these years Macfadden Publications have accumulated an immense amount of material on every facet of Wage Earner life in order (as stated in Macfadden's pledge to industry)... "to maintain our service to Industry as the most authoritative private source of knowledge and understanding of these people—upon whom Industry—and, indeed, our entire economic system as we presently know it—must depend."

Here are a few of the titles released recently by Macfadden's Research Director Everett R. Smith. These will be of immediate interest to executives seeking clearer understanding of how America's Wage Earner millions live, work, plan:

Truman Message to Congress on Plan for Reconversion and Prosperity

OUTLINES BROAD ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL POLICY

Tax Revision and Aid to Veterans Included

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP) —A partial text of President Truman's message to congress today follows:

"To the congress of the United States:

"I regret that you have been compelled to cut short your recess period. I know, however, that you have been just as eager as any of us to meet the problems which naturally have crowded down upon us with the surrender of the Japanese.

"You have cut short a well merited vacation in order to do so. I hope the American people realize as fully as I do, that from the very first days of the emergency, the congress has most energetically and patriotically devoted its time, energies, and capabilities to the immediate problems of war and to the long range problems of peace. The legislative branch of the government is entitled to its full share of credit and glory for the victory of the allied armies. I take this opportunity on behalf of the nation to congratulate you on the great victory which has been won—in which you played so important a part.

Need Have No Fears

"The congress reconvenes at a time of great emergency. It is an emergency about which, however, we need have no undue fear if we exercise the same energy, foresight, and wisdom as we did in carrying on the war and winning this victory.

"The sudden surrender of the Japanese has not caught us unawares. President Roosevelt, as early as the fall of 1943, began to set up machinery which he foresaw would become necessary to meet the reconversion period. The congress in its wisdom has adopted some of that machinery by statute, and has improved and added to it. As a result, government agencies, for some time, have been able to plan for the immediate and long range steps which now have to be taken.

"As the congress has undoubtedly noticed, many steps were taken immediately after the surrender of the Japanese. Many more have been taken since.

RECONVERSION STEPS

Full Production, Employment Keystone of Policy

"The process of reconversion will be a complicated and difficult one. The general line of approach to the problem is to achieve as full peace time production and employment as possible in the most efficient and speedy manner. The following policies have been laid down and will be followed:

"[1] Demobilize as soon as possible the armed forces no longer needed.

"[2] Cancel and settle war contracts as quickly as possible.

"[3] Clear the war plants so as to permit contractors to proceed with peace time production.

"[4] Hold the line on prices and rents until fair competition can operate to prevent inflation and undue hardship on consumers.

"[5] Hold wages in line where their increase would cause inflationary price rises. Where price ceilings would not be endangered, collective bargaining should be restored.

"[6] Remove all possible war time government controls in order to speed and encourage reconversion and expansion.

"[7] Keep only those controls which are necessary to help reconversion and expansion by preventing bottlenecks, shortages of material, and inflation.

"[8] Prevent rapid decrease of wage incomes of purchasing power.

"The major objective, of course, is to reëstablish an expanded peace time industry, trade, and agriculture, and to do it as quickly as possible.

Unemployment Inevitable

"Obviously, during this process there will be a great deal of inevitable unemployment. What we must do is to assist industry to reconvert to peace time production as quickly and effectively as possible so that the number of unemployed will be swiftly and substantially reduced as industry and business and agriculture get into high production.

"The government is now doing what it can to hurry this reconversion process.

"Thru contract termination procedures it is providing quick payment to contractors.

"It has released controls on practically all materials which are necessary for peace time production, reserving only those few in which there is still a critical shortage.

Credit Being Arranged

"It has made arrangements for credit facilities for industry.

"By plant and surplus property disposal, it is helping private enterprise to get started again.

"In the consumer field the government has released controls over articles which were needed for the war in such large quantities that civilians had to go without.

"For the information of the congress, I am submitting as an appendix to this message a report by the director of war mobilization and reconversion showing that has already been done by the federal government in reconversion.

"There is much that the congress can do to help this process and to tide over the period between now and the time when reconversion is completed and civilian jobs are plentiful in a stable economy that provides full production, full employment, and a high standard of living.

"1. UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION.

[A separate story on unemployment compensation plans is on page 11.]

HIGHER BASIC WAGE

Calls 40 Cents Hour Minimum Entirely Too Low

"2. FAIR LABOR STANDARDS ACT.

"In addition to those workers who will temporarily lose their jobs, there will be millions of others whose incomes will fall sharply with the end of war production. These will be added to the several million wage earners who even now have hourly earnings much below what is necessary for a decent standard of living.

"The inadequacy of these wages, in many cases, has been temporarily concealed by war time increases in take home pay resulting from overtime work. As these props to income are removed, however, low wage earners will be hard pressed to feed, clothe, and house their families. Failure to correct this situation will slow down, if it will not actually stop, our drive toward an expanding market for business and agriculture.

"In the fair labor standards act of 1938, the congress adopted a program intended to provide a minimum wage standard for a large number of American workers. The establishment then of a minimum wage of 25 cents per hour represented a first step toward the realization of that policy. The goal of 40 cents per hour, under the act, was to be made effective by 1945.

"I believed that the goal of a 40 cent minimum was inadequate when established. It has now become obsolete.

Asks Change in Law

"Increases in the cost of living since 1938 and changes in our national wage structure, require an immediate and substantial upward revision of this minimum. Only in that way can the national purchasing power be protected.

"I therefore recommend that the congress amend the fair labor standards act by substantially increasing the minimum wage.

"The scope of the fair labor standards act also should be clarified and extended. I believe it is no longer necessary to exclude from the minimum wage program the large number of workers engaged in agricultural processing who are now excluded.

"I urge that the congress act promptly. The wage structure on which business men may make future plans should be settled quickly.

FIGHTS INFLATION

Vows Rent, Essentials, and Food Won't Rise

"3. WAR TIME CONTROLS.

"One of the outstanding achievements of the war has been the success of the government in holding the line against inflation. This is the first time in any major war that the United States has been able substantially to stabilize its economy.

"Many of the demands of the war for commodities have now decreased. They will decrease further during the initial period of unemployment which will come with the cancellation of war contracts. As a result, prices of some commodities are bound to soften. But if that happens in the next few months, we must keep in mind the experience of the period immediately after the first World war.

Recalls 1919 'Excesses'

"We must be sure this time not to repeat that bitter mistake. When reconversion really gets under way, and men go back to work, and pay rolls increase, and the pent-up demands of the war years at home and abroad for peace time products begin to make themselves felt, we shall face the same scramble for goods, the same speculative excesses that developed in 1919. We must be in a position to overcome that danger if we expect to achieve an orderly transition to peace time levels of full production and full employment. However, we must not allow inflationary dangers to obscure our vision of the possibilities of lower incomes and widespread unemployment. Our policy must guard against both contingencies.

"During the transition period the price administrator, of course, will eliminate rationing and price controls of one commodity after another just as soon as supply comes into balance with demand. At the same time he will make whatever price adjustments are required to facilitate rapid reconversion and reëmployment. He has both my backing and my confidence.

"It will similarly be necessary for the government to resist pressures for increases in wage rates which would imperil price ceilings. Prices must be held firmly on reconversion items as well as on cost of living items during the coming months.

"The American people are entitled to a firm reassurance not only on the part of the administration, but from the congress itself, that rents and the prices of clothing, food, and other essentials will be held in line. They are also entitled to buy washing machines, vacuum cleaners, automobiles, and other products at prices based on our traditional system of high output and low unit costs.

Assurance to Business

"The promise of good profits for business men must not be based on small initial volume. It must be based on the full all-out production which it is my belief that American industry will rapidly achieve.

"Because of heavy war time needs, it has been necessary to allocate available supplies of many foods within this country, and among other countries. It has been necessary to set aside large blocks of specified commodities. Rationing of food for consumers has been necessary.

"Many of these controls have already been eliminated and all remaining allocations, set-asides, and rationing will be removed as rapidly as the supply situation will permit.

"However, supplies of some of our principal foods will continue beyond the end of 1945 to be too small for the demand.

Sugar, Fats, Oils

"For example, the world will be short of requirements for fats and oils and sugar for some months, and allocations and rationing will probably have to be continued into 1946.

"Let me add that in no case should rationing controls be removed if by so doing we should jeopardize our relief shipments to Europe and other distressed war areas. We have a moral obligation to the people of these liberated areas. The rehabilitation of these countries, and indeed the removal of American occupational troops, may be unnecessarily delayed if we fail to meet these responsibilities during the next few months.

"I trust that the congress will agree that the controls which still remain and which are still considered necessary by the agency charged with responsibility should not be removed until the need for them disappears. The need to control a few critical materials will continue for some time. Foremost among these materials are tin and crude rubber.

"The extension of one further type of control should have consideration at this time. In the national interest, this government has made and should continue to make agreements for securing our fair share of materials from certain foreign sources and also agreements for supplying various materials and products abroad. The government should have authority to assure the carrying out of such commitments.

"These production and inventory controls, as well as the allocations of food, set-asides of commodities, and rationing among consumers have been set up under the second war powers act.

"Most of the provisions of this act expire on Dec. 31, 1945.

"I am convinced that an orderly transition to a peace time economy will require the use of some of these controls after the first of the year. I request the congress, therefore, to extend the provisions of the second war powers act. The congress has my definite assurance that none of these war powers will be exercised unless they are deemed essential to the attainment of the objective of an orderly stabilized reconversion.

Food Subsidies Studied

"The termination of the war time food subsidies, for which a total of $1,798,000,000 has been authorized for the current year, is one of the important problems in reconversion. Agencies dealing directly with this problem are now meeting jointly to determine in what order and at what time these food subsidies may be eliminated. Subsidies for purposes other than food are also being reviewed.

WOULD KEEP AGENCIES

Not Time Yet to Declare End of Hostilities

"4. WAR POWERS AND EXECUTIVE AGENCIES REORGANIZATION.

"I should like to bring to the attention of the congress the legal difficulties that will arise unless care is taken in the drafting of legislation terminating war time controls and war time agencies.

"I have asked the attorney general to prepare a report on the principal statutes that confer war time powers and on the various war time agencies, with particular reference to the circumstances under which each terminates. A copy of this memorandum is attached.

Still in Effect

"Your attention is particularly called to the statement in the opinion of the attorney general to the effect that the broad basis of governmental power on which the existing emergency and war time statutes rest has not been terminated by the unconditional surrender of our enemies.

"From time to time action will be taken with respect to these agencies, with the general objective of streamlining the government into a peace time organization as quickly as possible.

"The time has not yet arrived, however, for the proclamation of the cessation of hostilities, much less the termination of the war.

"Those functions of the war time agencies which must be retained during part or all of the period of reconversion should be transferred as promptly as practicable to the permanent department and agencies of the government.

"I urge that the congress does not yet adopt a resolution proclaiming the termination of the war or the termination of the emergency or the cessation of hostilities. Such a resolution would automatically cause the death of many war powers and war time agencies before we are ready.

WORK FOR ALL

Wants Full Employment Bill Passed Quickly

"5. FULL EMPLOYMENT.

"I am confident that, with the cooperation of American industry, labor, and agriculture, we can bridge the gap between war and peace.

"The levels of production and income reached during the war years have given our citizens an appreciation of what a full production peace time economy can be.

"They are not interested in boom prosperity—for that only too often leads to panic and depression. But they are interested in providing opportunity for work and for ultimate security.

"Government must do its part and assist industry and labor to get over the line from war to peace. That is why I have asked for unemployment compensation legislation. That is why I now ask for full employment legislation.

Private Industry First

"To provide jobs we must look first and foremost to private enterprise—to industry, agriculture, and labor. Government must inspire enterprise with confidence. That confidence must come mainly thru deeds, not words.

"But it is clear that confidence will be promoted by certain assurances given by the government:

"Assurance that all the facts about full employment and opportunity will be gathered periodically for the use of all.

"Assurance of stability and consistency in public policy, so that enterprise can plan better by knowing what the government intends to do.

"Assurance that every governmental policy and program will be pointed to promote maximum production and employment in private enterprise.

"Assurance that priority will be given to doing those things first which stimulate normal employment most.

Universal Right to Work

"A national reassertion of the right to work for every American citizen able and willing to work—a declaration of the ultimate duty of government to use its own resources if all other methods should fail to prevent prolonged unemployment—these will help to avert fear and establish full employment. The prompt and firm acceptance of this bedrock public responsibility will reduce the need for its exercise.

"I ask that full employment legislation to provide these vital assurances be speedily enacted. Such legislation should also provide machinery for a continuous full employment policy—to be developed and pursued in cooperation among industry, agriculture, and labor, between the congress and the chief executive, between the people and their government.

"Full employment means full opportunity for all under the American economic system—nothing more and nothing less.

"In human terms, full employment means opportunity to get a good peace time job for every worker who is ready, able, and willing to take one. It does not mean made work, or making people work.

"In economic terms, full employment means full production and the opportunity to sell goods—all the goods that industry and agriculture can produce.

"In government terms, full employment means opportunity to reduce the ratio of public spending to private investment without sacrificing essential services.

"In world-wide terms, full employment in America means greater economic security and more opportunity for lasting peace thruout the world.

"These goals and the machinery to carry them out are set forth in legislation now pending before the congress on which extensive public hearings have been held. The country justifiably expects early action along these lines.

NO DISCRIMINATION

Wants No Bars Because of Race, Creed, or Color

"6. FAIR EMPLOYMENT PRACTICE COMMITTEE.

"During the years of war production we made substantial progress in overcoming many of the prejudices which had resulted in discriminations against minority groups. Many of the injustices based upon considerations of race, religion, and color were removed. Many were prevented.

"In the reconversion period and thereafter, we should make every effort to continue this American ideal.

"The fair employment practice committee is continuing during the transition period. I have already requested that legislation be enacted placing the fair employment practice committee on a permanent basis. I repeat that recommendation.

WLB TO CLOSE

Asks Labor to Continue Its No-Strike Vow

"7. LABOR DISPUTES AND WAGE STABILIZATION.

"Our national welfare requires that during the reconversion period production of civilian goods and services—as full production as possible—go forward without interruption, and that labor and industry cooperate to keep strikes and lockouts at a minimum.

"Those who have the responsibility of labor relations must recognize that responsibility. This is not the time for shortsighted management to seize upon the chance to reduce wages and try to injure labor unions. Equally, it is not the time for labor leaders to shirk their responsibility and permit widespread industrial strife.

"With this objective in view, I shall shortly convene a conference of representatives of organized labor and industry for the purpose of working out by agreement means to minimize labor disputes.

"In the interim period, pending the convening of the conference, I have called upon the representatives of organized labor and industry to continue their adherence to the no strike, no lockout policy.

"I have conferred upon the war labor board adequate authority to correct maladjustments and inequities in wage rates arising in the reconversion period.

"The board should be terminated as soon after the conclusion of the forthcoming industry-labor conference.

"Meanwhile plans for strengthening the department of labor, and bringing under it functions properly belonging to it, are going forward. With the return to a peace time economy and the elimination of the present temporary war time agencies and procedures, we must look to collective bargaining, aided and supplemented by a truly effective system of conciliation and voluntary arbitration, as the best and most democratic method of maintaining sound industrial relations.

AID TO JOB HUNTERS

Oppose Return of Employment Service to States

"8. UNITED STATES EMPLOYMENT SERVICE EXTENSION.

"Placing demobilized veterans and displaced war workers in new peace time jobs is the major human problem of our country's reconversion to a peace time economy. It is imperative that this work be done swiftly and efficiently, and that men and women lose a minimum amount of time between jobs.

"The United States employment service has an important responsibility in the performance of this task. At present, this agency operates as a national and centralized system with a free flow of information among its offices. Under the 1946 appropriation act, the offices are to be turned back to the 48 states within 90 days after the cessation of hostilities.

"Shortly after the declaration of war, the government realized that the man power of the nation could be mobilized more efficiently if the United States employment service were centralized under federal control.

Opposes Return Now

"The task of helping a vast army of job seekers to fit themselves into peace time economy is fully as difficult as the mobilization of man power for war. To make any decided change in the machinery to handle this problem now would cause unnecessary hardship to workers and veterans. It would slow down the entire process of reconversion.

"I urgently recommend that the congress does not yet return the employment service to the states. Ultimately it should be so returned. However, it should be continued under federal control at least until the expiration of the war mobilization act—June 30, 1947.

HELP FOR FARMERS

Favors Shift of Half Billion to Keep Up CCC

"9. AGRICULTURE.

"One of the most magnificent production jobs in the war has been done by the farmers of the United States. Food production last year reached a peak more than a third above the pre-war years despite the fact that farm population has declined by about five million since 1940.

"Because of the great demands for food that exist in this country and for relief abroad, the department of agriculture is planning for another year of full production. This does not mean the same volume of production for each individual crop, because the surrender of Japan has brought changes in the demand pattern. But the total acreage needed for next year will not be greatly different from this year.

"The government now must be prepared to carry out the nation's responsibility to aid farmers in making their necessary readjustments from a war time to a peace time basis. The congress already has provided post-war supports against price collapse for many farm products.

"There is need for additional measures to strengthen the machinery for carrying out price support commitments, and for laying the basis for broader peace time markets for agricultural products.

Asks More for CCC

"The congress already has provided for one such past-war measure that needs now to be adapted to our changed situation. Recognizing that the lend-lease program required greatly increased production and that this increase could not be suddenly discontinued when the program stopped, the congress wisely set aside $500,000,000 of lend-lease funds for price support of farm commodities. This money is now available for the purpose for which it was intended, but in order that it may be used most effectively whenever the need arises, I recommend early legislation which would make those funds available to the Commodity Credit corporation on a continuing basis. Such action would reaffirm the specific intent of the congress as to the use of this money safeguarding farm prices.

farm prices, will go a long way

"Strengthening the machinery for carrying out price support commitments is one measure necessary to safeguard farm prices. Stimulation of the export of farm commodities is another. More food is needed in the war ravaged areas of the world. In the process of meeting relief requirements abroad, we have the opportunity of developing export markets for the future.

"The farmer has always faced certain specific problems which are peculiar to his occupation. His crops are at the mercy of the weather.

Right to Protection

"The factory owner and the worker at the machine have available to them insurance programs which protect them from losses. Our farmers have the right to the same kind of protection. Strengthening and further development of crop insurance for farmers, organized and backed by the federal government, can give them this protection. A well rounded, crop insurance program, together with the assurance of reasonable and stable toward meeting basic problems which have plagued farmers in the past.

"Within recent years the congress has enacted various measures which have done much to improve the economic status of this country's farmers and to make rural living more attractive. The secretary of agriculture is now reëxamining existing agricultural programs in the light of peace time needs in order that they may make the fullest contribution to the welfare of farmers and the people as a whole. I hope that the congress also, will give careful consideration to this problem with a view to making such adjustments as are necessary to strengthen the effectiveness of these various measures.

DRAFT POLICY

Favors Two Years' Service for Men 18 Thru 25

"10. SELECTIVE SERVICE.

"While the cruel lessons of war are fresh in every mind, it is fitting that we now undertake appropriate measures for the future security of the United States.

"The times call for a broad and realistic appraisal of our military needs and obligations. We have charted the course to a stable world peace, but that course still remains to be sailed.

"We must continue to be ready to defend our national integrity by maintaining and manning adequate defense establishments within this continent, at the Panama Canal, and at all our bases overseas. As a member of the security council of the united nations, we have an immediate obligation to bear a share, commensurate with our national standing, in safeguarding the future security of all peace loving nations. As a victor in the greatest war of history, we are committed now to an armed occupation of the lands of our defeated enemies until it is assured that the principles for which we fought shall prevail in the reconstruction of those lands.

"To meet these immediate obligations will require the maintenance for some time of a real measure of our present land, sea, and air power.

Duty to Fighting Men

"And in this first year after victory our people have another obligation, one which is felt in almost every American home. We owe it to those now in the armed forces that they be returned to civilian life with all possible speed.

"To provide the personnel necessary to meet these immediate obligations we must obtain replacements for those veterans who have already rendered long and arduous service.

"We shall make every effort to raise these replacements by recruiting volunteers. To that end I ask that the congress consider ways and means to assure the maximum success of the recruiting campaigns which have already been authorized. I suggest that legislation be enacted to remove the present restriction on eligibility for voluntary enlistment and to allow the armed forces to enlist a larger number of volunteers than is now authorized. It is further recommended that, in order to enable the armed forces satisfactorily to compete in the procurement of personnel, the congress provide suitable inducements for volunteer service in the army and navy.

"However, in view of our extensive national commitments, I am certain, as are the war and navy departments, that we cannot rely on voluntary recruitment as the sole method of procuring the necessary replacements.

Universal Training

"I, therefore, urge that the congress continue inductions to assure replacements for these veterans, in such numbers as are not supplied by volunteers.

"It would seem reasonable to limit inductions hereafter to men between the ages of 18 and 25, inclusive, and fix their maximum term of service at two years.

"Under the existing statute, inductees can be legally retained only for the duration of the war and a period of six months thereafter. I trust that, in any event, congress will not pass a resolution to the effect that the war has terminated for the purpose of this statute. To do so would give to all inducted men and temporary officers of the army now on active duty the right to civilian status, and would create an impossible demobilization situation.

"It is my intention to communicate with the congress from time to time during the current session with respect to a comprehensive and continuous program of national security, including a universal training program, unification of the armed services, and the use and control of atomic energy.

MILLIONS OF HOMES

Suggests Federal Assistance on Housing and Slums

"11. HOUSING.

"The largest single opportunity for the rapid post-war expansion of private investment and employment lies in the field of housing, both urban and rural. The present shortage of decent homes and the enforced widespread use of substandard housing indicate vital unfulfilled needs of the nation. These needs will become more marked as veterans begin to come back and look for places to live.

"There is wide agreement that, over the next 10 years, there should be built in the United States an average of from a million to a million and a half homes a year.

Seven Billion Outlay

"Such a program would provide an opportunity for private capital to invest from six to seven billion dollars annually. Private enterprise in this field could provide employment for several million workers each year. A housing program of this realistic size would, in turn, stimulate a vast amount of business and employment in industries which make house furnishings and equipment of every kind and in the industries which supply the materials for them."

"I urgently recommend that the congress, at an early date, enact broad and comprehensive legislation.

"The cardinal principle underlying such legislation should be that house construction and financing for the overwhelming majority of our citizens should be done by private enterprise.

"We should retain and improve upon the present excellent government facilities which permit the savings of the people to be channeled voluntarily into private house construction on financing terms that will serve the needs of home owners of moderate income.

"We must consider the redevelopment of large areas of the blighted and slum sections of our cities so that in the truly American way they may be remade to accommodate families not only of low income groups as heretofore, but of every income group. We must make it possible for private enterprise to do the major part of this job.

"The time has come for the government to begin to undertake a program of federal aid to stimulate and promote the redevelopment of these deteriorating areas. Such federal aid should be extended only to those communities which are willing to bear a fair part of the cost of clearing their blighted city areas and preparing them for redevelopment and rebuilding.

"For those low income groups, representing but a small portion of the total housing need, our pre-war program of federal aid to communities for low rent housing should be resumed.

"12. RESEARCH.

[A separate story on research and the atomic bomb is on page 4.]

"13. TRANSITION TAX REVISION.

[A separate story on the President's tax recommendations is on page 11.]

"14. SURPLUS PROPERTY DISPOSAL.

"On July 17 I recommended that the congress enact legislation creating a single surplus property administrator in place of the board of three which was provided in the statute enacted last year. I strongly urge that you act on it now.

Asks Prompt Disposition

"The disposition of plants and equipment is of particular urgency. They should be disposed of promptly by sale or lease on a basis that is fair to the government and to industry.

SMALL BUSINESS AID

Pledges Help in Allowing Materials and Money

"15. SMALL BUSINESS.

"During the war special attention was paid to small business. In spite of the fact that many businesses were helped and saved, it is true that many thousands of them were obliged to close up because of lack of materials or man power or inability to get into war production.

"Assistance should be given to small businesses to enable them to obtain adequate materials, private financing, technological improvements, and surplus property.

"16. VETERANS.

"It has been a fundamental objective of the congress and of the administration to make generous provisions for those who have served the nation in its armed forces, and for the dependents of those who have died in their country's cause. A full list of what has been done toward this objective would be entirely too long to enumerate here.

"The transition of veterans from military to civilian activities cannot be accomplished satisfactorily by the federal government alone, or other states alone, or, indeed, by both. Government can help chiefly thru organization and overall planning. But the real work must be done in each community, thru cooperation of the industrial, labor, and civic organizations interested in the welfare of the community and of the veterans.

"Broad and generous as the legislation for veterans has been, there will be need of amendments and improvements. I recommend that the congress give prompt consideration to the recommendations which have been made by the veterans administration for the purpose of clarifying and liberalizing the provisions relative to hospital and medical care, to vocational training under the vocational rehabilitation act, and to education and training under the servicemen's readjustment act.

"I also urge consideration of the suggestions made by the veterans administration with respect to the loan guarantee features of the latter act, to amendments clarifying and liberalizing the national service life insurance act, and those which would increase the rates of compensation for specific injuries including multiple amputations.

"I have recommended that the selective training and service act be continued. But if the congress determines to the contrary, I urgently recommend that it clarify the provisions thereof which specifically deal with the right of reëmployment. I also recommend that the congress expedite legislation giving veterans social security coverage credit for the period of their service in the armed services.

PUBLIC WORKS

3,000 Airports, Miles of Roads Among Plans

"17. PUBLIC WORKS AND NATIONAL RESOURCES.

"During the war years we have expanded our resources—both human and natural—without stint. In brief, altho during this war this nation has reached the apex of its power, our national capital account has greatly suffered. We must proceed with all possible diligence not merely to restore these depleted resources to their pre-war standards but to make them greater and richer than ever before.

"We must make a diligent effort to discover new deposits of the precious and indispensable minerals upon which our national life is founded. We must develop for the use of industry new technologies so that the vast deposits of low-grade ores may be put to work for the good of all of us. We should build and improve our roads. We must harness our streams. We must rebuild and reclaim our land. We must protect and restore our forests.

River Development

"I hope that the congress will proceed as rapidly as possible to authorize regional development of the natural resources of our great river valleys.

"It is necessary that we proceed as speedily as possible to set up machinery to make an inventory of our national wealth and our basic resources, and to test the suitability of plans and proposals for public works in light of this purpose. Now that materials and man power will become more plentiful, we should be prepared to undertake a program of useful public works. Only such public works should now be undertaken, however, as will not compete with the use of materials and manpower by private industry.

"In this connection I have several recommendations:

"1. Plans for some these projects—specifically those relating to reclamation, rivers and harbors, flood control, and the conservation of our natural resources—are now ready, and their construction can go forward when funds are provided and materials and man power are available without competing with private industry. Plans for other federal projects are being prepared thru the use of funds wisely appropriated by the congress for advance preparation. Additional funds are needed for this purpose, and I urge that the congress provide them.

More Federal Building

"2. I recommend that the congress enact legislation authorizing additional construction of certain federal buildings.

"3. I recommend that the congress release the funds for the highway program authorized under the federal aid highway act of 1944 [Public Law 521, 78th Cong.]. Under this act $500,000,000 has been authorized for the first year and $500,000,000 for each of the two succeeding years, making a total authorization of 1½ billion. With the states' share of the cost included, this would provide a total highway construction program of $3,000,000,000 for a three year period.

"4. I recommend that the congress appropriate $25,000,000 to continue the construction of the Inter-American highway thru the central American republics to the Canal Zone.

"5. I recommend that the congress enact legislation to provide the necessary airports and airport facilities to serve the great needs of an expanded post-war air transportation and commerce. The congress now has before it a survey of the present and future needs for airports in the United States prepared by the secretary of commerce. This report indicates the necessity for approximately 3,000 new airports and for improvements to more than half of the existing 3,000 airports. The report recommends that the program be spread over a period of 10 years and that the cost be shared equally between federal and nonfederal governmental agencies. I recommend passage of appropriate legislation to implement this program.

Aid to Hospitals

"6. States and local governments should be encouraged to construct useful public works such as streets, sewers, water supply, hospitals, airports, schools, and other necessary public facilities.

"The congress has already authorized appropriations for advances of federal funds to state and local governments to assist them in the preparation of detailed drawings and specifications for their public works. The appropriation thus far made is entirely inadequate and I shall request additional funds in order to speed up this important activity. I recommend that the congress give early consideration to grants for such public works under conditions that will insure that each level of government, federal, state, and local, shall make its appropriate contribution.

"7. The federal government must continue to recognize its obligation to maintain and improve the health of the nation by providing federal grants where necessary for the construction of hospital and health centers.

"Programs of internal improvements of a public character—federal, state, and local—must preserve competitive bidding, guarantee collective bargaining, and good wages for labor, utilize the skills of our returned veterans to the fullest extent, and effectively prevent discrimination because of race, creed, or color.

consider the settlement of the lend-lease obligations. We must recognize that it will not be possible for our allies to pay us dollars for the overwhelming portion of the lend-lease obligations which they have incurred.

"But this does not mean that all lend-lease obligations are to be canceled. We shall seek under the procedure prescribed in the lend-lease act and in subsequent agreements with other governments to achieve settlements of our war time lend-lease which will permit generally a sound world-wide economy and will contribute to international peace and our own national security.

"We have taken steps to carry out the Bretton Woods proposals for an international monetary fund and an international bank. We are preparing to extend the operations of the export-import bank. Further legislation is also necessary. If we are to avoid the maintenance of governmental monopoly of international credit, the Johnson act must be repealed. Private loans on a sane basis are an essential adjunct to the operations of the export-import and international bank operations.

"We have already solemnly stated that we will do all that is reasonably possible to help war-torn countries to get back on their feet. I am sure that the congress will wish the government to live up to that pledge.

"Further legislative action is needed in connection with the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration. I recommend that the congress fulfill the commitment already made by appropriating the remaining $550,000,000 granted by the congress for United States participation.

"The council recently voted to recommend to member countries a further contribution. Our own share will amount to approximately $1,350,000,000. I ask for prompt examination and consideration of the request.

"Finally, I foresee the need for additional interim lending power to insure a rapid and successful transition to peace time world trade. Appropriate recommendations will be made to the congress on this matter when we have completed the exploratory conversation already begun with our associates. I ask the congress for speedy consideration of the recommendations when they are made.

HIGHER CONGRESS PAY

$15,000 to $25,000 a Year Proposed to Them

"19. CONGRESSIONAL SALARIES.

"Now that restrictions on voluntary salary increases have been removed, I hope that congress will take action soon on the salaries of its members.

$15,000 to $25,000 Year

"There is no doubt in the mind of any thinking American that members of the congress are grossly underpaid and have been for many years. I think that they are entitled—and have already so expressed myself—to a salary anywhere from $15,000 to $25,000 a year. I recommend that the congress enact legislation providing that the salaries of its members be increased to $20,000 per year.

"I also recommend that an adequate retirement system should be provided for members who have served for a long period of years.

"This should be the first step in creating a decent salary scale for all federal government employes—executive, legislative, and judicial.

"I sincerely hope that the congress will take early steps to provide decent wage scales for its members and for the executive and judicial branches of the government.

"20. SALE OF SHIPS.

"Prompt resumption of the normal operation of our merchant marine to expedite the reestablishment of our foreign trade is a major part of general reconversion. The maritime commission has already received numerous inquiries and applications from potential purchasers of ships at home and abroad for private ownership and operation. It is recommended that suitable legislation to permit such sales be expedited.

"21. STOCK PILING OF STRATEGIC MATERIAL.

"One of the costliest lessons of our unpreparedness for this war was the great danger involved in depending upon foreign sources for supplies of raw materials necessary in times of national emergency. The United States should never again permit itself to be placed in a position where its defense may be jeopardized by the fact that it has been cut off from the source of strategic raw materials.

"I recommend that the congress enact legislation to bring about the acquisition and retention of stock piles of materials in which we are naturally deficient.

National Health Program

"I shall shortly recommend a national health program to provide adequate medical care for all Americans and to protect them from financial loss and hardships resulting from illness and accident. I shall also communicate with the congress with respect to expending our social security system, and improving our program of education for our citizens.

"In this hour of victory over our enemies abroad, let us now resolve to use all our efforts and energies to build a better life here at home and a better world for generations to come."

"Who? The tax collector? Send him right out here."

INCISO ARRESTED IN VIOLENCE BY STRIKE PICKETS

Angelo Inciso, an ex-convict, international representative of the United Automobile Workers' union [AFL], was arrested yesterday by Capt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail, who accused him of allowing pickets to assault women workers entering the Chicago Die Mold Manufacturing company, 4001 Wrightwood av., where 100 union members have been on strike since noon Wednesday.

When a score of women attempted to enter the plant despite the picket line at the doors, they were "assaulted and mauled" by the pickets while Inciso stood by, Barnes said. Inciso was taken into custody and removed to the detective bureau.

The strike involves a contract dispute between the union and the company. Before calling the strike, the union members protested the war labor board's failure to give a decision in the dispute.

Buffalo, N. Police quoted Rena Taylor, 18, who was taking care of the twins while their parents went to a movie, as saying the girls took a bottle of the fluid from a kitchen table while she was not looking.

THE MIDDLE WEST GETS A WHITE HOUSE NOD

Adm. of the Fleet William D. Leahy, chief of staff to the President in his role of commander in chief, paid a remarkable tribute to the middle west in an address on Labor day to a farm audience at Yankton, S. D. He said that despite the successful completion of a global war "in one particular we remain isolationists—in our primary devotion to the interests and welfare of America."

"Here where you live is the bedrock of America," continued the admiral. "Here lie the stable elements, the land and its people, which have kept and will keep our country strong and free. This is bad planting ground for alien philosophies, but the institutions and traditions of democracy are firmly rooted. It is a forward looking land eager for new horizons, progressive in its dedication to the public good, but conservative in its defense of the American way of life."

Adm. Leahy called the middle west "a prime recruiting ground" for the army and navy and added that it was "the world's bread basket, its dairy, and in considerable part, its arsenal."

The admiral knows whereof he speaks. He is a midwesterner himself, born in Hampton, Ia. Yet a speech such as he made, coming from a spokesman for the inner White House circle, shows more clearly than any other possible evidence how completely fashions of White House thought have changed within less than six months.

Adm. Leahy held his position as chief of staff to the commander in chief during the tenure of Mr. Roosevelt. He might have liked to have made such a speech as he made at Yankton during those days, but he could have been sure that it would have been frowned upon. The middle west was a continual target for the sneers of the eastern seaboard, abetted by the entire New Deal. The White House was not above directing contempt and derision upon the same sort of middle western patriotism which Adm. Leahy can now praise openly.

"Isolationism" was in those days a smear word, the true meaning of which, as defined by Adm. Leahy, was disregarded. It was distorted into a term intended to rebuke millions of people covering one of the greatest areas in the nation thru the implication that they pursued a narrow and purblind course of provincial self-interest. Pliable agents, like the unregretted Archibald MacLeish, were sent out here to inveigh against people who were second to none in their loyalty to their country and who placed its interests above all others.

Yes, times have changed. A middle westerner is in the White House now. Middle westerners about him can give deserved praise to the great heart of the nation, where people are more firmly dedicated to the liberties of the Republic than they ever have been or will be on the European minded east coast, with its slavish regard for the condescending and niggardly favors which are to be had from foreign aristocracy. It is no longer heresy to the White House to speak the truth and give their honest due to patriotic citizens. The Union, after the destructive days of disunity, is whole again.

TAXES AND JOBS

Gov. Martin of Pennsylvania said truthfully the other day that the only way national solvency can be restored is to put federal taxation on a mass production basis. By this he meant that tax rates should be lowered so that everybody will have more income to be taxed. He recommended a 20 per cent reduction of the federal income tax as the "shot in the arm so desperately needed by lagging reconversion."

Gov. Martin made his remarks in Philadelphia before his 18 fellow Republicans who sit in the lower house of congress. They and the rest of the minority in congress will do well if they adopt his program as their own.

Congress is expected to adopt a tax reduction program, but the shape of the program has not been fixed. One proposal has been to release the lower brackets of taxpayers from paying any tax whatever. This may be superficially attractive as a vote getting measure, but it won't help even the individuals it is supposed to help, because they are less concerned about taxes than they are about having some income on which to pay taxes.

The war time tax rates were adopted to stifle individual enterprise and to prevent new businesses being started to compete with war plants for labor and materials. They worked admirably to that end, but they will still work just as well to the same end now that the country's greatest need is those new plants and the jobs and orders they will create. Nobody is tempted to start a new business under a schedule of tax rates which assures in advance that he is to take his own losses but the government will take the major share of his profits if he succeeds.

Either this country is going to make it possible for private enterprise to furnish jobs, by holding out the reward of profit for those who make the jobs, or it is going to destroy private enterprise and make the furnishings of jobs the function of a dictatorial government. Unless the present tax rates are reduced we'll get the dictatorship.

THE SLIPPING POUND

American soldiers in London were told by the high command last week to convert the sterling balances they had in London banks into dollars "in order to guard against loss." What this meant was that they might get fewer dollars later for the pounds to their credit than can be had by immediate conversion. The guaranteed rate of exchange goes off at the end of this month.

During the war the pound had been pegged at $4.02½ with the assistance of the American treasury. When a free market in sterling is reestablished the rate will be different. After the peg was pulled following the last war the pound dropped from $4.50 to $3.19 and later recovered to the full pre-war basis of $4.87. That British exchange will drop now if allowed to seek its own level is perfectly clear.

In the first place there are 10 or 12 billion dollars in sterling which the owners would convert into dollars at concession if the government would release the blocked accounts. Even if these accounts continue blocked when the free sterling market is reëstablished, they will exercise a bearish influence upon the exchange rate just as the wheat held off the market in 1932 by the American farm board depressed the price.

Then there are substantial funds owned by British people who are bearish on their country, under a regime which has promised its socialist supporters that it will nationalize the Bank of England and leading British industries. The flight from the pound by these interests has already been reported even under existing controls.

Besides all this there is that considerable body of British opinion which opposes an agreement upon a post-war sterling dollar rate, because of the belief that a cheaper pound would help the British export business. There has been opposition expressed to ratification of the Bretton Woods agreements because the international monetary fund would deny the British a free hand in cutting the exchange price of the pound. The two groups, the ones who believe the pound cannot stand up and the ones who believe the pound ought to be knocked down, are sufficiently impressive to indicate to any GI what to do about his bank balance in London.

CITIZENS OF CANADA

The dominion parliament convening in Ottawa is expected to receive proposals from Prime Minister Mackenzie King under which Canadians would become "citizens of Canada" instead of "British subjects," and would have their own flag and national anthem separate from Britain's. These changes are in accord with the development of nationalism in our neighbor to the north and will be welcome to Canadians and Americans alike as evidences of the spread of freedom and political sovereignty on this continent.

Ever since the British North America act of 1867 established the dominion of Canada the Canadian people have been progressing toward independence from England. The act borrowed part of the structure of the American Union, but departed from the wise provision of our Constitution reserving to the states all powers not specifically granted to the federal government. Canada instead made the dominion parliament supreme.

The authority of the British crown was acknowledged also in provisions conferring upon the British parliament the right to amend or abrogate any acts of the dominion parliament and yielding to the judicial committee of the British privy council the right to review and overrule the judgments of dominion courts. In 1931, however, the British parliament, in the statute of Westminster, passed a self-denying act which waived these rights previously conferred upon the crown by Canada itself.

This would seem to have opened the way for Canadians to draft any sort of constitution that they desired. The British North America act, however, was deficient in the particular that no means of amendment had been specified. Altho the mother country had declared a policy of keeping hands off the dominions in the statute of Westminster, the Canadians apparently were left with their hands tied by their own act of 1867.

Canadian constitutional authorities believe that this impasse could be circumvented either thru petition of the people of the dominion or by unanimous appeal for the right of amendment by the provincial parliaments. Prime Minister King evidently feels that the problem is not insurmountable or he would not contemplate submitting such significant changes as are to be offered to parliament.

It would seem that if Canadians are to be acknowledged as "citizens" rather than "subjects," all of the rights and dignities attendant upon their status as completely free men should be conferred upon them at the same time. The British North America act does not make provision for the rights and immunities which are expressly granted American citizens in the first 10 amendments. There is, for example, no constitutional guarantee in Canada against abridgement of free speech and press.

Prime Minister King should complete his program by submitting to parliament the same principles that are embodied in the American Bill of Rights. It is an idle satisfaction to be styled "citizen" if the liberties which confirm a citizen in his freedom are withheld. With the sphere of personal liberty constantly contracting thruout the world, it would encourage human aspirations everywhere if Canadians would now provide a demonstration that there is still opportunity for enlarging the area of freedom.

THE ETERNAL ATOM

It is about time for some one to remember the most amusing reference to atoms in English literature. It occurs in Mercutio's fantastic speech about Queen Mab in "Romeo and Juliet." We quote:

O, then I see Queen Mab hath been with you.
She is the fairies' midwife, and she comes
In shape no bigger than an agate-stone
On the forefinger of an alderman,
Drawn by a team of little atomies
Athwart men's noses as they lie asleep.

Atomic thought can be traced back for 25 centuries. Its chief ancient spokesman, Democritus, had forerunners in Leucippus, another Greek philosopher, and Kanada, a Hindu sage called "the atom eater." In Roman times the atom figured in an epic poem which is famous among classical scholars—"Concerning the Nature of Things," by Lucretius. He spoke of:

"Those particles which could make sea, stars, sky, and moon, and the walls of the great universe, for these were all made of seeds more smooth and more round and far smaller elements than the earth."

John Dalton, whose atomic theory became the foundation of modern chemistry, was an English Quaker who supported himself by teaching in grade schools. Even when he was past 60, and widely acclaimed, he continued to tutor private students in arithmetic. He worked out his theory by drawing diagrammatic pictures of the various atoms, with a cat sitting on his knee as he worked at his notebook.

Dr. William J. Mayo, co-founder of the great clinic at Rochester, Minn., has written:

"My father was a student of Dalton and when my brother and I were small boys he told us much about this tall, gaunt, awkward scholar, and how little it was realized in his day that the atomic theory was more than the vagary of a scientist."

LADY WITH A MASK

if I made vows to you and often wept or wore a ragged heart upon my sleeve or told you of the nights I hadn't slept it's ten to one, my sweet, that you would leave and if I took our love quite solemnly assumed a tragic pose and tore my hair
if I swore gravely you were life to me
I know I'd look to find you weren't there however, dear, I've found it passing smart to let you wonder whether I am true to let you doubt me when we are apart and you enjoy the chase I'm giving you

ah yes, my smile's mysterious and slow
it hides a secret that you'll never know

Town Planning, Old Style

When George M. Pullman built his town on the west shore of Lake Calumet in 1880, he envisioned a united community. He built one beautiful church, which is in use today.

It is constructed of green serpentine stone from Pennsylvania. There is a magnificent rose window of chromatic glass in its west wall, and the original interior was of highly polished oak, neutral paint tints, and a ceiling to represent the firmament. It had a seating capacity of 600 and cost about $60,000. When it was finished it lacked one thing—a congregation.

There was no shortage of churchgoers in the community, but the Episcopalians decided to meet in the Pullman library, Baptists were using the Odd Fellows hall, and Swedish Baptists met in the Rock Island depot. Presbyterians were meeting in Market hall, and Catholics found a church in adjoining Roseland.

Pullman's dream of unity was laid aside and his church was rented to the Methodists, whose congregation of 70 members was all but lost in its interior. An early historian wrote bitterly: "Nowhere this side of the New Jerusalem will man consent to unity."

BE NOT LONELY

Be not lonely, you who lie
Beneath some strange and far-flung sky,
Earthbound, or tossed by restless sea.
Be not lonely, thinking we
Will now return to daily chore,
Resuming ways of life once more—
The olden ways, as if the same,
As if the holocaust's fierce flame
Had left unchanged their even flow.
Think not that we will walk as tho
None were away and naught amiss—
Be not lonely, know forever this,
Hearts cannot forget, so we,
The returned, shall always lonely be.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0800, gives personal interviews.]

Mrs. L. S. asks: "Will you please tell me if a soldier just discharged from an army hospital and now put on pension for a three-quarter disability has to sign his discharge certificate and accept release from the army and then wait until he receives his first pension check to learn how much he is going to receive each month? Should not the soldier be told what his pension will be before he is asked to sign his discharge?"

Before a soldier can receive pension for disability he must be discharged from the army. So long as he remains in the army he gets army pay. After discharge the veteran must appear before a veterans' administration rating board which will determine his percentage of disability. This board is not bound by any finding of the army medical examiners who recommend his discharge. After the rating board has determined the veteran's percentage of disability the veteran will be told. Payment will be made at the rate of $11.50 a month for each 10 per cent of disability, with a maximum of $115 for total disability.

COMMON BALDNESS

MAN, thruout the ages, has been interested in hair. Methods of preventing that "billiard ball" appearance have been searched for frantically. Today, we are aware of the fact that the main function of the thatch is to serve as an ornamental frame for the head. But this was not always the belief in days gone by.

According to Rattner, there were times when locks had a more definite meaning. We are all familiar with the story of Samson pushing apart the columns of the temple. The freeman was distinguished from the slave by his long tresses; the cavalier wore curls, and a "polled" head denoted the Puritan. The color also was thought significant, for black indicated strength and ambition, and blondness was a sign of mildness and affection. Lack of hair thru natural causes was deemed a curse.

As the years rolled by it became evident that many prominent men were among this group. Thus baldness became symbolic of great intelligence and wisdom. Altho this thought still exists today, it hardly compensates for the loss. Whether these individuals are wise is still disputable, but Rattner makes the following comment: "The familiar picture of a baldheaded barber rubbing tonic into the scalp of a man with thinning hair might conceivably be an indication of wisdom and eloquence—but only upon the part of the barber."

Why some males begin to lose hair as they grow older has never been definitely established. The amount varies in each and a characteristic pattern is often handed down from generation to generation. A few have a high forehead; others a small spot on the top of the head. Many are less fortunate, for baldness descends gradually to the hatband area. Total loss is seldom encountered.

Fortunately, shedding is not as extensive in the fairer sex. But when the phenomenon occurs, it can be considered well nigh a catastrophe. The fact that it still denotes shame is evidenced by the treatment afforded the female collaborators in nazi freed countries.

But what causes baldness? Many theories as to the origin have been suggested. The wearing of hats is believed to be a factor, but a poor excuse is better than none. McCarthy noted that in Germany where hats are seldom worn, the incidence is high. Some are of the opinion that the situation results from overtaxing the mind. Circulatory disorders often have been blamed. One of the most amusing ideas is that we really never lose our "crowning glory"—it just migrates to some other part of the body. At least this theory explains why these men have such a heavy growth on the chest.

Glandular disturbances as a possible cause originated from the observation that baldness is seldom noted in women, children, and eunuchs. Hence it has been deducted that the male hormone may be responsible but it is possible that other glands join this culprit. At present the problem remains controversial. Heredity is by far the most satisfactory answer and, until a better explanation is found, prevention rests with genetics.

[Other types of baldness will be discussed in a future article.]

FOOT TROUBLE

REPLY

The origin of the bee venom treatment may be traced to this notion, but the results have not been too satisfactory.

HEART SOUNDS

T. F. writes: What is meant by thrills of the heart?

REPLY

Should one of the cardiac valves be narrowed, a vibration is set up by the blood as it passes thru. This sound may be likened to a cat's purr. Congenital defects may also be responsible.

ALCOHOL AND PRESSURE

This depends entirely upon the effect. If the amount consumed is stimulating, it is not advised.

Battle of the Great Lakes

The weariest mob of warriors seen in these parts in many a day can be found aboard LST 512 at its mooring beside the Michigan av. bridge on the Chicago river. This job of capturing strongholds along the shores of inland America has about got them down. We clambered aboard for midday chow [ham!] the other day and listened to two hours of sorrow.

"It's rugged," the captain said dully. "We've worked a whole lot harder than in a combat zone," said another, veteran of 20 crossings of the English channel. "It's nerve wracking because we're not in the show business," a third explained, "and it's just plain, hard work seven days a week." Even the ship's casualties have gone up. The common cold, combined with too much liberty after a 12 hour working day, has them in its grip.

Since June the ship, with its complement of battle scarred marines, has taken Bello Jima [Belle Isle at Detroit], Ontario beach [at Buffalo], Presque Jima [Presque Isle at Erie], the bottom of Michigan st. [at Rochester], Riverside Park [at Toledo], a good portion of Lake Erie [at Cleveland], and Red Beach One [Foster av. at Chicago], the latter on Labor day. They have taken the beaches and, counting the 23,551 civilians who stormed aboard her on Labor day, a million members of the public have taken the ship.

The latter phrase is literal. A Jap Baka suicide plane is on display on the LST. The public, working circumspectly and cunningly, bit by bit has nipped away all its fabric, Souvenirs. The nonskid cleats with which the decks are overlaid to prevent skidding in combat have been worn down to the deck, and even the steel deck is full of pocks from public trampling. Every day the crew has to turn to around dawn to clean, repair, and repaint the ravages of the preceding day's 25,000 guests. From noon to 9:30 they hold open house. A little liberty, a little sleep—and the total absence of night breezes on the Chicago river this last week have not aided that—and it is time to repaint.

"Seven days a week, it's show, show, show, dress-up, dress-up, dress-up," one lamented. "Makes laundry one of our worst problems. Three men have to work the laundry 24 hours a day. And then those feet overhead. Listen . . ." and he pointed to the ceiling of the wardroom. It was 12:05. Clump, clump, clump went the public. "Never stops. A friend of mine teased me when we started out. Said this was a summer cruise. It's rugged, all right. Rugged. From here we go to 21 other cities, up the Ohio and down the Mississippi, and get to New Orleans on Jan. 13." He sighed. "It looks like a long war." True to the spirit of an earlier American ship-of-war on the Great Lakes, LST 512 has not yet begun to fight.

The end of the big war has merely increased their work, for attendance has shot up since the Jap surrender. Visitors who previously viewed the ship grimly now go thru with a smile. They look at the captured Jap machine gun with a different viewpoint; it no longer will kill their sons. The day Halsey's 3d fleet entered Tokyo bay, Aug. 29, brought LST 512, then fighting at Racine, its all-time high, 25,065 visitors.

So far the beachhead invasions have been witnessed by a million and a half. Possibly 25 or 30 of these have been injured slightly by flying sand or debris. One officer's sole duty is to yell thru a public address system, "Stay outside . . . and keep alive!" He thinks psychology is better than force, for altho the excitement at Toledo induced one woman to have a baby, no major disasters have occurred among the civilians.

The ship's casualties to date have been one man taken ashore at Milwaukee for an appendectomy, one two day concussion at Cleveland, one scratched knee cap at Detroit, 16 teeth extracted en route, 60 teeth filled, four men recommended for glasses, and two cases of cat fever. The pharmacist's mate alone seemed relaxed the day we dropped aboard. He was reading Koestler's "The Yogi and the Commissar." He said the rivers on Guadalcanal were much better than the Chicago river. A man could bathe in them. None of these heavy colds out there, either, and no liberty at all.

WE NEED BRAINS

Waukesha, Wis., Aug. 29—I cannot tell you with what happiness and satisfaction I read your editorial today on the draft and advocating the release of our prospective college students. I have been so concerned over the continued drafting of these boys and over the fact that the present outlook for demobilization seems to put them last on the list.

In normal times only 2 per cent of our high school graduates, boys and girls, went on to college—a small percentage to afford the scientists and leaders this nation is going to need. To keep prospective college students in the armed forces beyond the age when they will want to return to their educations will be a crime against our country.

LITTERED ALLEYS

Chicago, Sept. 4—The city council has launched a war on rats by authorizing purchase of several thousand garbage cans, to be distributed free. Isn't this hitching the cart before the mule? Take the alley bound by Garfield blvd. and 54th st. and bisecting Laflin and Justine sts. Practically every house has a garbage container and garbage is picked up on the average of once a week, or at most every two.

However, garbage, empty milk cartons, and other debris are strewn in the alley almost immediately after a garbage collection has been made. Rats are on the rampage. What we need is a law with teeth in it to compel people to place garbage wrapped in paper in the container provided for such purposes. Make the owner or the property responsible, and the tenants in turn responsible to him.

Board of health inspectors could make an inspection from time to time with no additional cost to the city. First offenders should be fined and continued and second offenders given a heavier fine or even a session in the Bridewell.

HYPHENATED AMERICANS

Cleveland, O., Aug. 26—It is a sad commentary on Americanism to read that organizations like the American Association for the United Nations, Inc., can have speakers daily spreading their false propaganda in the United States, while those who would preserve the Constitution dare not speak their views without being branded "fascist." I doubt if even the head of the American Legion could get on the air without his talk being censored by some foreigner.

When we closed the nazi bunds in this country, we should have shut down the British bunds and the communist cells, too. It is not too late to do it now. Why not a movement to close down all foreign propaganda agencies—British, Communist, French, and all? That should be a good program for the American Legion. Their slogan could be, "If you are not for the United States, you are against it."

NO SAFETY STICKERS

Wisconsin Dells, Wis., Aug. 28—While visiting this week in Chicago I noticed the car Gen. De Gaulle and Mayor Kelly were riding in. I didn't see any safety sticker on the mayor's car or on some used by city officials and police. But they pick up and fine a working man for not having one.

FRANK MUELLER

THE OFFICERS DIDN'T PROTEST

Chicago, Sept. 2—Mr. Flynn Sunday seems to plant the basic responsibility for Pearl Harbor on our late President. The large, unsolved question here, however, is just when does public responsibility on the part of our top navy and army men cease, even to the point of resigning rather than betray their country and their charges? Flynn cites Adm. Richardson, who, long before events reached disaster level, refused to hold his fleet at Pearl Harbor and was thereafter no longer in command. He placed his integrity, the naval service, and his country ahead of taking orders he knew to be fatal.

Isn't that, in short, what the public has a right to expect from the top men, not only in the field but in Washington? Otherwise, clearly, low ratings and purely subservient subordinate officers could as well serve the nation if they are to be only errand boys for one man. Flynn has not absolved any one from Short and Kimmel up, by rightly, perhaps, placing the onus on the late President. He has merely thereby shown up a chain of deplorable inefficiency and shameful lack of public conscience on the part of all major officers concerned.

RED TAPE

Scott Field, Ill., Sept. 4—I am one of thousands who are languishing in army hospitals; one of the many who have "obtained maximum hospital benefit." Yet some of us have been waiting months to appear before an army retiring board, which for some undisclosed reason is hopelessly tangled in red tape.

This is the case not only in the hospitals, but at virtually every army installation I have visited. The release of men by the point method has been slowed down since Aug. 44, rather than expedited.

If it had taken the army as much time to recruit us as it is consuming to let us go, the Japs would right now be "policing the area" and I don't mean picking up cigaret butts.

Chicago, Aug. 31—In the message of Nov. 27, 1941, from the chief of staff to Gen. Short, reading, "The United States desires that Japan commit the first overt act," I seem to detect one of the clews which in a first class murder mystery would eventually trip up the criminal. The man in the street surely did not desire that any one commit any overt acts. Could it be the chief of staff was speaking for Mr. R.?

ETHIOPIA DEEDS ALL OIL RIGHTS TO U.S. CONCERN

Selassie Gives Sinclair Exclusive Concession

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia has granted an exclusive oil concession covering his entire 350,000 square mile empire to the Sinclair Oil corporation, part of it under a 50 year lease, it was announced today by H. F. Sinclair, president.

In return for the right to explore for and ship petroleum out of the country, the oil company will pay royalties to the emperor in addition to building one or more schools and hospitals, clinics, and research foundations. It also will pay for educating Ethiopians in the United States for the next 10 years.

Caused World Furore

In 1935 Haile Selassie deeded more than half his empire for exploitation and development by Anglo-American oil interests. At that time he acted in the vain hope that this would halt an anticipated Italian invasion. The deal, engineered by British Promoter Francis M. Rickett, finally fell thru after causing a world furore.

The controled Italian press called the Rickett arrangement a "scandal," and termed it an attempt to create a buffer concession between Addis Ababa and Italian East Africa.

For years American oil companies have been interested in obtaining a concession in Ethiopia, but no oil operations ever have been started in the country by a foreign concern.

The concession just signed by Sinclair comes almost on the eve of a meeting of foreign ministers in London, at which the question of Italy's one time foreign empire may be discussed. Ethiopia is cut off from the Red sea and Indian ocean by Italian Eritrea and French, British, and Italian Somaliland.

Terms of Concession

The new grant was signed in New York for Ethiopia by Ato Akilliou Abte Wold, vice minister of foreign affairs and his country's chief delegate to the San Francisco security conference.

Under the concession, all oil development rights for the territory—equal in size to Texas, Oklahoma, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island combined—will rest exclusively with the Sinclair corporation for five years. Then 50 per cent of the territory will be released.

After a further exploratory period of five years another 25 per cent of the country will be released from the agreement.

"I feel that every soldier who goes by thinks this is all I've been doing the last three years."

OFFICER TELLS FEAR OF SHORT NAVAL SUPPLY

New York, Sept. 6 [Special]—Taking the stand at his court martial on charges of having stolen 180 weapons and 5,346 rounds of ammunition Lt. Comdr. Equen E. Meader, 36, asserted he amassed the personal arsenal because he did not wish to take any chances on regular navy supplies at any new station.

Meader, former executive officer of the navy depot at Mers-El-Kebir, Algeria, will continue his testimony tomorrow in the New York navy yard court room. His trial was in its 23d day today.

Weapons Shown in Court

As Meader launched into his defense, four sailors lugged in wooden packing boxes containing pistols, rifles, machine guns, and a variety of other material Meader had sent from North Africa to his home in Forest Hills, N. Y.

They were brought out at the request of the defense.

Under questioning by his counsel, Lt. Comdr. Overton Harris, the defendant said he sent the items to this country after purchasing them in the open market, receiving them as gifts, or acquiring them thru "proper channels."

He said he had seen nothing illegal about acquiring the material or transporting it.

"I was not certain what supply conditions might be in any theater to which I might be sent," he said, "and I was determined after my experience in the North African theater to take no chances." He said his unit had been issued inadequate supplies for its African landing.

Excelsior and paper shavings littered the floor as the articles were unpacked. They included a French pistol "purchased in Oran," a miniature carbine "used by fascist children in Italy and given me by an army officer," antique and modern firearms of American, British, French, German, Italian, Turkish, Arabian, and Czechoslovakian design, a piece of a mine suitable for use as an ash tray, a bomb's tail fin, a bottle of wine, and a jug of rum.

FIVE TEEN AGERS ADMIT STEALING 9 CARS IN 9 DAYS

Des Plaines police yesterday arrested five boys from Michigan who, Chief Howard E. Becker said, admitted stealing nine automobiles in the last nine days, while they toured midwestern states.

They were arrested in the Methodist camp meeting grounds near Des Plaines after Dr. Elfreidda Horst, a Des Plaines physician, complained that her purse, containing $227, had been stolen from her automobile.

Two of the boys, when seized, were in an automobile that Becker said was stolen in Minnetonka Beach, Minn. The others were found hiding in high weeds. The police chief said they gave their names as Llewelyn Wolvin, 16; Charles Simino, 15, and Donald Dione, 16, all of River Rouge, Mich.; Dale Teckham, 16, of Eau Claire, Mich., and Donald Rauschberger, 16, of Ecorse, Mich. All are being held for federal authorities.

'L' JOB PLEDGE TO VETS LAUDED BY MARINE HEAD

Col. Chester Fordney, marine corps midwest recruiting officer, yesterday praised the Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated railroad] for signing the pledge of Industry for Veterans under which the railroad will reserve 25 per cent of its peace time jobs for men and women veterans.

Appearing in a ceremony with Col. Fordney at the N. Water st. "L" spur, Bernard Fallon, railroad co-trustee, announced that the Industry for Veterans jobs slogan will be painted on an elevated car.

James Simpson Jr., national president of Industry for Veterans, said that 872 firms employing 542,000 persons have signed the pledge in the last five months. He pointed out this means that 135,000 places have been reserved for service personnel.

SUES TO DIVORCE WOMAN NAMED AS WIFE OF 2 GIs

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 6 (AP)—Master Sgt. Raymond H. Poland of the army air corps today sued to divorce Mrs. Gene Poland, 25, Champaign, under indictment on a charge of violating the service men's dependents allowance act.

Accused of marrying another soldier without benefit of divorce, Mrs. Poland pleaded guilty to the federal charge yesterday, and the hearing was continued to Oct. 6. The government charged Mrs. Poland, who has one child by each husband, of illegally collecting dependency allotments from each man.

Poland's divorce suit alleged adultery, and asked custody of his child.

FALL ON SIDEWALK FATAL

Mrs. Julia Engler, 73, of 7601 South Park av., died yesterday in Englewood hospital of injuries suffered July 16 when she fell on the sidewalk in front of 365 E. 77th st.

15 FIRMS START FUND DRIVE BY GIVING $1,372,000

Advance gifts totaling $1,372,000 have been donated to 1945 Victory Community and War Fund campaign, Walter P. Paepcke, general chairman, announced yesterday at a meeting of the men's special gifts division in the Palmer House.

The contributions were made by 15 large corporations. They are: International Harvester company, $200,000; Commonwealth Edison, $160,000; Illinois Bell Telephone, $150,000; Swift & Co., $150,000; Armour & Co., $120,000; Continental Illinois National bank, $100,000; First National bank, $80,000; William Wrigley company, $75,000; Marshall Field's, $65,000; People's Gas, Light and Coke, $60,000; Inland Steel, $57,000; Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy railroad, $50,000; Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, $40,000; Quaker Oats, $40,000, and Container Corporation of America, $25,000.

Clarence B. Randall, vice president of the fund, urged Chicagoans to make this last national drive for war related charities a success in the spirit of thanksgiving. Willis D. Gale, chairman of the special gifts division, presided at the meeting. The campaign will be opened Oct. 1.

PACKERS URGE TRUMAN TO END MEAT RATIONING

Directors of the National Independent Meat Packers association telegraphed President Truman yesterday a request that the government abandon, by Jan. 1, point rationing of meat, slaughter quotas, ceiling prices, and subsidies. Similar telegrams sent to Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, Price Administrator Bowles, and William H. Davis, director of economic stabilization, asserted that the beef cattle supply will tax slaughtering facilities before the first of the year. The packers said the supply of meat now available is sufficient to justify the abandonment of restrictions.

WOLF LAKE PARK PLANS REJECTED BY INDIANA BODY

The Indiana state conservation commission, meeting in Indianapolis yesterday, rejected a proposal to purchase Wolf lake, on the Indiana-Illinois line southeast of Chicago, and convert it into a state park despite accumulation of $566,000 thru a special tax levy for the purpose.

Milton Matter, chairman of the commission, said the purchase price for Indiana property adjoining the lake "was excessive." He also contended that the lake is polluted and shallow; that high tension wires cut across it, and that several factories around the site would detract from its scenic value. The commission recognized the need for more recreational facilities in the area, but indicated that a different location would be preferable.

Illinois groups also have been sponsoring Wolf lake as a state park. One plan for development of the Illinois portion of the lake has been introduced in the legislature by Sen. Walker Butler [R., Chicago]. This provides for the appropriation of $160,000 for the purchase of adjacent property from the heirs of C. B. Shedd.

CITY'S PATIENTS IN SANITARIUM GIVEN POOR FOOD

Relatives Are Compelled to Help Tuberculars

BY ORVILLE DWYER

Repeated complaints of patients and employes of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, which costs Chicago tax payers 3 million dollars a year to operate, that the food was so poor that many of them exist on provisions brought in by relatives were substantiated by an investigation made yesterday by THE TRIBUNE.

Nurses, patients, and guards interviewed asserted that the food being paid for and served as first grade is three or four grades lower. They said that a ban on the bringing of food into the institution by relatives or friends of patients was lifted last April and that literally tons of full dinners and suppers, soups, meat, butter, and canned goods have since been carried in for thos unable to eat the food served, either because they were too ill or because they "simply couldn't stomach it."

Supply Often Depleted

One guard said attendants for months past carried out such large quantities of uncooked beef and other meats, butter, canned goods, and other high point rationed foods that there often was a shortage of these for patients. For months—until Labor day—butter was served the sick in the institution only at breakfast.

Dr. Frederick Tice, president of the sanitarium's board of directors, last night blamed the food conditions on the Chicago area rationing headquarters.

"It's the best food we can get in the market," Dr. Tice said, when he was told of the patients' charges. "We've been to the ration board members to get a better supply, but they won't give it to us."

He was told the investigators had been informed that grade A food was being paid for, but grade D or E food was being served.

Tice Blames Ration Board

It was explained to him that patients and nurses charged corned beef "of strange, mixed colors and so tough you can't cut it" was being served several times a week, then being made into hash and served on days following its servings with cabbage.

"That's what we told the ration board," he exclaimed, "but it didn't help. Dr. Leo M. Czaja, the general superintendent, saw the board twice. He got no satisfaction."

A dozen nurses in the institution who recently went to Dr. Czaja to demand a change in the food got no satisfaction either, Tribune investigators were informed. The nurses, who are served the same food as the patients, threatened to quit with the sanitarium already short of attendants.

Nurses Forced to Eat Out

"So far they haven't quit," a middle aged woman patient said. "But going out for meals is cutting deep into their pay."

In a section of the institution where those with political pull have quarters, a man patient complained:

"Yes, I'm in politics on the outside. And I don't mind somebody making some money. It wouldn't be so bad if they'd serve us second class food and charge first class prices for it. But to pay for first and serve about fifth class and count the difference in graft—that's a little too raw, especially when sick people whose lives depend on decent food are the sufferers."

A nurse said: "The food that's served here would be all right for a husky day laborer laying a railroad track. It won't do for these sick people. That's why their relatives and friends are bringing in steaks, hamburgers, soups, creamed and fried chicken, and other nourishing food. If they have no relatives or friends they're out of luck—and some times they die."

Tons of Food Brought In

The nurse was standing on one of the spacious lawns in the sunshine as she spoke. It was visiting day and those coming to see patients were streaming along every path to one of the 34 buildings on the grounds. Every one's arms were full of bundles of food.

"Yes, tons of it must have been carried in that way since last April," the nurse said.

Outside a cottage sat a trio of girl patients.

"I don't know what they've served in the last week," one girl said. "I haven't eaten any of it. My mother brings me cooked food on visiting days and leaves canned goods for the other days."

Corned Beef in Colors

Another said, "You simply can't cut most of that corned beef they serve here. And is it funny corned beef! About five different colors. Sort of blackish and blue, yellow and green, besides being a little red like meat ought to be."

"And it smells and tastes so funny you couldn't eat it if you could cut it," the third girl said.

A patient back in the section where the best of everything is supposed to be served added, "What about a piece of liver you can't cut with a knife? I got that—in here!"

The inquiry by THE TRIBUNE was the second in the six months since the United States public health service severely criticized the institution under Doctors Tice and Czaja. Dr. Tice called the health service inspectors federal snoopers. In April, it was found that the institution was filthy, that mice and other vermin infest many of the buildings, that patients in a men's ward were setting traps regularly—traps they bought themselves—to catch mice that the kitchens were infested with roaches, that food carts were permitted to stand in halls where their contents were subjected to sprays of germs from coughing patients passing by.

At that time much also was said about the bad food. Dr. Tice, however, pleaded shortage of help caused by the war. The sanitarium has 1,300 beds. About 50 of these are usually kept open—on call by politicians.

WAR JUST DUCKS AND DRAKES TO THIS GLAMORGAL

Sgt. Siwash Isn't a Bit Chicken Hearted

BY RITA FITZPATRICK

It wasn't duck soup for the marines who hit the beaches at Tarawa, Saipan, and Tinian. But it was almost that for Siwash.

The only lady marine to accompany the assault troops during those three major engagements, she has waddled ashore, ducked combat fire with complete nonchalance, and even engaged in combat. Siwash, as you may guess from her odd name, is an odd duck.

In fact yesterday, she was revealed to be an unusual hybrid of the species. Famous in her own right as the former mascot of the 1st battalion, 10th marines, and later the 2d marine division, Siwash is now the mascot of LST-512, which is docked at the Michigan av. bridge.

A Mysterious Glamor Girl

Until yesterday, she was a glamor gal surrounded by mystery, even tho she had been picked up in a raffle in a New Zealand pub by Corp. Francis Fagan, 25, of 7853 Bennett av., back in March, 1943. But Philip A. DuMont, administrative assistant, division of wild life refuges of the department of the interior and expert on ducks, got curious. He paid her a visit aboard the LST-512.

"You say she never ruffled a feather during heavy bombardment?" he queried in amazement. "She's supposed to be a domesticated bird. She's an unusual cross between a Muscovy, a duck originally from the orient, and a mallard. Never have I seen a duck like her."

A Glutton for Affection

Yesterday Siwash calmly drank lemonade while flash bulbs exploded around her, chuckled when she was tickled on the back, and enviously plucked at a bracelet of a girl reporter. She has taken fame in her waddle and expects the attention and affection of thousands of men. And gets it!

But her days are numbered as a marine mascot. She has 133 points earned by 20 months overseas, 26 months' duty, three major engagements . . . and, yes, six dependents. The dependents are the result of a four month visit on a duck farm in Wilmington, Will county. Her owner, Corp. Fagan, has even fewer points, but still a good 90.

Set for Today's "Invasion"

Before she is discharged—as a sergeant, no less—Siwash is having one final fling. She is invading Great Lakes cities with marine assault troops aboard LST-512, and at 7:20 p. m. today will take part in "hitting the beach" at Foster av., where a typical assault will be staged. Probably afterward she will again get drunk on beer and have one of her famous hangovers the next morning.

But the hard-hitting marines will forgive her. They don't like a duck that is chicken hearted.

Two Strong Earth Shocks 8,600 Miles Off Recorded

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—Two earth shocks, described as strong, and probably in the South Pacific, were recorded by the seismograph at Fordham university last night, Dr. William Lynch, assistant director of the seismic station, said today. The distance was about 8,600 miles.

Three Hour Quake Recorded

Weston, Mass., Sept. 6 (AP)—A "quite strong" three hour earthquake, apparently in the vicinity of the East Indies, was recorded on the Weston college seismograph early today. A "much weaker" shock came later.

SLAYER OF DOG ORDERED TO BUY OWNER NEW PET

Harold Meyers, 24, of 2111 N. Western av., was ordered yesterday by Judge John T. Zuris in Shakespeare av. court to pay for replacement of Pepper, a 3 year old terrier he beat to death Aug. 4. Meyers asserted he killed the dog because it bit him at the home of his parents, 2247 N. Maplewood av. Miss Lorraine Kowalski, 21, of 2221 N. Maplewood av., owner of the dog, charged Meyers killed the animal with a 2 by 4 timber without provocation. Her star witness was Annette Grabowski, 11, of 2241 N. Maplewood av., who said she saw the incident and that the dog did not bite Meyers.

FOUND DEAD IN BED

Albert Harris, 68, was found dead in bed yesterday in his room at 617 Madison st., and police began a search for relatives or friends of the man.

America is Names

Stop the G.I. on a Bombay street. Question him intently as he stands on a boulevard in Bremen, Bologna, Brussels, Manila... as he saunters up the avenue in Sydney or in Cairo.

Ask him: "Not much like home, is it, Bud? A lot you miss here, isn't there?"

And if you set his mind to wandering, his memories to waking... a hundred images would flicker through his brain... a hundred names of home...

Seattle, Chicago, Kansas City... Jones drug store, the Bijou movie house, and Andy's Diner... Elm Street, North Main, Times Square... the places that are part of home... the names...

Wrigley, Kellogg, Squibb, Ipana... the products on the shelves... Arrow shirts... Paris garters... Sunshine Biscuits... Maxwell House Coffee... the names he saw on streets and signs, in stores and in his own home... Heinz... Calvert... Goodrich... Chevrolet.

Names he's always known... names of things he's bought and used... believed in...

Yes, America is names.

Good names. Familiar names that inspire confidence, because back home in America you could depend on the quality behind those names.

To the G.I.... all over the world today... those names are part of home... part of the good things of life he's known... and will want again when he returns.

Strange, how he misses them now. Or is it?

Strange, how America has tried so hard to keep those names... to keep them good names... despite shortages, despite increased demands, despite war and the temptation to cheapen quality for a quick profit.

But maybe not so strange after all, when you think of America...

For America is names... good names for good things to have... good names built slowly over the years... good names that nothing must ever cheapen or destroy!

1,300,000 YANKS TO QUIT EUROPE BY END OF YEAR

300,000 Others to Come Home 'Gradually'

PARIS, Sept. 6 (AP)—The United States army today announced that 1,300,000 American soldiers would be shipped home between Sept. 1 and the end of the year—500,000 more than expected before the collapse of Japan.

"Any soldier who had 70 points [under the army's point discharge system] or over on V-J day will be out of this theater before Christmas," Brig. Gen. George S. Eyster told the press.

By Jan. 1, 1946, Eyster said, there will be only about 700,000 Americans left in Europe, including the occupation army of 400,000. The "close-out" force of 300,000—half of them in Germany and the rest in Britain and the liberated countries of the continent—will be shipped home gradually as the army closes installations and disposes of surplus materials. By next July, only occupation troops will remain.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Sept. 7—Founding of Boston

As small a thing as the possession of a good spring gave Boston its first impetus toward greatness. If Charlestown had had a comparable water supply it might have retained its early advantage to become the principal city of New England.

In 1630 the peninsula on the right bank of the lower Charles river was wild and virtually untenanted. Charlestown, on the left bank, had a population of perhaps 800 and was the headquarters of the Massachusetts Bay colony.

But the colony, altho it had numbers and the vigorous leadership of John Winthrop, was in dire straits. Sickness and death, abetted by insufficient food and brackish water, threatened to bring to an end the great Puritan experiment.

About the brackish water, at least, something could be done, and after word came that the peninsula across the river boasted a sweet spring, the colony's headquarters and many of its settlers moved there. On Sept. 7 the site of the future metropolis was given the name Boston by an act of the colony's court of assistants.

[The Boston in Lincolnshire, England, is the principal town of a region from which several of the Puritan leaders came.]

Several other settlements were established in the Massachusetts bay area about the same time, but none of them, as it turned out, possessed Boston's advantages. An ironic episode of the city's growth to its present preëminent position was the annexation in 1874 of that very town of Charlestown from which its founding fathers had come.

Miami's Rental Famine Is 'Gone with the Wind'

Miami, Fla., Sept. 6 (AP)—Miami's rental famine was high-lighted today by this incident: Winds blew away the "no vacancy" sign in front of a large apartment building. Before another sign could be put up, 18 home hunters had asked to see "the apartment." Under the "no vacancy" sign was one saying: "Apartment for rent."

BOY BOASTS DAD KNOWS SLAYER, BUT IT'S A HOAX

A 15 year old boy with a fanciful imagination and his father were questoned briefly yesterday by Rogers Park police about the murder of two policemen at Clark st. and Lunt av. Sunday night. The youngster had boasted his father knew the killer. The father didn't, and the boy admitted he had invented his story. Both were released.

The victims were Detectives George H. Hellstern and Charles Brady. Mass for Hellstern was said in St. Henry's church and he was buried in St. Joseph's cemetery. Services for Brady will be held today.

The slayer has been described as wearing a black glove on one hand and also as gloveless.

Detectives made a house to house canvass for clews in the neighborhood of the shooting, but their efforts were described as fruitless.

Charles M. Wilson, director of the police crime detection laboratory, visited the scene, then talked with police officials at the Rogers Park station.

WARD'S TO FILE SUPREME COURT APPEAL TODAY

Assails Appellate Rule Upholding Seizure

Attorneys for Montgomery Ward & Co. will file with the United States Supreme court in Washington, D. C., today a petition asking for review of the Circuit Court of Appeals' decision which declared constitutional the seizure of Ward properties in Chicago and six other cities on Dec. 28, 1944.

Notice of the appeal and copies of the petition were handed United States District Atty. Woll here yesterday afternoon.

Second Appeal to Court

Ward attorneys said a Supreme court ruling on the war time powers of the President will be sought regardless of the return of the properties from army control, a step ordered by President Truman on Aug. 25, but not yet carried out by the war department.

Government attorneys sought a Supreme court review last March after Federal District Judge Philip L. Sullivan had ruled the late President Roosevelt exceeded his constitutional authority and war time powers in issuing the directive under which the army took over the Ward properties.

The Supreme court refused to act until after a decision by the Circuit Court of Appeals. The appellate court, by a two-to-one decision, reversed Judge Sullivan.

Deny Act Applied to Ward's

The Ward petition described the ruling of the appeals court as "fantastic."

Ward attorneys contended the seized properties do not come within the meaning of the war labor disputes act as "plants, mines, or facilities equipped for the manufacture, production or mining of any articles or materials which may be required for the war effort or which may be useful in connection therewith," because they are engaged solely in the retail sale of merchandise for civilian purposes.

U. OF C. COSMIC RAY BALLOONS HEAD OVER LAKE

A cluster of 67 balloons was released yesterday from Stagg field of the University of Chicago in connection with the university's scientific study of cosmic rays.

The balloons, tied together with nylon rope, carried cosmic ray detection apparatus weighing 150 pounds. They were released at 6:15 a. m. by Serge A. Koroff, director of physics research at New York university, in coöperation with the physics department of the Chicago school. Three previous attempts to start the flight were balked by bad weather.

The balloon cluster rose rapidly, drifted over the loop, then moved northeast over the lake. Coast guardsmen kept watch to retrieve it in case it fell into the lake. It was expected the balloons would float about 10 hours before bursting in the stratosphere, and that the apparatus would float down somewhere in Michigan.

MACFARLANE'S GROSS ESTATE IS SET AT $203,127

A gross estate of $203,127.85 was left by Wilbert E. Macfarlane, 700 S. Ridge rd., Lake Forest, business manager of THE TRIBUNE, who died Oct. 9, 1944, according to an inheritance tax return filed yesterday with Lake county Clerk Jay B. Morse in Waukegan.

Mr. Macfarlane's widow, Alice Miller Macfarlane, as executrix of the estate, reported debts and administrative expenses of $63,540.03, including an estimated federal inheritance tax of $44,999.50, leaving a net estate of $139,587.82 on which a state inheritance tax of $3,623.51 was paid.

Mrs. Macfarlane was the sole beneficiary.

14-STORY LOOP HOTEL PLUNGE KILLS WOMAN

An unidentified woman, about 55, was killed late yesterday in a leap or fall from a 16th floor window of the La Salle hotel. She fell upon the second floor roof of the court. A black leather purse, containing 81 cents and a rosary, was found at the window of a 16th floor corridor. Labels were missing from her clothing, and there were no papers to suggest her identity. Hotel officials said that the woman had not registered, as far as they could determine. She was 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighed 163 pounds, her dark hair was streaked with gray, and she wore a pink dress, black, toeless shoes, and a black straw hat. The body was taken to 355 N. Clark st.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

DEADLY POISON FOUND HELPFUL IN POLIO CASES

Deal, N. J., Sept. 6 (AP)—Curare, a poison used on the deadly arrows of the South American Indians, now is being used to combat infantile paralysis "with striking improvements of the symptoms of the disease," Dr. Nicholas S. Ransohoff said here today.

Nineteen polio victims have been treated with curare here in the last six weeks, with the result that those in the acute stages of the disease have experienced "a tremendous relief from suffering" and none has died, Ransohoff said in an interview.

The doctor, chief orthopedic surgeon at Monmouth General hospital, Long Branch, termed use of the drug "a definite ray of light and hope," altho, he said, its use still is in the preliminary stage and it is impossible at this time to estimate its full curative value.

The drug, known commercially as intercostin, produces a relaxation of muscles when administered to polio victims, the doctor said, and gives relief from spasms.

PERSONALTY TAX ASSESSMENTS IN CHICAGO DECLINE

County Assessor Clark yesterday delivered to the county board of tax appeals the 1945 assessment of personal property in Chicago. The city total was $1,099,229,580, compared to $1,113,692,755 a year ago, a decline of $14,463,173.

Last week Clark made known the personal property assessments in the country towns—$196,235,524, almost the same as for 1944. The 1945 grand total for the county is $1,295,465,104.

Comparative figures for the eight city towns [last three digits omitted] follow:

Township	1944	1945
Hyde Park	$114,615	$110,713
Jefferson	102,651	99,249
Lake	115,393	119,342
Lake View	84,102	83,169
North	97,287	95,866
Rogers Park	11,793	11,370
South	278,213	276,704
West	309,636	303,811

The tax appeals board has set Sept. 17 as the last day for filing complaints of overassessments in the country towns and will begin hearings on these about Sept. 20. The date for filing city complaints will be set later. Last year the board lowered the original assessed values by about 55 millions.

FREED CAPTIVES REVISE TOTAL U. S. CASUALTIES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP)—Liberation of army men, previously listed as missing, from Japanese prison camps, and belated navy casualties reports have caused another revision in United States war casualty lists.

Today's official count removed 3,485 from the army's missing rolls and added 604 navy casualties, leaving total combat casualties at 1,070,452. This was 93 less than last week's figure, with additional reports yet to come.

Last week's total, marking the first reduction since the war started, was 274 below the previous week's. Total casualties for the army now stand at 922,587, and the navy, 147,865.

OPA'S 6 MONTHS EVICTION ORDER DRAWS PROTEST

The office of price administration's action Wednesday increasing from three to six months the waiting period before a house buyer may evict a tenant in order to occupy the property himself was assailed yesterday by Floyd Dana, president of the Chicago Real Estate board.

Dana objected that the extension would work a hardship upon returning veterans who want to buy homes and live in them.

He questioned whether the ruling would be an advantage to tenants. Owners, he said, merely would begin eviction proceedings earlier to obtain the same result in the end.

"If the OPA would lift its restrictions on building materials so that new homes could be built, the whole housing situation would be straightened out quickly," he said.

The latest award was the Gold Star in lieu of a second Distinguished Flying Cross. He already had received the Navy Cross and Distinguished Flying Cross.

The Gold Star cited the lieutenant for his "heroism and extraordinary achievement" when he led a six-plane dive bomber section from the carrier Hancock on Nov. 25, 1944, on a strike against Japanese merchantmen in Manila bay in the Philippines.

Dr. Edward E. Piszczek, Cook county health director, reported only one new case and no deaths in the area outside Chicago.

At the request of the Flossmoor board of education, Dr. Piszczek yesterday had his assistants spray district school 161 in that suburb with DDT. On Wednesday they sprayed the wash rooms, lunch rooms, and screens of Midlothian and Forest Ridge schools.

It's no wonder we like melons when they have such cool and refreshing qualities.

No matter how you serve them be sure that they are ice cold and thoroly ripe. To be at their best most melons should do their ripening on the vine.

Whether served at the beginning of the meal as a cocktail, or at the end as dessert, melons require little dressing up with added flavorings. In fact one should be careful to avoid masking the delicate flavor of the fruit. All they really need is salt and possibly the added tartness of lemon or orange juice. Lime juice is particularly good with cantaloupe.

Serve your melon in unpeeled halves, in balls made with a French cutter, or in peeled crosswise slices. Combinations of watermelon, honeydew, and cantaloupe, cut in balls, are as pretty to look at as they are delicious to eat.

You might like to try some of these melon variations:

Minted Cocktail: Combine three parts orange juice with one part lemon juice and sweeten to taste with sugar or corn sirup. Add several sprigs of mint which have been chopped coarsely. Heat to boiling; then chill. Strain and serve over any preferred combination of melon balls. Garnish with a sprig of fresh mint.

Cantaloupe or Honeydew with Wine: Pour Madeira, sherry, or port wine over cantaloupe, honeydew, or Persian melon balls and chill for 2 or 3 hours before serving. If you prefer, cut a 3 inch hole in the stem end of the melon and scoop out seeds; then fill with wine. Chill and serve in lengthwise slices with some of the wine.

Melon with Fruit: Cut melon in halves or into thick crosswise slices. Fill centers with any fresh fruits in season, sweetened to taste. Sprinkle with lemon or orange juice just before serving.

Gelatin Filled Melon: Cut slice from stem end of melon and scoop out seeds. Fill center with prepared gelatin [fruit may be added to gelatin if desired]. Chill overnight or until gelatin is firm. Peel melon, frost with softened cream cheese, if desired, and serve in crosswise slices.

Honeydew with Ginger: Cut melon into cubes and chill. Thin sirup from preserved ginger with an equal amount of plain sugar sirup or corn sirup. Pour one or two teaspoonfuls of this over each serving. Garnish with minced candied ginger, if desired.

Melon with Ice or Sherbet: Peel chilled melon and cut in crosswise slices. Place a scoop of lime or lemon ice or sherbet in center of slices and garnish with fresh fruits.

Honey Dew Ice: Force pulp of large honeydew melon thru a coarse sieve and add 2 or 3 tablespoons of lemon juice and a dash of salt. Make a sirup of 2 cups of water and 1 cup of sugar and add to melon. Freeze until mushy and add ½ cup sherry wine and ½ cup coffee cream which has been chilled and whipped. Freeze until firm. Garnish with mint or berries.

If you'd like to enjoy your melon during the winter months, put up some cantaloupe jam or pickles now. The pickles taste a little like those made from watermelon rind.

Cantaloupe Jam
[About 3 pints]
2 large cantaloupes
1 lemon, sliced thin
1 orange, sliced thin

Peel melons and remove seeds. Slice thin and cut in pieces. Slice lemon and orange thinly, thru skin and all. Add to cantaloupe and measure. Add ¾ cup sugar for each cup of fruit and bring to boil. Cook rapidly, stirring to prevent scorching, until thick and clear.

Cantaloupe Pickles
3 cantaloupes, slightly underripe
2 cups vinegar
1½ cups sugar
6 whole cloves
4 short sticks cinnamon

Pare cantaloupes, remove seeds, and cut into thin strips or chips. Boil sugar and vinegar together for five minutes, add spices which have been tied in a bag, and fruit. Boil until fruit is clear. Pack into clean hot jars and seal.

Baked Goods Ingredients Best at Room Temperature

Most baked goods, cakes particularly, will have a better texture if the ingredients are brought to room temperature before they are mixed. It is particularly important that the shortening be soft enough to cream easily in cake making, but it should not be so soft that it is beginning to melt.

Avoid Beating Egg Whites Until They Are Too Dry

If egg whites are beaten until they are too dry they cannot be blended thoroly with other ingredients. To have them right, beat until they will just stand in peaks but are still moist enough to slide around in the bowl when it is tipped.

Reconversion Is Under Way on the Campus

BY JUDITH CASS

ONE reconversion problem that seems happily free of complications is that of the college campus, which soon will be back to something approaching its pre-war norm. "There will be MEN in our lives again," promises the publicity department of one women's college, indicating that the proms and football week-ends shared by most college girls before the army and navy called their best beaux are about to become a part of college life again.

When Scripps college at Claremont, Cal., welcomes the class of 1949 Monday, several Chicago girls, including Miss Margaret Archer of Highland Park, will be among the incoming freshmen. Some of the other young Chicagoans attending Scripps are Miss Ruth Kestnbaum, Miss Julie Zischke, and Mrs. Evan O. Thomas Jr., the former Mary McKinstery, who is returning to college now that Lt. Thomas has gone overseas.

Returning to Bennington college in Vermont for the fall term will be Miss Trescott Ripley and Miss Eleanor Bradley White, among other young Chicagoans. Among the girls from this area entering as freshmen is Miss Mary Lou White of Winnetka.

The 16 students from Chicago and its suburbs who will enter Smith college will be the special guests at a tea which the Chicago Smith College club will give at 4 p. m. Tuesday in the Woman's Athletic club for the college's new students and upperclassmen. Miss Frances Amberg and Miss Mary Goelitz are in charge of arrangements for the party, at which the guests will be introduced by tags bearing their names and those of their college dormitories. Mrs. Ward Castle heads the Chicago alumnae group.

Other School News

Mrs. Clifford Gramer's home at 2706 Lincoln st. in Evanston will be the scene of a tea from 3 to 5 p. m. today for incoming freshmen and their mothers, given by the Chicago chapter of the Connecticut College Alumnae association.

Now that 17 year old Ruth Aldis is assured of complete recovery from the sunburn accident earlier this summer that temporarily blinded her in one eye, she and her twin sister, Peggy, are preparing to return to their classes at Dobbs Ferry and Milton, respectively. Their mother, Mrs. Graham Aldis, will see them off before returning to Washington, D. C., to join Maj. Aldis. Whether the Aldises will be back in their Lake Forest home soon depends on when Maj. Aldis' impending release from the army comes thru.

The junior class of Barat college, Lake Forest, will entertain incoming freshmen at tea from 3 to 5 p. m. Sunday in the Oglesby av. home of Mr. and Mrs. George K. Cole. Their daughter, Margaret, is president of the junior class. A newcomer to the Barat faculty this year is Mrs. Georgio Pellegrini [Sheila Cudahy], who will teach comparative literature. She recently received her doctor of philosophy degree from Columbia university.

Today's Events

For her debut luncheon at 1 p. m. today in the Indian Hill club Miss Rosanna Welsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon M. Welsh of Winnetka, will wear a wistaria satin afternoon dress with a matching feather hat and corsage of white orchids. The bud, who always is called Posie, will be assisted by the Misses Betsy Shanklin, Carolyn Kuehnle, Alice Butz, Isabel Lindsay, Lina Kimball, Bleecker Burnett, Margaret Macfarland, Nancy Dick, Joan Riley, and Virginia Bensinger. Miss Welsh will leave Sunday to return to her classes at Wells college.

Members of the women's special gifts division of the Chicago Community and War Fund drive will meet for luncheon in the ballroom of the Drake hotel at 12:15 p. m. today. Mrs. Otto Madlener, chairman of the division, will give instructions to the workers, who will start soliciting money Monday. Robert E. Coburn, director of the fund, will explain needs of the fund in

Engaged

Miss Mildred Jeffress Bunn, a portrait by John Doctoroff.

Romantic news of interest in Chicago and Springfield, Ill., will be given at a gathering this afternoon in the Springfield home of Mrs. Jacob Bunn when she will announce the engagement of her daughter, Mildred Jeffress, to Lt. [j. g.] Arthur G. Halland of the naval air forces, son of Arthur G. Halland of Barrington. Mr. and Mrs. Halland went to Springfield yesterday to be present at the engagement party, and Mrs. Samuel D. Rowe, a Barrington neighbor and lifelong friend of Mrs. Bunn, expects to go today.

Miss Bunn's grandfather, the late Jacob Bunn, was a pioneer Illinois banker and a friend of Abraham Lincoln. Miss Bunn, who often has visited here, attended the Masters school at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and Finch Junior college. Lt. Halland attended the Hunn school and Amherst college. He recently returned from duty in the Pacific.

Bowles Expects Most Rationing to End in 1945

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 [Special]—Price Administrator Bowles has advised congress it is his "hope and expectation" that most rationing will end this year but that price and rent controls must be retained for as long as inflation threatens "disaster to the nation."

In a memorandum sent to all members of congress, he outlined in general terms the progress of his agency so far in lifting price and rationing restrictions and prospects for further relaxations in the months ahead. He projected the following picture of OPA actions by the end of the year:

1. The end of meat rationing.
2. The end of rationing for shoes and rubber footwear.
3. The lifting of price controls on many foods which no longer will be in short supply.
4. The removal of rent controls in 75 to 100 rental areas.

Bowles cautioned that supplies of sugar and fats and oils, including butter, will continue to be inadequate until "well into next year." He indicated his policy on rationing will be to lift all such restrictions "as soon as supply catches up with demand."

"Cancellation of the printing of ration book No. 5 is clear evidence of our hope and expectation that . . . most rationing will end this year," he said.

Price controls, he continued, will be removed item by item or group by group when there is a "reasonable likelihood" that such action will not lead to inflationary price increases. Ceiling prices first will be suspended, he said, to give the OPA time to observe the effect before finally revoking the controls altogether.

Lake Forest's Fashion Show Aids Hospital

BY NANNETTE McCARTHY

Yesterday afternoon, one of the warmest of the summer, Lake Foresters gathered around the cool blue pool at Miss Gwethalyn Jones' home in Lake Forest to witness a showing of the newest in fall fashions. Admittance to the fashion show, and also the diving exhibition which preceded it, was the gift of a "white elephant" to be sold at the White Elephant shop for the benefit of Children's Memorial hospital.

Just up from his nap, curly headed Peter Stanley, the junior Mrs. Edwin Stanley's young son, did a balancing act along the edge of the pool while he modeled a very mannish red plaid robe and tugged at his trousers, totally unaware of his audience. Already showing her influence as an older sister, little Julia Armour led her reluctant younger brother, Philip Armour III., around the pool as they showed what the well dressed youngsters will wear this winter in the way of brother and sister coats. However, it was not long before they returned to the terrace in much cooler looking sun suits to watch the remainder of the show with their mother, Mrs. Philip Armour Jr.

More sophisticated fashions were shown by the youngsters' mothers and their debutante sisters. Mrs. George F. McLaughlin and Miss Patricia McLaughlin, who looked more like sisters than mother and daughter, caused a flurry of applause when they appeared wearing black dresses designed for the fall season in town. Miss Helen Priebe appeared in a two tone wool jersey sports dress and Miss Naoma Donnelley in a brown wool.

One of the most popular spectators at the benefit was Mrs. Curtis B. Munson, who just had arrived in Lake Forest yesterday from duty overseas with the Red Cross. The pianist, who provided the background music for the show, broke into "The Last Time I Saw Paris" as Mrs. Munson, wearing the latest in Paris fashions, greeted friends on the terrace.

Seated under the trees, out of the sun's rays, were Mrs. James Baggot Jr. and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Benedict; Mrs. Franklin G. Clement at a table with Mrs. Louis C. Seaverns, Mrs. James A. Cook, Mrs. Donald Easter, Mrs. Ralph Milman, and Mrs. Albert D. Farwell. In another group were Mrs. John L. Marshall Jr., Mrs. De Witt Buchanan Jr., and Miss Barbara Buchanan.

Mrs. T. Philip Swift and Mrs. William H. Mitchell were chairmen of the benefit.

Volunteers Sought for Red Cross Home Service Department

The home service department of Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross has announced an urgent need for women volunteers with free day time hours to assist with the handling of the thousands of new cases being referred monthly to the department. Many of these cases are concerned with problems of returning veterans and freed war prisoners.

A new training class for volunteers will begin Sept. 18 at Red Cross headquarters, 529 S. Wabash av., with lecture sessions three times weekly for a two week period, followed by practice work two full days a week for a four week period. Applicants should be between the ages of 22 and 60 and must have had two years of college training or its equivalent in experience. After the course is completed, the volunteer will be asked to serve at least two days a week.

Trainees will be taught to assist with many types of problems involving veterans and their dependents.

Frozen Eclairs Make an Ideal Party Dessert

(Other recipes, menus, and food suggestions and news are on the opposite page)

Frozen eclairs filled with ice cream and topped with chocolate sauce are luscious to look at and good eating, too. The rich, creamy dessert uses sugar only in the sauce. To make:

Place 1 cup water, ½ cup margarine, and ½ teaspoon salt in heavy saucepan. Heat to boiling. Add 1 cup sifted flour. Stir vigorously. Cook to smooth ball which leaves sides of pan clean. Stir constantly. Mixture should be cooked only until thick, smooth, and glossy. Remove pan from heat. Cool. Beat in 4 eggs, one at a time. Continue beating until mixture is thick and shiny. Shape 1x4½ inch strips on greased baking sheets. Place dough 2 inches apart to allow for spreading. Bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 20 to 25 minutes longer. Cut thin slice in side of shells and fill with ice cream. Top with chocolate sauce made by combining 4 squares chocolate with 1 cup surgar, ½ teaspoon salt, and 1 cup water. Bring to a boil and boil 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. This recipe makes 1 dozen eclairs.

THE QUESTION

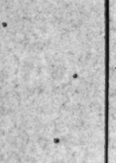
Did you ever start a job that you had to call on your wife to finish?

WHERE ASKED

In the coffee shop at the Merchandise Mart.

THE ANSWERS

Jimmy Billings, a producer for the American Broadcasting company, 1140 N. La Salle st.—I always do that. And she does a mighty fine job of finishing up, too. I do wash dishes now and then, but I break them. So my wife takes over. I start the electrical repairs, but she finishes up the work.



Glenn Dixon, Parsons, Kas.—Sure! The big thing I think of now is painting the house. I started it, but my wife finished it. I mean, I painted the house, but she did the chimney. That was because she was afraid to have me get up on the roof for fear I'd fall thru. There are lots of other jobs she finishes up for me, too.

John Gregory, furniture distributor, 601 E. 87th pl.—I've tried ironing shirts, but my wife always has to finish them. Same way when I try to make a bed. One time we were trying to go away in a hurry, and I tried to do the housework. The vacuum cleaner balked, my wife had to fix it, show me how to work it, and finally do the job herself.

Theodore Jacobs, 140 Melrose av., Kenilworth—I have tried to sew on buttons and I have tried to darn my own socks. I never succeed, so my wife takes over. The other day our roasting pan was leaking. I started to solder the hole, but she had to take over and finish the job.

Otto Scheuer, export business, 1361 Hyde Park blvd.—Writing to relatives is something that I start once in a while, but my wife always has to finish the job. Then there's washing the dishes. I begin, but she carries thru. I make big plans for vacations, but she gets everything arranged.

Orin Brandon, radio actor, 561 Surf st.—Always my wife finishes what I start. Buying a suit, for instance. I have to take her along for the final judgment. I like to make clay models, and after I have worked over them I like to have my wife pass final judgment on them.

Just a Feather Isn't Enough for Your Fall Hat

BY REA SEEGER

It takes more than a single feather stuck in your cap or hat to rate high fashion importance these days. New be-feathered creations boast practically every known fowl feather and quite a few specially designed mixtures, while the giddy colors available never have been seen in any nest. Coq feathers with an iridescent sheen have been used in many tight little turbans.

These come in handsome bronze tones ideal for fall suits of tweed. Very bright, clear shades of scarlet, gold, green, and bright blue coq feather hats made for gay contrast atop a dark suit or coat have the same sheen, but are made not only in the sky high turbans but used for band, trim, bows, and huge circles and some rather fantastic wing formations made by hand.

Chicken feathers dyed in colors are anything but recognizable as such. Sally Victor designs a feather halo and matching gloves with cuffs of the same feathers and the color is a vivid turquoise blue.

This dyeing trick has endless variations. One hat has a frou frou band around the base of the crown made of dyed saffron yellow Dominic chicken feathers [the original color was black and white]. Vulture feathers uncompromisingly straight and in colors and smart, shiny black make some very sophisticated models.

Paris Stylists' 1946 Fashions are Versatile

BY ANNE BRUYERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Sept. 6—Jeanne Lanvin and Jean Patou, noted French designers, today formally presented their fashion collections for 1946, displaying dresses, suits, and coats diversified enough to thrill bobby soxers and queens alike.

In honor of peace, green was the keynote color of both houses, supplemented by plenty of red bronze, ochre, Van Dyke brown, navy blue, bishop's purple, and white. Materials included solid, hard wearing woolens and plaids for sports wear and heavy satin back crepe, faille, lamé, velvet, and tulle for formal occasions. Vivid dazzling sequins, forming foot wide flowers or covering capes, pockets, and drapery, decorated picture book gowns, whether they were draped, ruffled, or hoop-skirted.

Year after year Jeanne Lanvin turns out superbly made, dashing suits for clothes wise types to wear any place with perfect confidence and chic. The most practical ensemble in the new collection was a three piece tweed with tailored Persian lamb collar on the jacket to match the wide cuffs and pockets of the collarless coat. All her jackets are long. The lengths of skirts vary from just below the knee for street wear to three inches longer for dress-up.

Oddly shaped buttons in vividly contrasting Piccasso inspired colors appeared in unexpected places, such as all the way down sleeves, around hems, encircling arm holes, or emphasizing dressmaker details.

As usual, Lanvin lavishly adorned most of her costumes with silver, gold, or variegated embroidery. One model in black jersey had leaping dancers embroidered from the bodice halter to the skirt, which was draped like a sultan's robe. The split sleeves of an emerald green dinner dress were covered with large silver flowers.

Patou also hit the jack pot with sparkling rhinestones, jade, sequins, and gold beads used on foot long tassels, wide capes, inset yokes, or brilliant hoods whose ends were draped to fitted belts. Other features included fancy quilting on sleeves and snug fitted plaiting to insure a distinctive straight silhouette.

Luxurious sable and brown ermine wraps cut very squarely and full were shown by both houses.

Sleepytime Gal

Each morning when I'm off for work
I'm only half awake.
By noon I seem to still be in
A semi-conscious state.

Beyond the middle of the day
You'll see a spark or two,
But when I really start to perk
[At five] the day is thru!

By 8 o'clock there's quite a change,
For, in an hour or so,
I actually begin to beam;
By 9 I'm set to go.

I sometimes wish that I could sleep
'Til evening falls, and then
Begin to work; I'm at my best
At 9 o'clock—P. M.!

How to Take Dictation

Always cross your knees if your skirt is short and skimpy to give you the air of sophisticated nonchalance adopted by a blonde witness in a murder trial.

Remember to apply great gobs of sticky lipstick just as the buzzer sounds, never adhering to the natural line of your mouth. This provides a work of art for the boss to study as he dictates correspondence regarding 10,000 carpet tacks.

Don't for a moment leave off your gum chewing. If the boss' brain stops dead still, your jaws will keep moving.

Be certain to reach the end of your notebook in the middle of an important letter on which depends the good will of the firm's best customer. A slight break in the line of thought may add a zany touch that will serve to lose the order.

Be careful when visitors are in the "inner office" to answer "yeah," "nope," "shure" to all requests for material from the files, etc., thus creating the impression you are "just one big sloppy family."

Learn to sigh resignedly. A rightly timed sigh indicating, "Can't the old boy rustle up his thoughts any faster?" is guaranteed to send any employer home in gigantic ill humor.

Five Minute Furlough

The Women's Advertising club of Cleveland has put out a booklet on writing to service men called "How to Write a Five Minute Furlough."

"The letter you meant to write yesterday . . . or intend to write some vague tomorrow . . . will not be handed out at mail call. It's the letter you write and mail today that will give somebody that precious five minutes of home," says the booklet. If you clip magazine and newspaper articles, or cartoons, and slip them in an addressed envelope, kept handy in a desk drawer, "letter writing can be fun," the booklet adds.

Thru the Looking Glass

The mother of a boy whose skin was a mass of blackheads, every one of which ultimately developed into a pimple, reports that the boy's complexion has improved enormously since she got him into the habit of using a complexion brush a couple of times a week. Her procedure is one that mothers of other grimy-skinned boys might emulate.

The complexion brush, not too stiff—about half as stiff as a hand brush and half as soft as a woman's powder brush—was used one night a week at first. The skin, unused to friction, couldn't stand it oftener than that in the beginning. Gradually, as it was conditioned by the friction, the skin toughened up considerably. The brush, in conjunction with a pure, bland soap, was then used two nights a week without difficulty. Now it is used three nights a week, and the susceptibility of the skin to blackheads has diminished appreciably.

First the skin was moistened with warm water and lathered with a pure, mild soap and clean fingers [we advised her not to use a washcloth on a skin so susceptible to infection], then scrubbed very gently in small circles with the little brush. Then it was rinsed well in warm water, followed by an even more generous and prolonged rinsing with extremely cold water.

At first the skin was sensitive after this unaccustomed scrubbing, but that gradually disappeared. Eventually the scrubbing became more vigorous and could be indulged in more frequently without skin irritation. Along with this, the skin became less oily and thereby less prone to attract the dirt that eventually showed up as blackheads.

Now on a three-times-a-week basis the vigorous scrubbings show every indication of preventing blackheads. The boy's face hasn't popped with a blemish of any sort in three weeks!

'This Nettle Danger'

INSTALMENT XLI.

TRAPPED

Bruce emerged at the upper entrance of a steep and narrow gorge, to see in one sweeping glance a tangle of tossed up hills in the hollows of which a hundred men might have hidden.

He tied his horse. From the rim he looked down into a pocket out of which ran four or five draws. On the bank of a brook was an old log cabin. Screened by bushes, Bruce watched that cabin and its surroundings for several minutes. He could see no sign of occupancy.

In the near end of the cabin there was no window. Bruce moved down cautiously, keeping to the fringe of bushes bordering the stream.

Tho he was coming up on the blind side of the shack, Cairns might be crouched back of the sagging door between him thru the wide crack between it and the jamb, from which the hinge had broken loose. He covered the dozen yards between the creek and the blank wall at a run. When he peered around the corner there was still no movement about the place. A moment later he was inside the cabin. Nobody else was in the room.

But what he saw startled him. On the home made table were cans of tomatoes, a slab of bacon, a package of coffee, and a small sack of flour. A skillet and a can with coffee grounds in it stood on the chimney hearth. The ashes in the fireplace were cold. Whoever was staying here had not yet breakfasted this morning. But it was an easy guess that the owner of the provisions would be back soon. Somewhere in the stretch of space outside a pistol shot rang out, and two more before the sound of it had died.

Half an hour before Bruce reached Renaud's Roost a man came out of a draw and walked toward the cabin with breakfast in mind. The man was Bill Cairns. He stopped abruptly. His eye had fallen on a horseman coming down from the rim. Quickly he ducked back into the land fold from which he had emerged. The one man in the world he least wanted to meet was Rod Randall.

A hideous fear welled up in him. He was trapped. His horse was picketed back of the cabin, and he could not reach it without being seen. He did not know what had brought Randall straight to the spot where he was hiding, but it was sure that he would not be in the hut three minutes without learning from Milroy that Cairns was here.

Rifle in hand, he came out of the draw to try his luck. Rod had dismounted and grounded his reins. He was moving toward the house. Milroy was in the doorway, and they stood talking for a moment.

Cairns tried to steady his shaken nerves, but as soon as he had pulled the trigger he knew that he had failed. At the sound of the shot Rod bolted into the cabin. Cairns turned to run.

"Must be Bill Cairns," Milroy said. "But why? What has he got against you?"

"Don't you know why?" Rod asked, with steady accusing eyes.

"How would I know?" Milroy asked. "I haven't seen anybody to talk to except you since I was locked up."

"When did Cairns get here?"

"Last night. I somehow mistrusted him and wouldn't let him sleep in here."

"He didn't tell you that he had killed my father?"

The amazed look on the desperado's face gave him a verdict of acquittal from Rod. "He told me he had not seen Jeff for days, that he was on the dodge account of wounding Applegate."

"I had father kick him out. He has been lying around drunk ever since. Yesterday he killed father at south boundary cabin when he took a load of food there for you."

Milroy came clean. "I sent a note to Jeff by Dick Spears. Asked him to get me food and send it either here or to the line cabin. Who told Bill Cairns your father might be at the line cabin?"

"I think Cairns was riding the chuck line," Rod answered. "He knew there was always some food there and figured he could bum a few meals. I've got to see he never gets away from here alive."

"I'm with you," Milroy said. He did not mention that by killing the boss of the Diamond Tail Cairns had robbed him of $500 he had expected to collect from Randall for destroying Bruce Sherrill. "His horse is picketed near here. Bill has to have it for a getaway. He will try to make a break for it."

They decided that they would move their own horses to the spot where Cairns had left his mount and that Rod would wait to cut him off when the man appeared. Milroy was to swing around behind the fugitive and drive him forward from his cover. Cairns would reason that the two men had come out to hunt him and he would attempt to reach his horse. It was his one chance of escape.

"Your .45 loaded?" Rod asked.

"With Bill's bullets," the desperado said, grimly. "Nice if I can give one of them back to him."

Rod frowned. He did not like this setup. There was a faint lingering doubt in his mind of Milroy. He might go out to find Cairns and throw in with him.

"You'd stand a fat chance against a Winchester with a .45," he suggested.

"He won't even see me if this works out right," Milroy said. "All I need to do is to fire a couple of shots from cover and push him back this way. You're the one entitled to rub him out, not me."

Rod could not think of a better plan than the one they had made and he let it go as arranged. He waited in the brush 40 or 50 feet away from the place where the nearest horse was picketed. As long as he had the three mounts in sight Cairns was tied to the neighborhood.

Milroy crept up the creek. Unless Cairns exposed himself at the entrance of the hill fold where he was hiding he could not see the stream. Quint left the brook, to take a fold that led to a clump of aspens above. These he skirted to a rise from which he could look down to another dip. On the opposite slope of this were more aspens. He watched them, patient as an Indian, and observed a shivering of the branches more sharp than that made by the breeze.

Presently his keen eyes focused on a moving object. The distance was about a hundred yards. He took aim with his .45 and fired. The foliage of the aspens was violently agitated. He fired two more shots. Cairns broke from cover, appeared for a moment silhouetted against the skyline, and disappeared over the brow. Milroy charged down the slope in pursuit and up the hill on the yonder side. He saw Cairns running toward the hollow where the horses were picketed.

Rod's voice came to him sharp and clear. Cairns fired. There came an answering shot from Rod. The hunted man dropped into a gully and raced for the house. He reached the cabin.

What occurred then was a total surprise to Milroy. Cairns stopped, abruptly as if the loop of a rope had pulled him up. He flung up his rifle and fired.

Jewish Service Personnel to Mark Holiday Period

The army and navy committee of the Jewish Welfare board in Chicago is preparing for observance of the Jewish high holiday period, beginning tonight, by Jewish service men and women. Sidney Lawrence, area director of the welfare board's United Service Organization club, 203 N. Wabash av., said the club will provide opportunities for the observance and hospitality for all in the metropolitan area, as well as those arriving from elsewhere. He said the club will remain open during the 10 day holiday period, which begins with Rosh Hashana, New Year's day, and ends with Yom Kippur, the day of atonement.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	1 spade	2 clubs	Pass
Pass	2 spades	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: queen of clubs.

Thousands of bridge players still labor under the fallacious old doctrine that doubles of part score contracts should not be made without the holding of two trump tricks, where such doubled contracts, if fulfilled, will yield a game. When you are reasonably sure that the opponents are down and you do not choose to go any farther, double them despite the inhibitions above alluded to.

Doubling should be done on a simple arithmetic basis. Add what tricks you expect to take to the number you have reason to expect from partner, allow one trick for margin of error and let her go. Partner, of course, is to exercise a certain amount of discretion. If his hand is going to be a disappointment from the defensive standpoint, he should not leave the double in. That is what is meant by the expression that all doubles of low contracts should be regarded as cooperative.

Today's hand provides a splendid illustration. South opened quite properly with one club, because the hand was just a shade short of the accepted standards for a no trump opening. West's overcall of one spade was natural and North, of course, had no option but to make a free bid of two clubs. Note that in the absence of an intervening bid North's proper response would be a one over one takeout in hearts. But a voluntary raise denotes a good hand and if South happens to have a four card heart suit he is at liberty to bid it on the second round.

When the auction reverted to South he was up against it. He held definitely more than a minimum and partner had made a free bid. He did not like to pass, but the spade situation was somewhat precarious and he chose the more conservative road. West persisted with two spades, a more or less pointless bid since partner had not chosen to act, and North quite properly passed. He had already told his story and did not fall into the common error of giving another raise when his partner still had a chance to bid. South's penalty double at this point was a very logical bid, and tho on the surface it may appear daring without a sure trump trick, actually it involves a minimum of risk with an enlightened partner. North must know that South has not much of a hand inasmuch as he took no further action after the first free bid. He must also know that South's spades are not very strong inasmuch as he was unwilling to bid two no trump on the previous round. North's defensive values must therefore be sound in order to leave the double in. Otherwise he should go on to three clubs. North passed and the contract was defeated 500 points by the simple expedient of cashing top tricks.

Service Wives' Need of Added Furniture Told

[Sally Joy Brown department activities are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Mrs. X. and her husband who soon will be returning from service are eager to establish a home of their own before the birth of their child. After much searching a small apartment has been located, but the problem of furnishings for living room, bedroom, and kitchen is one which they are financially unable to solve themselves, since the family allowance has barely maintained Mrs. X.'s living expenses during her husband's absence. She therefore has appealed to us, hoping that thru our coöperation essential pieces, such as table and chairs, bed and dresser, chairs for the living room, and a heating stove can be procured.

In order to provide more commodious living arrangements for her recently born twins, Mrs. F., an army wife, whose husband is overseas, has recently moved from crowded, shared quarters to a small flat north of the loop, where she is establishing a home with the few articles she has been able to accumulate. She has all she can do to make her small income cover the needs of herself and babies and cannot provide the few additional essential pieces, such as a kitchen cabinet, which would supply much needed storage space, and a davenport and chair for the living room.

Wise Neglect Helps to Cure Spoiled Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Centering attention by grownups on everything an attractive child does, from her dancing or singing to how she eats her vegetables and drinks her milk, and entertaining her constantly with stories, conversation, and play, hamper her development. Instead of having freedom to play by herself, look at books, and even to be quiet and unnoticed so that she can learn and mature unconsciously, she is "personalized." Other people's personalities are constantly impinging upon hers.

Now I'm not saying that I don't sympathize with those who find fascination in childhood, but what I am about to say is that it must find a form of expression, and even sometimes repression, which is for the child's good. So now we're getting to what "wholesome neglect" or "healthful ignoring" of a child may be.

First, before elaborating, let me say what it is NOT: It is NOT real neglect, and it is NOT a withdrawal of interest. These would be fatal to the child's sense of security and sureness of affection.

What "wholesome neglect" does consist of is avoiding most of those ways we've mentioned lately, and that would mean:

Avoid looking at your child all the time. Just watch yourself and the other adults and you will see exactly what I mean.

Avoid, above all things, talking about what the child does and says, telling each other or visitors in the child's hearing of her antics, her amusing sayings, or her "bright" remarks or her naughtiness.

Show real interest in her play, in her achievement with blocks, crayons, or dust cloth. But don't keep breaking in on her concentration. And when praise is in order don't make it always personal.

Avoid constantly offering entertainment and diversion, in which an adult's performance is necessary. [Naturally this doesn't mean that a grownup never plays with a child.] This fosters lack of concentration and makes a child exacting.

Bath Slippers

BY JEAN MACDONALD

It wasn't a surprise to see washcloths made into little animals, but when a washcloth doubles for bath slippers, the innovation is one to be tried. These comfortable bath slippers are inexpensive and fun to make.

B-17 Workers Give $18,255 to 3 Hospitals

BY GEORGE HARTMANN

The Service Men's Gift club of local 998 of the United Automobile, Aircraft, and Agricultural Implement Workers' union [CIO] and the aviation division of the Studebaker corporation yesterday prepared to wind up the club's activities and voted to give its treasury of $18,255.40 to army and navy hospitals at Fort Sheridan and Great Lakes and to Wesley Memorial hospital.

The club was started by the union and company shortly after production of parts for B-17 Flying Fortress engines got under way at the plant at 5555 Archer av. and employes began to be drafted into military service.

Drives for funds, to be used to send gifts to the men and women who had left the plant for military service, were made among the employes. The five collections totaled $47,594.73, Everett I. Henthorn, director of industrial relations for Studebaker, said. Each collection from the employes was equaled by a gift by the company.

But when the corporation's war contract was canceled June 1 and the majority of the 7,000 employes of the plant had to be laid off, the Service Men's Gift club was confronted with the problem of what to do with the $18,273.40 balance in its treasury.

Wednesday night the executive board of the club met and voted to give $12,664.40 to Great Lakes hospital; $4,357.50 to Fort Sheridan, and an additional $642.50 to the hospital there for the purchase of X-ray equipment, and $591 to Wesley Memorial hospital for the purchase of a piano and a billiard table.

Members of the executive board of the gift club besides Henthorn are W. B. Gustafson and C. A. Davis of the Studebaker aviation division and Neno Cellini, Jessie Richie, Mrs. Bertha Neff, Mrs. Mildred V. Cotter, Mrs. Edna Meier, William Etten, and Alice Skala representing the UAW local.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 6—The answer to who bought the screen rights to "Queen for a Day" is Edward Golden, who has taken up his option on it. From "Breakfast in Hollywood" to the "Queen" should be a "Golden" routine. . . . Eleanor Parker again teams with John Garfield, this time in "Humoresque." . . . Martha Sleeper, who played my daughter in George Kaufman's play "Dinner at Eight" ten years ago, will be Spencer Tracy's wife in Bob Sherwood's "The Rugged Path." Rehearsals begin in New York next week. . . . Elmer Rice wrote "Dream Girl" for his wife, Betty Field. But I hear it's more suited to Jean Arthur. Jean's reading the play and may do it instead of Betty. . . . When our talent scouts search the town for new faces they should get a look at Jane Melville, Adrian's new model. She's a blonde dream walking, has a photogenic face, and hails from Boston.

Back Home to Roost

John Raitt is here to sign a long term contract with Metro. He's just finished a New York season of "Oklahoma!" His pal, Harold Keel, who had virtually the same training as Raitt—starting in Pasadena and going thru all the heartaches—replaced John on Broadway, but after three performances a Paramount scout saw him, tested him, and he's up for a contract there. Truly, the route back to Hollywood is via "Oklahoma!" and Broadway. . . . Metro was so surprised when two magazines covered Agnes Moorehead's fourth appearance [by request] on Bill Spears' "Suspense" series. Play was titled "Sorry, Wrong Number." They may also be surprised that Henry Blanke at Warners wants her for the Pauline Lord part in "Ethan Frome." I hope she gets it. Aggie's a star everywhere but on her own home lot. . . . Remember the Duncan Sisters? They stopped the show at the Last Frontier hotel in Las Vegas and are heading this way. I'd advise you not to miss them.

Love Never Failed

I doubt that Jennifer Jones ever gets a part that fits her as well as "Love Letters." To me she never quite rang true but gave an arresting performance. Ann Richards, given an equal opportunity, would have broken your heart. Gladys Cooper never fails to ring the bell, nor does Joe Cotten. Yes, Hal Willis and William Dieterle have done it again. . . . Marc Platt is proud as a peacock that his name is listed with "Dancers" in the Encyclopedia Britannica. He will be in Rita Hayworth's next after "Gilda," titled "Down to Earth." . . . I'm told that Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings isn't happy about what Metro has done to her book, "The Yearling." I doubt if she'll go to see the picture. Might be too much like seeing her children murdered in their own beds. . . . Gloria De Haven is telling friends she'll retire after the birth of her baby and be just Mrs. John Payne. Seeing is believing. . . . Walter Plunkett, who designed the clothes for "Gone with the Wind," has joined Irene at Metro. . . . Norman Reilly Raine is writing an original for Ben Bogeaus, and when it's ready he'll also be assistant producer on it.

Charlie Is Safe at Last

Charlie Einfeld hasn't signed for a producer's berth at Metro, but it's a pretty good bet that he will put in with his old friend of many years, David Loew, as head of Loew's independent company. David's money was back of "GI Joe," "The Southerner," and half a dozen other well known films, all of which are doing big business. This sounds like a goodie and the answer to Charlie's prayer. . . . Florabel Muir's friends, commenting on the fire in her home, said it was just her method of getting rid of old scripts. But her clothes still carry that smoky aroma, and she wants you to know it isn't because they're made out of Harris tweed.

FASHIONS

By Angela

Campus style classics still are being purchased in large numbers by last minute shoppers. Among the favored sports combinations are shirts and jackets teamed with slacks, knickers, skirts, or pedal pushers. All are selected with the thought that a wardrobe of interchangeables provides variety.

Newest arrival in the shirt contingent is the western type. The sharkskin model at the left, in tiny black and white checks, has long sleeves with deep, four button cuffs piped in black. The front yoke is piped in black, and the decorative arrow trim is of black braid. It is slit at the bottom on the sides in typical western fashion and is worn outside. The same shirt is available in other check combinations and in brilliant solid colors.

Co-eds dashing to chilly early morning classes will grab a loafer jacket of all plain color or in combinations of tweeds and plaids. The gold colored wool jacket in the center has sleeves, deep patch pockets, and collar of brown, white, and gold muted tweed. It is available in sizes 10 to 18.

Flannel shirts still are ranking favorites, but this season's plaids are large and bold and in outstanding color harmonies and contrasts. The wool flannel shirt at the right, with its single chest pocket, long, tightly cuffed sleeves, convertible neckline, and shirt back yoke, is available in gray, wine, red, navy, and green plaids, as well as in solid colors.

Atomic Power to Be Subject of U. of C.'s Convocation Sermon

Atomic power and generosity will be the subject of the University of Chicago's 222d convocation Sunday sermon by Prof. Fred Eastman at 11 a. m. Sunday in Rockefeller Memorial chapel for the 381 students tentatively scheduled to be graduated in the summer convocation next Friday.

Preceding the convocation sermon a special prayer service for the graduates and their families, the oldest traditional ceremony of the university, will be held in the chapel, with Prof. Eastman officiating. He will be assisted by Alfred Painter, assistant to the dean of the chapel, who will receive his doctor of philosophy degree at the convocation.

Joseph A. Brandt, director of the University of Chicago press, who will leave soon to become president of a publishing company, will deliver the convocation address, "The Disciplined Scholar in an Undisciplined World."

NO TITLE TALK AT ILLINOIS, SO RIVALS BEWARE

Team May Wreck Others' Plans

BY WILFRID SMITH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 6—Neither Coach Eliot nor the University of Illinois' 50 varsity football players who drilled this afternoon on the field east of Memorial stadium are concerned primarily with thoughts of a Western conference championship. However, merely because a title now seems beyond reach, it does not follow that the Illini do not have high hopes of whipping one or more of their higher rated rivals and throwing up road blocks on the championship paths of other conference squads.

Buddy Young, Paul Patterson, and Don Greenwood of the 1944 back field have departed. Despite this serious loss—Young especially was feared by all opponents because of his speed—the over-all picture this fall presents a more experienced team.

First Team Has Experience

Altho this was only the fourth day of fall practice, Eliot already has aligned three men at each position and 10 players on the current varsity eleven are letter men. Only Stan Sprague at right end has not won a varsity award. He was a reserve last fall, but later won the conference shot put title, an achievement which unquestionably has bolstered his morale.

"It's nice that we do not have to sift our personnel to find the positions for which they are best suited," Eliot said in comment on Illinois' football prospects. "In general, we will have a team approximately equal in ability to the 1944 group except that most of the players have one more year of experience. We started eight freshmen in the opening game last fall against Illinois Normal."

McGovern, Bray Back

Loss of Young, Patterson, and Greenwood is offset by the return of Eddie McGovern, who dropped out of the university last season. In 1943 McGovern paired with Eddie Bray at the half backs. Bray tied for first in rushing in the conference that season while McGovern was the nation's leading scorer in 1942 at Rose Polytechnic institute, Terre Haute, Ind.

Bray missed most of last year's campaign but is reported ready for action following a knee operation. A quarter back will be Mickey Perkins and Bill Butkovich. The latter saw considerable service last year. Perkins won a letter in 1943. Perkins is the better passer and offensive quarter back. Butkovich is superior on defense and is an excellent kicker. The two probably will share the duties of the position as these abilities indicate.

Jerry Cies, the No. 1 full back, is a holdover from 1944 and Chuck Flynn, Illinois' publicitor, reports Cies' blocking has improved.

New Backs Will Help

Somewhere in the back field, Eliot will find more than occasional use for two freshmen, Jack Pierce of Pontiac and Tommy Zaborac of Canton. Pierce is tall and rangy. Zaborac is big and the fastest back on the squad. Here, then, is support for the two Eddies, Bray and McGovern.

Capt. Ralph Serpico, Melrose Park, Ill., playing his third season, is regarded as the squad's best lineman. He will play right tackle this fall on both offense and defense.

Lou Agase, Evanston, Ill., sophomore, will be at left tackle. The guards will be Les Bingaman and Larry Forst. Forst was injured last year and his return bolsters the position.

Bill Heiss, a full back last year, and Sprague are the varsity ends. At center George Bujan, 1944 regular, and Mac Wenskunas of the 1942 team, a marine lieutenant, are fighting for the starting rights. Illinois' line will average 209 pounds.

Because of classes, Eliot holds one practice a day, altho he expects to have the squad out twice Saturday.

Aerial Skill Sought in N.U. Squad Survey

Forward passing received the principal attention in Northwestern university's football practice yesterday and the overall results were satisfactory to Coach Lynn Waldorf. Altho the workout did not uncover another Otto Graham or Johnny Yungwirth, several newcomers showed better than average passing skill.

Early indications are that the major portion of Northwestern's passing this fall will be done by Jim Farrar, freshman quarter back from East Cleveland, O. He has an edge on the signal calling job as a result of excellent running and passing during summer practice. Others who participated in yesterday's passing drills were Bruce Bairstow, a letterman, John Barron of the navy V-12, and two freshmen, Don Laser, Hollywood, Ill., and Bob Voytecek, Martins Ferry, O.

BADGERS SCRIMMAGE

Madison, Wis., Sept. 6 (Special)—The University of Wisconsin football squad was bolstered today by the return of two army dischargees, Rex John, 212 pound tackle from the 1938 squad and Vern Klinzing, 190 pound guard from the 1942 eleven. Coach Harry Stuhldreher put the Badgers thru a scrimmage in which the first eleven scored four touchdowns on a defensive team.

Meanwhile the campus buzzed with rumors that Marlin [Pat] Harder, the Badgers' great full back in 1942, who was voted the outstanding player in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S All-Star game in 1943 will be discharged from the marines within a few days and rejoin the Badger eleven.

PURDUE WORKS ON TIMING

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 6 [Special]—Freshmen made up most of three back field combinations that worked on the timing of running plays as Coach Cecil Isbell stepped up the tempo of Purdue's football drill today.

Bill Deery, formerly of Washington High school, Indianapolis; Bob Demoss, Dayton, Ky., and George [Whitey] Huys, a resident of South Bend who played at Nicholas Senn High school, Chicago, all freshmen, alternated at the quarter back position.

IRISH DRILL ON DEFENSE

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 6 [Special]—Coach Hugh Devore, faced with the problem of replacing Frank Szymanski, center, who resigned yesterday from the Notre Dame football captaincy and squad, sent the Irish candidates thru a lengthy drill today on Cartier field in preparation for the season opener against Illinois on Sept. 29.

After a brief line scrimmage, the squad concentrated on pass defense thruout most of the drill and concluded the session with a dummy scrimmage.

MICHIGAN LOSES BAHLOW

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 6 [Special]—University of Michigan football plans were jolted this afternoon by a physician's report that Ed Bahlow, veteran end, has a broken ankle and will be out for the season.

Bahlow, 25, a Springfield, Ill., resident with varsity experience at Wisconsin and Central Michigan college before being transferred by the navy to Michigan, suffered the injury in practice late yesterday.

OHIO SEEKS FULL BACK

Columbus, O., Sept. 6 [Special]—Carroll Widdoes, Ohio State football coach, today sought a replacement for Ollie Cline, veteran full back. Cline, who has been 4-F since he first reported for the draft, yesterday was inducted into the service. Widdoes had Matt Brown, veteran from the 1943-'44 team, and Freshmen Chuck Gandee and Bill O'Dell working in the position in today's practices.

FLYER JOINS HOOSIERS

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 6 [Special]—Charles Armstrong of Evansville returned to Indiana university's football squad today after receiving his discharge from the army air forces. Armstrong, who held the rank of captain, has six oak leaf clusters and five battle stars.

BRITISH WILL HOLD SCHMELING TRIAL MONDAY

HAMBURG, Germany, Sept. 6 (AP)—British authorities announced tonight that Max Schmeling, former world heavyweight champion arrested on a charge of "breach of military government orders," would be tried Monday in Hamburg.

Schmeling recently was refused a license to enter the publishing business for what he said was the purpose of "reeducating the youth of Germany." The license was denied, an official said then, because the German boxer "was a symbol of naziism during the war for the youth of Germany."

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

IF THE Cubs decide to return to Catalina Island for spring training in 1946, they will find the old accommodations waiting for them. . . . The Catalina Islander, weekly newspaper published at Avalon, carries the announcement that the maritime service training station, which has been in operation there since early in 1942, will be closed on Oct. 1. . . . A front page photograph in the same issue reveals that the training field, grandstand and the press box still are intact. . . . There have been whisperings, tho, that the north siders may do their conditioning in either Phoenix or Tucson, where the climate is perfect for the reduction of overweight athletes. . . . At any rate, it's nice to be able to conjecture without the "if travel restrictions are removed." . . . When Outfielder Johnny Moore returned to the Cubs from Los Angeles, he immediately went into a huddle with Lonnie Warneke to reminisce about the famous characters who made up the league championship outfit in 1932. . . . The late Pat Malone was the subject of most of the "and-remember-that-time-when" business. . . . Malone was an inveterate backer of his own judgment in all matters of dispute and he wasn't just popping off when he offered to bet $20 on what was the longest river in the world, for instance. . . . Pat received his worst setback, perhaps, when some one mentioned, in a clubhouse bull session, that Leo Durocher had hit a home run off a Cub pitcher. . . . "I'll bet a double sawbuck," cracked Pat, "that Durocher never got a homer off any major league pitcher, let alone a Cub." . . . 32 DAY MEET TO OPEN TODAY AT HAWTHORNE

Stickney Purse Is Inaugural Feature

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

The 64 day coördinated Arlington-Washington Park race meeting at Washington Park, most successful financially and artistically in the history of the two organizations, closed yesterday and many of the stables which furnished so many thrills during the summer will continue their operations at Hawthorne, which opens a 32 day stand this afternoon.

A crowd estimated at 11,000 wagered $954,263 on the final day at the Homewood establishment, bringing the total for 64 days to $77,662,939. The attendance totaled 1,115,967.

Fighting Step, winner of the $50,000 added American Derby, owned by Mrs. R. J. Murphy and Miss Susan Kellogg of Evansville, Ind., and other leading stars will be named for several of the better events at the Stickney track, according to Charles W. Bidwill, executive director of Hawthorne.

Name Eight for Stickney Purse

The $15,000 added Hawthorne handicap on Sept. 29 is one of the events for which the Murlogg farm colorbearer will be pointed. Racing Secretary Larry Bogenschutz has arranged many week day features with purses ranging from $2,500 to $3,500.

Today's featured offering is the $3,000 Stickney Purse, a six and one-half furlong affair for older horses which has drawn a field of eight, including Brody and Brody's Black Pepper, S. D. Sidell's St. Jock, and Mrs. Emil Denemark's Fire Dust.

Whereas post time for the first race during the Washington Park meeting was 3 o'clock on week days and 2 o'clock on Saturdays, Hawthorne will open its daily eight race cards at 2:15, with Saturday's time 2 o'clock.

Good Blood Wins Artful

Calumet farm's entry of Good Blood and Twosy finished one-two in the $15,000 Artful purse, Washington Park's getaway day feature which drew a classy field of eight fillies and mares, none of which had won a stake event during the long meeting.

The race was at 6½ furlongs, the first at that distance since the track was opened, and Good Blood, ridden by Doug Dodson, turned in a fast 1:16 4-5 performance in whipping her stablemate a length. Twosy was two and one-half lengths ahead of J. A. Goodwin's Jack's Jill at the finish.

The entry earned $12,750 for the Warren Wright establishment and rewarded its backers with mutuels of $2.80, $2.60 and $2.20. Jack's Jill paid $2.80 to show.

The daily double, worth $37.80, was accounted for by the Calumet farm's Maud Lea, a 2 year old filly making her first start, and Friedberg and Bright's 7 year old Monk's Memo. Maud Lea, running as an entry with Red Top, won with speed to spare and paid $2.80.

KITTRELL SIGNS WITH BUFFALO IN ALL-AMERICA

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 6 [Special]—Jimmy Kittrell, former Baylor university half back, has signed to play professional football with the Buffalo team in the All-America conference, Sam Cordovano, co-owner and coach of the club, said today.

Kittrell left Baylor to join the marine corps after his junior year, during which he gained recognition as one of the leading backs in the southwest. He still is in the marines and is stationed at El Toro, Cal.

Cordovano expects Kittrell to be a topnotch running mate for Paul Governali, former Columbia star, in the Buffalo back field when the All-America starts play in the 1946 season.

HARMON PASSES UP BEARS; TAKES ANNOUNCING JOB

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 6 (AP)—Tom Harmon, the University of Michigan's All-America half back of five seasons ago, has elected to return to sports broadcasting rather than play professional football. He has signed a contract with WJR, Detroit radio station, to describe Michigan's 1945 games, it was reported today.

Harmon, recently released from the army air forces, played with the College All-Stars against the Green Bay Packers a week ago in Chicago. The Chicago Bears have the National Football league rights to the former Wolverine star.

SOX KICK AWAY GAME, 6-5; THEN DEFEAT A'S, 2-1

BY IRVING VAUGHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 6—The unfortunate White Sox went thru another spasm of their round-the-clock baseball program today and, altho the competition was strictly basement variety as represented by the Athletics, the Chicagoans could accomplish nothing more than an even break. The tail-enders took the first game as more or less of a personal gift from Luke Appling but Leisurely Luke at least helped to make the second affair a success. The scores were 6 to 5 and 2 to 1.

Orville Grove, after the undoing of Thornton Lee, took charge of the second game and drew the competent Russ Christopher as an opponent, the latter succumbing to a double by Appling in the fifth inning for one run and a triple by Wally Moses that broke a 1 to 1 tie in the eighth. It was Grove's 13th victory against nine defeats, and this one could have been a shutout if Appling hadn't had another slight flurry afield.

Lee's Control Is Terrible

Lee's bid for his 13th victory in the first game should have been easy after his fellow workers clipped the roly poly Luther Knerr for four runs and a 5 to 2 lead in the fourth inning. But Lee, constantly annoyed by his bad aim, surrendered two runs in the sixth on two hits and his sixth pass. He still had a one run edge, but the eighth placers took that away from him in the eighth and then polished him off after Appling's fumble had given them the desired opening in the ninth.

The Athletics opened the first game with a run because Lee slipped them three successive passes, but the White Sox offset this with a run in the second inning on a pass to Curtright, an infield out, and a single by Appling. The A's picked off another one run lead for themselves in the third, another pass as well as a passed ball by Tresh and a single by Estalella being involved.

Tie Score in Eighth

The White Sox fourth got under way in such lavish style that Schalk and Curtright walked and Appling and Cuccinello nicked Knerr for singles before anybody was retired. With the help of a bad throw by Catcher Astroth and a single by Tresh, this disturbance netted four runs for a 5 to 2 lead.

A single by McGhee and a pass to Kell with none out in the sixth developed into two runs and Philadelphia tied it against Lee in the eighth when McGhee, Kell, and Wilkins dis-

Cards Defeat Braves, 7 to 3, After 9-1 Loss

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 6 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals and the Boston Braves split a double header tonight, the Cards winning the second game, 7 to 3, after Boston took the opener, 9 to 1.

Ken Burkhardt pitched his 16th victory of the season for the Cardinals yielding 11 hits. The second place Cards remain five games behind the pace setting Chicago Cubs in the National league.

Buster Adams hit a homer in the third inning of the second game, his 22d of the year, and scored behind Burkhardt and Augie Bergamo.

Garden Gillenwater, the Braves' center fielder, also hit a home run, his seventh this year, for the first Boston run in the fourth.

The veteran Bill Lee started on the mound for Boston and was taken out in the fifth.

BY EDWARD BURNS

Hank Borowy, that poor fellow who couldn't pitch a complete game after the 4th of July [according to Larry MacPhail, Yankee prexy], yesterday breezed thru his ninth complete job since joining the Cubs on July 29. It was another stellar performance, in which the pale Pole from Jersey beat the Giants, 6 to 1, to account for his seventh Cub victory and his second over the Giants, whom he shut out, 8 to 0, on Aug. 19.

Borowy yielded seven hits and would have had his second Giant shutout, but for the fact that Ernesto Lombardi, who had singled, got home in the fifth on a double by Roy Zimmerman and an infield out.

Hank Scores Winning Run

Borowy scored the winning run, after knocking one of his two singles. But this run, tallied in the third inning, was unearned. Reticent about accepting victory on unearned runs, Bill Nicholson made the conquest solid with a two run homer in the fifth inning. In the eighth, the Cubs rang up two more unearned runs.

Eight of the Cubs contributed to the team hit total of 12 and Mickey Livingston, the one who didn't hit, was ruthlessly robbed on an old time Jurges play in the grass back of short—a Jurges play by Bill Jurges in person, who rarely plays his old position anymore.

They're Hitting Again

In the five games they have played since coming home from St. Louis, the Cubs have made 55 hits, including two home runs each by Bill Nicholson and Andy Pafko.

The success yesterday gave them a five game winning streak and a record of 11 to 9 in their season series with the Giants, a series which will be concluded with single games this and tomorrow afternoons. This afternoon Hank Wyse will make his fifth try for his 19th victory and will be opposed by Sal Maglie.

The Cubs still were five games ahead of the second place St. Louis Cardinals after the latter had split a double header with Boston last night.

Score in Second Inning

But getting back to yesterday's gratifying doings in Wrigley field:

Andy Pafko and Reggie Otero, the former with a lead-off double and the latter with a single after two out in the second inning, fabricated the Cubs' first run. In the third Borowy pushed off with a single, got to third when Nap Reyes threw wild on Roy Hughes' grounder and scored on Nicholson's fly to John Rucker.

The Giants scored in the fourth inning on Lombardi's single, Roy Zimmerman's double and an infield out.

The home fifth saw the situation become more comfortable. Stan Hack led off with a single and scored on Nicholson's homer.

Peanuts Lowrey got the eighth inning under way with a double to right center. Livingston sacrificed and, when Ace Adams threw the ball past third, in an attempt to get him, Peanuts scored and Livingston reached third. Otero scratched a single off Zimmerman's glove, scoring Livingston.

Win, 2 to 0, 3 to 2; 1½ Games Out of First

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP)—Joe Kuhel's ninth inning single, driving in the third and decisive run, gave the Washington Senators a sweep of their double header with the St. Louis Browns tonight, 2 to 0 and 3 to 2.

The double triumph enabled the second place Senators to gain a full game on the league leading Detroit Tigers, who are 1½ games ahead of their Washington rivals. Marino Pieretti received credit for the victory in the final contest.

YANKS, TIGERS SPLIT

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—After being routed, 14 to 5, in the opener, the league leading Detroit Tigers rallied in the seventh and eighth innings of the second game to gain an even break with the New York Yankees today, winning the final, 5 to 2.

Four homers sparked the Yanks' attack in the first contest. The results left the 5½ game difference between the Tigers and the Yankees unchanged.

New Tourney of C. D. G. A. Opens Today

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The first annual tournament conducted by the newly formed public links section of the Chicago District Golf association will open this morning with a qualifying round at Jackson park. All entrants must tee off between 9 and 11:30, the period allotted by the Chicago Park district. The entry fee is $1.50, plus green fees. The tournament is open to golfers who play on those courses which are members of the C. D. G. A. public links section.

Two flights of 16 each will qualify for match play, which will open tomorrow with two bouts, beginning at 9:30 and 2:30 p. m. The same times will apply for the semi-finals and finals on Sunday. The winner and runner-up will join their duplicates in the city, county, and midwest tournaments in the second All-Star public links tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and the Chicago Park district.

The Chicago Women's District Golf association, which during the 1945 season did an outstanding job in providing golf outings for hospitalized service men, will hold its annual election of officers and two ball foursome event today at Midlothian.

Formal dedication of the pitch-and-putt course donated to service men convalescing at the Great Lakes hospital by Chicago District Golf Charities, Inc., will be made at 9 a. m. tomorrow. The course, one of the sporties of its type in the country, runs thru a grove of trees along a ravine to the north of the main entrance and east of Sheridan road, within easy walking distance of the hospital. It measures 630 yards, with individual yardages of 85, 70, 55, 65, 75, 90, 60, 50, and 80, and boasts grass traps and elevated greens.

Riverside won the West District Golf league's tournament held yesterday at Brookwood to qualify for the Chicago District Interleague championship meet which is to be held Wednesday at Glen Oak. The other two district winners which already have qualified for the title round are Westmoreland and Calumet, respective champions of the North Shore and the South District leagues.

Final West District league standings:

Riverside, 13½; Brookwood, 131; Edgewood Valley, 119½; La Grange, 108; Hinsdale, 96; Medinah, 89; Butterfield, 84½; Glen Oak, 78½.

In yesterday's team competition Brookwood beat Riverside, 16 to 11; Edgewood Valley beat La Grange, 19½ to 7½; Hinsdale and Medinah tied, 13½ to 13½, and Glen Oak defeated Butterfield, 17 to 10.

Skippers Open International Series Today

Sixteen skippers and their crews, representing yacht clubs and fleets in all parts of the United States, will start three days of competition today for the Snipe class international sailing championship. The competition is sponsored by the Chicago Corinthian Yacht club. The regatta, being resumed after a two year lapse, will be sailed off Montrose harbor.

Opening event on the six mile triangular course will start at 2 p. m. today. The starting hour tomorrow also will be 2 p. m.

Ken Schmid, recently honorably discharged chief photographer's mate in the navy, will represent the Chicago Snipe fleet. He and Robert Rodgers, his crew, are coowners of the Snipe sloop Libby R V.

A junior national Snipe championship series, held in conjunction with the international regatta, will start at 10:30 a. m. today on the six mile course. Fred [Bud] Joyce, 17, junior member of the Corinthian club and owner of Snipe sloop Skippy, will represent the Chicago fleet. Earl Davidson, also 17, will be his crew.

MORAN AIMS TO PUT NEW DENT IN RING CROWN

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—Nick Moran, Mexican fighter, will seek to make another dent in a lightweight crown tomorrow night when he meets Ike Williams, National Boxing association champion, in a 10 round non-title bout in Madison Square garden.

Moran defeated Bob Montgomery, recognized in New York as titleholder, in another non-title affair and by adding Williams to his list very well could claim the title of champion of champions.

DODDS TO COACH WHEATON CROSS COUNTRY SQUAD

Gil Dodds, holder of the recognized world indoor mile record of 4:06.4, made a year ago last March in the Chicago Stadium, will coach the Wheaton college cross-country team this fall, Edward A. Corey, Wheaton director of athletics, said yesterday.

Dodds will do graduate work at Wheaton and also will assist Carl De Vries, head coach, during the spring track season.

patched successive singles. Then the ninth opened with Appling fumbling Kish's roller. Singles by McGhee and Kell did the rest.

Two Hits, No Runs for A's

Two hits failed to net the Athletics anything in the first inning of the second game, but they made up for this by getting a run in the next inning without the aid of even one hit. Appling also was the cause of this. He threw wild on Kell's grounder and after retiring the next batter, Grove turned loose a wild pitch that enabled Kell to go from first to third, whence he scored while Appling was throwing out Buddy Rosar.

Appling led off in the fifth with a double to left, pulled up at third on a single by Cuccinello, and scored the tying run on Nagel's force of Cuccinello. Appling also led off in the seventh, this time with a triple, but nothing was done about getting the run across. However, a triple in the eighth did the business. Moses slapped it into the left field corner and scored the winning run on Schalk's fly.

BUICK SPEEDS PREPARATIONS FOR NEW AUTOS

Output Scheduled for Next Month

BY PHILIP HAMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Flint, Mich., Sept. 6—Thousands of workers are engaged in preparing Buick's big Flint plant for production in October of the first 1946 models. If all goes well new Buicks are expected to be available to the general public next spring.

The 1946 automobiles that will come off a modernized assembly line in effect will be entirely new cars, with about as many changes over the 1942 cars as in seasonal changes over predecessor models before the war. Several appearance changes and various mechanical refinements and improvements will be incorporated. Details will be disclosed later.

Buick officials said they are well satisfied with the progress of reconversion of their plants. Only a few weeks ago Buick was turning out aviation engines and other war equipment. Today one large force of workers is removing government owned machines for storage in Detroit and installing equipment for resuming automobile production. Finishing touches on the new assembly line are under way.

Work Begins on New Building

Construction workers already have started building new factories in Buick's expansion program. Fifteen buildings with a total of 1,325,000 square feet are to be erected. Among them will be a sheet metal plant for the manufacture of fenders, hoods and other parts; a big final assembly plant; engineering and experimental work facilities, and various other plants.

When the expansion program is completed Buick will have a capacity for the production of 550,000 automobiles annually. Its top production in one calendar year was 312,000 cars.

Once production gets under way it is expected to accelerate rapidly, company officials said. Altho the material situation was unfavorable until V-J day, it is improving slowly. Late this fall steel is expected to be available in large quantities.

Buick officials said that they did not expect to be able to use much of what they learned in war production in the immediate post-war cars, but as time goes on they hope to draw on that experience to build more efficient automobiles. They said alloy steels used to make war items, including aviation engines, are not suitable for use in presently designed automobiles.

Few Big Yearly Changes

Progress in the evolution of the automobile during the next decade is expected to follow the same pattern as existed in the last 10 years. Few spectacular changes took place in any year, but the car produced at the end of the decade was vastly improved over the one that came out at the beginning.

It is believed engineers have progressed about as far with present automobile engines as practicable on a basis of the octane rating of available gasoline. To take advantage of gasolines of 100 and higher octane rating new automobile engine designs will be necessary. It was explained that present crankshafts and reciprocating parts could not take the punishment delivered by high octane fuels used in aviation engines.

Buick officials are open minded on placing the engine at the rear of the car. They say that if the engine goes to the rear the baggage compartment would have to go to the front and it is difficult to ascertain the public's preference.

FORD HAS NEW TYPE

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 6 (AP)—Ford Motor company announced today that one of its early additions to the Ford passenger car line will be a sportsman's convertible, described as a "blending of the station wagon and the convertible."

Limited production will begin soon after the public announcement of the 1946 Ford models, the company said.

The wooden panels of the new body will be applied over a steel frame. The power operated top of the convertible club coupe will be utilized. The car will be finished inside with leather upholstery.

PLAN NEW TYPE RAILWAY DOUBLE BEDROOM CARS

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 6 [Special]—A new type of double bedroom for sleeping car passengers was announced today by Edward G. Budd, president of the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company. Streamlined stainless steel railroad cars with the new accommodations will go into production at the Budd plant late this fall.

All rooms are equipped with two full size berths, private bathroom facilities, a wardrobe, and baggage space. One type contains a sofa, another a wide seat and movable chair.

Navy Expects to Reopen Big Torpedo Plant

Lt. Comdr. W. P. Rock, executive officer of the 10 million dollar naval torpedo plant at Forest Park, said yesterday the big ordnance facility closed since Aug. 20 is expected to reopen soon and that it is to be manned by civil service employes.

He disclosed that the production division of the navy ordnance department in Washington, D. C., is working out details of the extent and scope of future operations which he said will engage the plant in permanent peace time production of torpedoes, probably on a limited basis.

Size of Force in Doubt

Just how many employes the plant will require, and whether under civil service it will rehire any or all of the 6,000 workers employed during the war, Comdr. Rock said he had not been informed. He also said he was unable to say whether the plant would be the country's sole producer of naval torpedoes, also known as "silver fish," once production is resumed.

At present, he explained, all production has ceased and only a small maintenance crew is on the premises.

The plant opened Oct. 28, 1942. It was operated for the navy by the Amertorp corporation, a subsidiary of the American Can corporation. Money for its construction was provided by the navy which owns it and will direct its future operation as an ordnance installation.

Produced Three Types

At the peak of its operation the plant produced all three types of naval torpedoes—aircraft, surface craft, and submarine. The torpedoes it manufactured for surface ships and submarines were 22 feet long, weighed more than a ton, and cost $12,300 each. The aerial torpedo it is equipped to turn out is 22 inches in diameter and 19 feet long, also weighs more than a ton, and costs $10,500.

The plant was designed to produce seven complete torpedoes daily, but was said to have stepped up that quota thru efficiency methods which eliminated many hand operations.

Almost one-third of the war time employes were women who worked eight hour shifts, six days a week. Male employes at the height of the war worked 10½ hour day shifts and 11½ hour night shifts, seven days a week, with Christmas their only holiday.

GRAINS REACT AFTER RISE ON TRUMAN PLANS

Grain markets reacted in late trading yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade after an early advance on buying induced by President Truman's message to congress asking for a large appropriation for foreign relief and legislation designed to maintain a high level of prices for farm commodities.

September rye advanced 3½ cents a bushel at one time to $1.53¾, a new high, but the market weakened later on profit taking and in sympathy with a slump in Winnipeg. Final trades were ⅞ cent higher to 1 lower, the latter on July. Wheat closed ¼ to ⅓ higher, corn unchanged to ⅜ lower, oats ⅛ lower to ⅜ higher, and barley ⅜ to 1¼ higher.

SURPLUS PLANT BUYING HINGES ON PRICE ASKED

Chicago Companies Study Purchase

The question of how much government owned facilities will cost when they are turned back to private industry will determine in many cases whether manufacturers buy the plants they operated during the war, a survey of Chicago manufacturers disclosed yesterday.

Many companies, altho involved in contract settlements and reconversion, have tentative plans for expansion as soon as conditions are normal. They could utilize the government owned buildings and tools that they used for war production and which are being declared surplus by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

However, if the price is too high they would do better to expand elsewhere, they said. Some large companies, including Chrysler corporation, which operated the Dodge-Chicago plant, already have given up the government owned facilities because they have no more use for them.

Negotiates for Factory

Bell & Howell company announced plans early this year to purchase the Lincolnwood plant at 7100 McCormick blvd., built for the government in 1942. Negotiations are under way. Altho Studebaker corporation does not wish to buy the plant it operated in Chicago, several other companies are bidding for it. Reynolds Metals company is known to be interested in the plant operated by Aluminum Company of America in McCook.

Smaller companies, however, may not be in a financial position to pay for the facilities they have operated if the price is high, because of reconversion costs and other expenses brought on by the end of the war, the survey disclosed.

Ahlberg Bearing company, 3025 W. 47th st., which operated a two story building containing approximately 182,424 square feet for the government, is waiting to learn what price the RFC will ask for the building before making a decision on its purchase, said Paul McGuinn, secretary. The company occupies a building bought in 1937 which has expansion space. Ahlberg would have no use for much of the government owned machinery, McGuinn said.

Others Plan to Buy Facilities

Among other companies considering buying facilities they operated for the government are Onsrud Machine Works, 3910 W. Palmer st.; Simpson Electric company, 5208 W. Kinzie st.; Chicago Vitreous Enamel Products company, Cicero; Eicor, Inc., 1501 W. Congress st.; Chicago Chemical company, 4001 W. 71st st., and Foote Brothers Gear and Machine corporation, 5225 S. Western av.

None has made any decision regarding purchase. Some, including Aetna Ball Bearing Manufacturing company, 4600 W. Schubert st., said they may buy government tools and machinery if not the building.

One spokesman said, "We are waiting to see what post-war looks like."

Big Research Unit Planned by Manville

The Johns-Manville corporation will build one of the largest research laboratories of its kind to speed the development of new and improved building materials, the company announced yesterday. Its construction will be the first step in a 40 million dollar expansion program expected to provide 25 per cent more jobs than in the company's most successful pre-war year.

Dr. C. F. Rassweiler

Dr. C. F. Rassweiler, vice president and director of research, said the first laboratory unit, in addition to research facilities, also will provide 10 experimental factories under one roof. Products initiated in the laboratory thus may be developed and carried thru production stages without leaving the building.

Will Speed Improvements

"This is expected to speed up the development of new and improved materials for building and for industrial uses, since new products will be more nearly ready for commercial manufacture when they emerge from the research center," said Rassweiler. The public is wary of using new building materials until they have been thoroly tested, he said.

"We will have one unit in the new research center which will be able to make a quick cycle test of the wear and tear that building materials will get in actual use," Rassweiler said. "We won't test just one asbestos shingle for instance. We will put an entire roof or side wall thru 20 years of climatic changes in six months.

Test Entire Units

"We will test everything in the wall or roof, not just the shingles or siding alone. The phrase 'service tested on large units' may be the key to rapid changes in building materials in the post-war years."

The whole emphasis in research will be to produce more satisfactory housing, with more comfort and permanence, he said.

SPECIAL TOOLING IN DODGE PLANT TO GO AS SCRAP

More than 1 million dollars will be saved the government by classifying the 28 million dollars worth of special tooling attachments on the machinery in the Dodge-Chicago plant as scrap and leaving them for the machine buyers to remove or use as they see fit, Lt. Col. Max G. Johl, of the army air forces, said yesterday. Representatives of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, owner of the 10,800 machines, the army air forces, owner of special tooling on these machines, the Chrysler corporation, and Chicago industry met to discuss their disposal.

Col. Johl said it would be cheaper to leave the special tooling on the machines, and let the buyers scrap or use it if possible, than to remove it. Little would be practical for use and its removal would be expensive, he said. The machines, with 80,000 attachments, shortly will be placed on sale as surplus property.

Consolidated net sales of Spiegel, Inc., in August were $6,192,938 and in the first eight months of this year were $40,161,976, the company said yesterday. No 1944 sales figures were available for comparison.

EQUITABLE WILL PAY FULL POLICY AMOUNT ON DEATH IN SERVICE

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States said today it would reopen all claims under which a restricted amount was paid thru operation of its war clause on deaths of service men and would pay the full amounts of the policies.

Recalling that the war clauses were inserted in policies issued after Dec. 15, 1941, to protect against "possibility of heavy losses due to war deaths among new policyholders," Thomas I. Parkinson, Equitable president, said company records showed mortality in the war among its policyholders "was not greater than its average mortality in the years preceding the war."

Elimination of the war clause from new policies had been announced previously.

76,000 in U. S. Idle as Result of Walkouts

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

More than 76,000 persons, half of them in the Detroit automotive industry, were idle thruout the country yesterday as a result of labor disputes.

Production of 1946 model Fords was halted by a strike of 4,500 employes of the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company, Detroit, in progress since Aug. 23. The CIO United Automobile Workers were out in a dispute over reinstatement of three discharged members. Lacking parts, Ford Motor company had to suspend production, idling 26,500 workers. The shutdown of the big Rouge assembly plant was followed by closing of Ford branches in Louisville, Ky., Dallas, Tex., and Edgewater, N. J. Closing of other Ford plants appeared likely.

Many Strikes Weeks Old

Hudson Motor Car company production in Detroit also was stopped when 6,000 production workers joined a strike of 500 foremen protesting certain demotions.

The rest of the nation was dotted with strikes, most of them more than a week old. Included was the months old strike of technical workers in Hollywood's motion picture studios, where 7,000 employes are affected by a jurisdictional dispute between two unions.

Several thousands were out in Ohio industrial plants. Hundreds left their jobs in other plants to join pickets about the Parker Appliance company plant in Cleveland. Members of the AFL International Association of Machinists have been on strike two weeks in protest against the company's position on seniority.

Production Is Reduced

In Akron officials of the B. F. Goodrich company termed production "bad" because of a strike of foremen, altho they said fewer than half of 15,000 production workers were off their jobs. An officer of the CIO United Rubber Workers said production was only 35 per cent of normal. Other Ohio disputes idled 3,000 CIO-UAW at the General Motors plant in Warren, and 1,400 at three plants in Toledo.

In the northwest, ballots were being counted in a mail strike vote taken by the AFL Lumber and Sawmill Workers' union.

SPEND POLICY LONG ESPOUSED BY SNYDER AID

Nathan Book Urged Big Jobs Outlay

BY THOMAS FURLONG

The philosophy behind the Murray full employment bill, passage of which was urged yesterday by President Truman, was set forth in detail in a book published 18 months ago by the present deputy director of the office of reconversion.

The book received scant attention at the time of its publication because the author, Robert R. Nathan, was not regarded as a particularly influential figure in the shaping of government policy. Today Nathan is rated the chief adviser of John W. Snyder, director of the reconversion program.

Nathan described himself in his book, "Mobilizing for Abundance," as a firm supporter of the private enterprise system. He then proceeded to detail the steps which would be necessary if the system is to be preserved. His program includes large government spending and public works to assure a continuous high level of employment.

Offers Several Recommendations

His recommendations included the following:

Expenditure of several billion dollars each year by the federal government [in excess of normal expenditures] to prevent idle savings from jamming the economic machine.

Gearing of the tax system so that as much as possible of the government's revenue would come from individuals tempted and able to save.

Virtual elimination of taxes for those individuals whose spending would be curtailed by the necessity of paying taxes.

Accepting the diagnosis of Keynes and Hansen that the United States is suffering from too much savings, Nathan proceeded to give a blueprint for future government activities that would offset the supposed effects of such thrift.

Says Governmen. Must Spend

Noting that savings under pre-war conditions aggregated about 30 billion dollars, Nathan said offsets were needed to neutralize the effects of such savings. Only government can provide these offsets by spending and investments, he asserted.

"Those who preach 'do nothing' and 'let business alone and it will provide the necessary spending' are either wholly unaware of the magnitude of the task or are living in a world of pipe dreams," said Nathan,

Speed Placing of Displaced Workers, Vets

The drive to place returning war veterans in jobs with the utmost speed and to meet civilian employment problems resulting from reconversion had four developments in the Chicago area yesterday:

1. The National Association of Personnel Directors announced that 527 veterans actually were placed on jobs in August in and around Chicago and that 1,108 have been given employment thru the association since July 1.

2. Charles P. Casey, state director of the war man power commission, and Col. H. H. Weimer, state veterans employment representative, announced that veterans will have first choice of all jobs listed at United States employment service offices in Illinois. Casey said a state-wide training program for USES employes in veteran placement began yesterday.

Boon to Displaced Workers

3. Robert L. Gordon, state labor director, said that displaced Illinois workers refusing peace time jobs paying much less than their war jobs will receive state unemployment compensation for "a reasonable time." "We are not trying to club any worker into taking a peace time job that pays far below what he made in war time," he said.

4. Maj. Gen. David McCoach Jr., commanding general of the 6th service command, urged all employers of prisoners of war to take immediate steps to replace them with civilian workers. He said approximately 26,000 German and Italian prisoners are in the service command, about 19,000 engaged in agricultural and food processing work.

Patterson Asks Assistance

Gen. McCoach also quoted a letter from Under Secretary of War Patterson saying: "It is the intention of the war department to return to Europe at the earliest practicable moment all German and Italian prisoners of war. State and federal employment agencies and veterans' organizations can be of great assistance in guiding employes released by industrial cutbacks and discharged military personnel into agricultural and peace time industrial jobs."

Meanwhile, the war man power commission announced that 241,286 men and women job seekers had moved thru the 18 USES offices in the Chicago area from Aug. 17 to noon yesterday. The offices handled 20,605 applications, 11,234 of them for men, on Wednesday and 10,341 yesterday up to noon.

Locke Steel and Lion Oil Declare Extra Dividends

Locke Steel Chain company yesterday declared an extra dividend of 10 cents a share with the quarterly disbursement of 30 cents. Lion Oil company authorized an extra of 10 cents with the quarterly dividend of 25 cents.

1½ MILLION WAR JOBS SLATED TO END IN 8 WEEKS

Snyder Says Many Firms Seek Help

BY ROBERT YOUNG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6—An estimated 1½ to 2 million additional workers will be discharged from their war jobs within six to eight weeks as more munitions contracts are terminated and plants are cleared for civilian goods production, Reconversion Director Snyder said today in a report to President Truman.

Those to be released are in addition to the 2,700,000 men and women laid off within 10 days after the surrender of Japan. Snyder reported that of this group, 900,000 were shifted immediately to peace time jobs in the same plants.

For the remaining 1,800,000 there were more than 500,000 jobs listed in the offices of the United States employment service, but these jobs were not necessarily in the same places and did not offer the same wages or require the same skills.

Benefit Claims Increase

Snyder disclosed that claims for unemployment benefits reached a total of 960,000 in the week ended Aug. 25, an increase of more than 200 per cent over the preceding week. Superimposed upon the hundreds of thousands of released war workers will be the 6 million men the army expects to discharge in the next 10 months and the 2,800,000 the navy plans to discharge in the same period, the report said.

Snyder's report, which outlined the initial steps of reconversion, said that the nation's transition from war to peace is "picking up speed." He said there are many indications that business and reemployment are progressing vigorously.

Discussing war contract cancellations, the report said this month's munitions production will be 60 per cent less than in July, and by December the production rate will have declined 80 per cent.

End 83,000 Army Contracts

On the night Japan surrendered, Snyder continued, the army canceled work on about 83,000 contracts totaling 17½ billion dollars worth of undelivered munitions and supplies. At the same time, the navy either called off or began taking steps to cancel nearly 50,000 contracts with a value of 7 billions.

The next reconversion step is the financial settlement of war contracts which have been canceled, the report said. The government intends to complete settlement of all canceled contracts within a year, Snyder informed President Truman, and added that settlements to date indicate this can be done.

Prices Reach New Eight Year High Mark

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—The stock market took the President's message to congress in stride today with leading industrials and utilities reaching peaks for the last eight years and rails rallying in late trade.

Some buying was attributed to inflation interpretations placed on the Truman communication and to his predictions of a period of "unprecedented prosperity" if administration teamwork prevails. His reference to "limited tax reductions" tended to lessen enthusiasm. Many customers also continued to hold back on the belief a long expected technical correction is not far away.

Coca-Cola rose 11½ points to 166½ on restricted sales, partly in response to talk of a splitup.

RAILS LEAD BOND RISE

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—The bond market closed strong today. Rails led the comeback which placed numerous issues ahead fractions to a point or so after many had been behind nearly as much up to the final hour. Transactions expanded to $6,210,000 from $4,010,000 yesterday.

A block of $100,000 American Telephone 3s was sold at 142, up a point.

CHICAGO LIST RISES

Prices closed higher in increased turnover of 45,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Trade broadened to 125 issues, of which 68 advahced and 23 declined. Lively issues included Chicago corporation common, up ½; Libby, McNeill, up ⅝; Central and South West Utilities and Admiral, each up ¼, and Standard Dredging, unchanged. Five 1945 peaks were reached.

BEST FED STEERS STEADY; OTHER CATTLE WEAKEN

Weakness developed yesterday in the market for all classes of cattle except best corn-fed steers. Receipts at the Chicago stock yards at 5,700, including directs to packers, was well above average for a Thursday.

Montana feeding lambs were bought at $14.35, and selected range replacements were quoted up to $15.25, almost $2 higher than farmers were paid for fat lambs.

Hog receipts, at 8,500, were slightly above the average of the last six Thursdays, but the market remained extremely tight. Almost all offerings sold at the ceilings.

SQUARE D WILL DOUBLE PLANT IN MILWAUKEE

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—F. W. Magin, president of Square D company, said today the company had taken steps to double the size of the Milwaukee plant, which makes electric motor controls and other electrical equipment.

The plant, built in 1940 and enlarged in 1942, again will be expanded when plans are completed and materials and labor are available. A larger working force will be needed when additions are completed, Magin said.

CURTISS-WRIGHT A

I notice Curtiss-Wright corporation class A stock has been selling to yield about 10 per cent. What is the dividend outlook?—M. B.

The high yield, despite the company's large war time earnings, is attributed to uncertainties regarding the early peace time business and profits. The $2 preferential A dividend is noncumulative and therefore dependent on current earnings.

Over the long term Curtiss-Wright is expected to participate in aviation's growth trend, and the industry's civilian business is expected to be larger than before the war. Surpluses of the latest type engines and propellers may affect the company's sales adversely for a time. Its plane business during the war consisted of various types of military aircraft and large transports. For the peace time plane market it plans to concentrate on the Curtiss C-46 Commando transport.

The company's earning power prior to 1936 was unimpressive, and 1938 was the first year in which the A dividend rate was fully earned. Altho Curtiss-Wright was formed in 1929, the initial A dividend was not paid until 1936 and the full $2 rate has been paid only from 1939 on.

During the war, earnings as applied to the 1,158,702 A shares rose to a peak of $22.20 a share in 1941, and the low for the period was $11.12 a share in 1943. Last year the profit was $12.37. Net working capital increased from $8,772,000 in 1939 to $73,426,000 last Dec. 31, not including $25,601,000 excess profits tax refunds. There is no long term debt. Common stock consists of 7,432,039 shares.
